Lancaster honors top conservationists

BLUE BALL — The Lancaster County Conservation District paused Thursday night to honor the top conservationists for the past year.

Sharing honors were Francis and Ethel Kirk, of near Wakefield, the Outstanding Cooperators; individuals from ASCS and SCS cited for service and several groups who accomplished a storm water management project in Sadsbury Township.

And amidst this pause, featured speaker, State Ag Sec. Penrose Hallowell favorably predicted the survival of the small family farm that is characteristic of Lancaster County.

And, in somewhat of a couple of departures from the regular speech theme, Hallowell spoke briefly about the Narvon Mine and efforts to make the Farm Show "All-American-made."

—In answer to a question from the audience concerning the Pa. Department of Agriculture's position on the proposed hazardous waste dump for the Narvon Mine, Hallowell said:

"You can be sure we will protect the interests of agriculture."

He cited the land condemnation board that now exists that can take a look at the proposal to make certain that the proposed dump would not affect area agriculture and that there is not a better location for such a facility.

Hallowell qualified these statements by explaining that location of such facilities is one of

coming to Lancaster

LANCASTER — U.S. Sec. of Agriculture John Block is coming to Lancaster next month.

Block will be the keynote speaker at the open house for the new Purina Chow Plant in the Hempfield Industrial Park west of Lancaster on Friday, April 8. He is scheduled to speak about 11:30 a.m. at the plant, located off Rt. 30 at the Centerville Exit.

Pa. Extension hiring freeze beyond July 1?

LANCASTER — The current hiring freeze for Agricultural Extension personnel could well continue beyond July 1, Samuel Smith, Dean of Penn State's College of Agriculture, said on Wednesday.

"Right now, we have no plans for lifting the freeze on July 1," Smith said.

"If we don't get some good signs from Washington (concerning budget cuts) and there is no state budget, there's quite a good chance the freeze will continue."

Counties, such as Lebanon where Agent Newton Bair is retiring, are vitally interested in the hiring freeze and how long it may continue.

Prior to a scheduled Ag Week speech before the Lancaster Rotarey Club, Dean Smith discussed the depth of his concerns over fiscal problems that are looming for the College of Agriculture at Penn State and the Extension System throughout the Commonwealth.

He explained that formula funding from the Federal Government for ag research and

Hog, poultry farmers to feel PIK

Pennsylvania hog and poultry farmers are keeping a keen eye on the aftermath of PIK.

Their interest is not centered on those millions of idle acres, but the effect that those grainless fields will have on feed and production costs in the coming months.

Even before the government announced on Tuesday that 82.3 million acres will be taken out of production, the cash and futures grain markets had been feeling the effects of the expected record signup.

And when traders heard that more than one out of every three acres normally planted to major crops will lie idle this year, the upward swing in grain prices escalated.

Here's some examples:

The March 10 price on the futures market for May corn was $2.83 a bushel. It has since jumped more than 25 cents.

Soybeans futures were up about 50 cents a bushel.

And meal had risen more than $15.00 a ton.

And all of this will be reflected in feed to be used by area farmers and increase their production costs to finish each pound of pork, raise a broiler or produce a dozen eggs.

Irwin cites artichoke questions

LANCASTER — Farmers considering the planting of Jerusalem artichokes should ask themselves several questions before making any decision, cautions Jay W. Irwin, County Agricultural Agent.

"We have received many calls about this crop," Irwin said.

"We suggest that farmers ask themselves the following questions:

—Is there a guaranteed market for the product?

—What new machines will be required to plant and harvest the crop?

—Will this crop require additional labor?

—"Most importantly, how will this crop affect my good land?"

(Turn to Page A24)

Poultry operators, who have been walking a tightrope, will find their positions even more precarious.

And the hog farmers, who have had something of a profit margin lately, may find it harder to maintain those levels.

All of this concern is due to the position of Pennsylvania and the Northeast in general as a grain-deficit area. Much more is fed out here than is grown.

While the figures announced by the USDA have already caused widespread ripples throughout grain markets, there are some questions that will need to be answered as the full effect of all of those idle acres is felt.

Saying that the signups were beyond "my wildest expectations," Ag Sec. Block was already predicting drastic reductions in particularly corn and wheat crops this year.

There's no doubt that overall figures will be down, but it still remains to be seen how much.

While more than one-third of acres will be out of grain production, you can be sure that

Direct marketing

From farm

Pa. approves $250,000 in loans

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

HARRISBURG — Twelve low-interest loans totaling a quarter of a million dollars have been approved thus far in Pennsylvania's program to encourage direct marketing of Commonwealth farm products.

With the approval of the 12 loans, nearly three-quarters of a million dollars still remains in the revolving fund, which features an interest rate of four and a quarter percent this year.

The dozen initial loans are spread across the state and include a variety of direct farm marketing operations.

Two of the loans involve Lancaster County markets, including expansion of an existing diversified farm market and another that retails only apples on a 10-month basis.

The first loan involved a farm market in Armstrong County.

And the most unique market operation approved for a loan is a lamb and wool operation in Westmoreland County. In addition to the sale of meat, the operation is installing a blocking machine and will be selling wool products from the small flock associated with the market.

Presently, two or three applications are under consideration, according to Don Unangst, director of agricultural development for the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

"The fund was established last July with $987,000 in federal rural rehabilitation money that was not being used," Unangst explains.

"The funds were put into the direct farm market development program because we think it is one of the best ways for Pennsylvania farmers to sell their products."

In addition to Unangst, the program's board which reviews the loan applications includes Amos Funk, Tom Styer and Paul Konhaus, three well-known direct farm marketers in Pennsylvania and Eugene Wingert, of PDA's Office of Planning and Research.

The major requirement to apply for a loan is that the applicant must be engaged in an agricultural operation that produces a commodity that is sold at the farm market. The program encourages the sale of other Pennsylvania

Delmarva Poultry

Thursday, March 23

Report supplied by USDA

MARKET COMMENT: Ready to cook movement on whole birds is slow and disappointing. Call for parts is not much better and prices are negotiable as plants try to keep supplies from building up. Slaughter schedules are reduced in most quarters today with some down time and further reductions in kill planned for tomorrow. Live supplies are fully adequate and generally desirable weights. Undertone unsettled.

Today's L.T.L. asking prices are 2 cents lower on U.S. Grade A at 42-45 cents.

Estimated slaughter of broiler fryers in Delmarva (000).

Estimated 3/24 1,655; Actual 3/17 1,786; Actual 3/22 1,502; Average Weights 3/22 4.34; 3/15 4.34.

Philadelphia Eggs

Thursday, March 24

Report supplied by USDA

MARKET COMMENT: Prices unchanged, while movement has improved overall, orders remain mixed. Craters indicate some buyers are willing to take on additional inventory and are ordering fairly heavy, while others are cautious and orders have shown only slight increases. Jumbos are barely adequate. Large and extra large are in heavy supply but regarded as imbalanced with projected needs. Medium are irregular and longs and shorts are generally balanced locally. Smalls are tight and wanted with some interest spilling over to mediums as smalls are found only to limited degree in some areas of the mid-West. Some dealers note increased offerings of heavy weight nest runs from other production areas. Undertone steady.

A Extra Large 70-76; A Large 68-71; A Medium 59½-63.

Two Ways To Improve Your Profit Picture XL & DK

Two layers with distinctly different characteristics... From two separate research programs.

You don't have to buy from two different companies to get the two top layers on the market.

The XL shows excellent production under many management conditions. The DK responds best to finely tuned, close management.

DEKALB Layers are bred to possess the economic traits most applicable to your operation. You do have a choice... The high productivity XL or the high efficiency DK.

Is your pullet growing program contributing to a healthy bottom line?

Growing and developing a good pullet is a key factor in the success of your layer operation. The quality of the bird at the time her production cycle begins will greatly determine how efficient she will be during her period of lay.

Pennfield's pullet growing program will assure you a pullet ready to go into your layer house at 19 weeks of age. Pullets grown under Pennfield's supervision are carefully monitored from day of age to sexual maturity for body weight gain, uniformity, and general conditions throughout the entire growing period. As a result of these studies, we make proper adjustments in the nutrition and management program in order to produce a healthy flock with the desired body size and weight at sexual maturity. This careful management pays off in terms of improved laying hen performance.

A healthy pullet growing program means a faster return on your investment. Let us sit down with you and review yours. We can show you how to make it contribute to a better bottom line.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

MARCH 28-APRIL 3, 1983
 April's here, one of the best months of the year.
 Repair birdhouses now... Jesse Owens died March 31, 1980... Full moon March 28 (Mon.)... Average length of days for the week, 12 hours, 40 minutes... Pencil with eraser patented March 30, 1858... The musical Oklahoma opened in NYC March 31, 1943... Sixteen percent of all tornadoes occur this month... Friendship will not continue to the end which is begun for an end.

Ask the Old Farmer: I do repairs around the house and my problem involves using my hammer. What is the best way to hold it to keep from hitting my thumb? E.B., Albany, NY

There is one way, and only one, to hold your hammer so that you won't hit your thumb. Hang onto the handle with both hands.

Home Hints: A dough blender is a handy tool for chopping eggs.

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST
 New England: Cloudy and cold, with flurries, for the duration of the week.
 Greater New York-New Jersey: Very cold through midweek, seasonable with rain for weekend.
 Middle Atlantic Coastal: Flurries with severe cold most of week, clear and warm for week's close; rain at very end.
 Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Seasonable to start, then snowstorm and cold temperatures; clear and mild for week's end.

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

Does modern agricultural technology help or hurt the family farm?

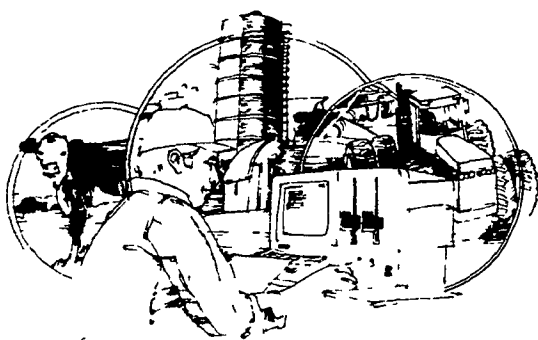

You can probably get arguments both ways.

There's no doubt that technology can improve efficiency and help in the economic survival. But on the other side of the coin, technology can encourage expansion and squeeze out some operations.

But let's look at modern ag technology in some real and human terms. Technology has helped bring generations together on the farm, spanning the gap between the two, and thereby aiding in the survival of the family farm.

I did quite a bit of traveling for Sperry New Holland a few years ago. Much of that time was spent chasing after Twin-Rotor combines, which were just being introduced in the U.S. and Canada, and talking with farmers who bought the first machines off the assembly line.

Rotary combining was a completely new innovation and farmers had to accept a new threshing principle. In many cases, these first TR owners were young farmers or older farmers with a younger generation actively in-involved in the farm. Usually, it was the younger generation that talked the older into trying it and before long both were equally sold on the idea.

But this is the way of youth. The young are more apt to innovate and accept new ideas. They don't have the fixed ways that come with age.

Today, we see a similar bringing together of farming generations through another innovation -- computers. Many high schools have them and more and more are right in the vo-ag classroom. Quite a few FFA'ers, I'm sure, have come home from school enthused with the new computer technology they're learning and using in the classroom.

And, quite likely, these FFA'ers will be involved in the decision of getting an on-farm computer and then will actually help in the instruction of the older generation in how to use it. And thus, another piece of modern ag technology will help weld together two generations on the farm.

And, it will help span the generation gap.

Perhaps, it might even help span the gap that's illustrated over the barn radio during milking time. Now, when a popular singing duo comes on, the younger generation immediately recognizes them as Hall 'N Oates. But to the older generation, it still sounds like the Disc Jockey is announcing someone who drives a feed truck and is "hauling oats."

To Wait Until Soil Dries

Many people are impatient about starting their field work in the spring. I would just like to encourage you not to start your field work when the soil is too wet. We had a real good snow melt-down in late February and early March along with some heavy rains over the last week, so the soil is very wet and soggy. It will take some wind, sun and time to dry out low-lying fields and gardens.

If the topsoil is worked when too wet and we get freezing temperatures, the soil will become mellow and work satisfactory; however, when worked too wet without any freezing temperatures, the soil will be hard and clumpy for the rest of the season. Let's give Mother Nature time to dry out the topsoil before working.

To Plan For New Seedlings

Early spring is the second best time to make new seedlings of grasses, or to renovate old sod. Late summer and early fall are the best times to do this work. However, if any seeding is to be done this spring, we suggest that it be done just as soon as the ground dries. Early seedlings have a better chance of getting established before hot, dry weather arrives.

If lawn areas are to be seeded, they can be mulched with straw, tobacco ribs, or muslin to hold the moisture and obtain quicker germination. Lime and fertilizer should be applied according to a complete soil test before the seeding is made. Extension publications are available to suggest grass varieties and seeding rates.

To Apply Poultry Manure Springly

With the large poultry population in this region, poultry manure is in good supply. Since poultry manure may contain from 15 pounds to nearly 50 pounds of nitrogen per ton, depending on moisture and litter content, over application can burn crops and result in disappointments. Gardeners should not be using heavy amounts of fresh poultry manure in their soils. On crop land it is recommended that poultry manure applications be limited to not more than 5 to 7 tons of 75% moisture content per acre. Keep in mind that some poultry manure may contain up to 50 pounds of nitrogen per ton and can burn seeds and crop roots.

Poultry manure is also the highest in phosphorus and potash content of any of our farm manures. It has excellent fertilizer value when used properly. The 1983-84 Agronomy Guide gives additional details about the fertilizer values of farm manures. The Agronomy Guide is available through the Extension Office for a $2 fee.

To Practice Safety

We are now in spring, and that brings heavy demands on field work. This includes the use of many different types of machinery which increases the potential for accidents. We urge farmers to take time to be safe; in many cases, haste has been the reason for farm accidents. When we are in a hurry we overlook safety measures and face additional hazards. There are three elements of safety... man, machine and environment. Controlling man is by far the most difficult, especially in farm safety.

Take time to be safe... otherwise you may be sorry for the rest of your life.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

March 27, 1983

Background Scripture: Isaiah 56: 3-8; Acts 6:8 through 8:40.

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 56:3-8.

There are times when I have wished that church life could somehow get back to "the good old days" when the church and the gospel were new in the world. As it is presented to us in the Book of Acts, the early church was exciting and dynamic and blessed with many evidences of the presence and power of Christ.

Of course, if you take a hard look at those "good old days" in the early chapters of Acts, you'll find that, apart from the people's dependence upon the power of God, the only thing that was consistent in the infant church was the experience of constant change.

THE LORD ADDED TO THEIR NUMBER

It is easy to want to go back to those days just following the resurrection when the tiny group of followers could meet together in the upper room. But it wasn't long until the Day of Pentecost had come and the tiny little fellowship quickly became a growing movement that was composed of lots of "outsiders." And, according to Luke, "the Lord added to their number day by day those who were being saved" (Acts 2:47). That's no way to keep a church cozy and harmonious!

Then it wasn't long until the apostolic set-up was shaken by charges of unfair distribution of food supplies.

That brought more changes: a board of deacons to handle the serving of tables. Unfortunately, two of them, Philip and Stephen, didn't follow the plan and they brought more changes by insisting on preaching and teaching the work. In fact, Stephen's meddling in preaching brought down persecution upon the whole church and that brought even more changes: "And on that day a great persecution arose against the church in Jerusalem; and they were all scattered throughout the region of Judea and Samaria, except the apostles" (Acts 8:1). More change! Why couldn't they leave well enough alone?

NOT "OUR KIND"

But now came what was to be the biggest change of all: outsiders — non-Jews — were starting to infiltrate the church and who knows how long before they take over! First of all, there were Samaritans who were beginning to respond to the good news of Christ. Certainly no good could come of that. Then, Philip (if only he'd stuck to waiting on tables!) won over an Ethiopian and opened yet another door. How long would it be before the outsiders had taken over their church?

We may look for a return to "the good old days" of the church, but we need to realize that from the beginning of the church of Jesus Christ was in a constant state of change and the winning of outsiders was all part of the plan. What made them "good old days" was not their static security, but the throbbing power of God's Holy Spirit that constantly was moving the church to daily find new ways of living out the gospel of Jesus Christ.

If we understand that, then we can make today and tomorrow the "good old days" that God intends them to be.

Dump milk?

I am writing concerning the $1.00/cwt. dairy deduction. After considering that plan, it is highly unlikely that farmers would decrease production. They need every cent to meet their bills. An increase in production would be more likely.

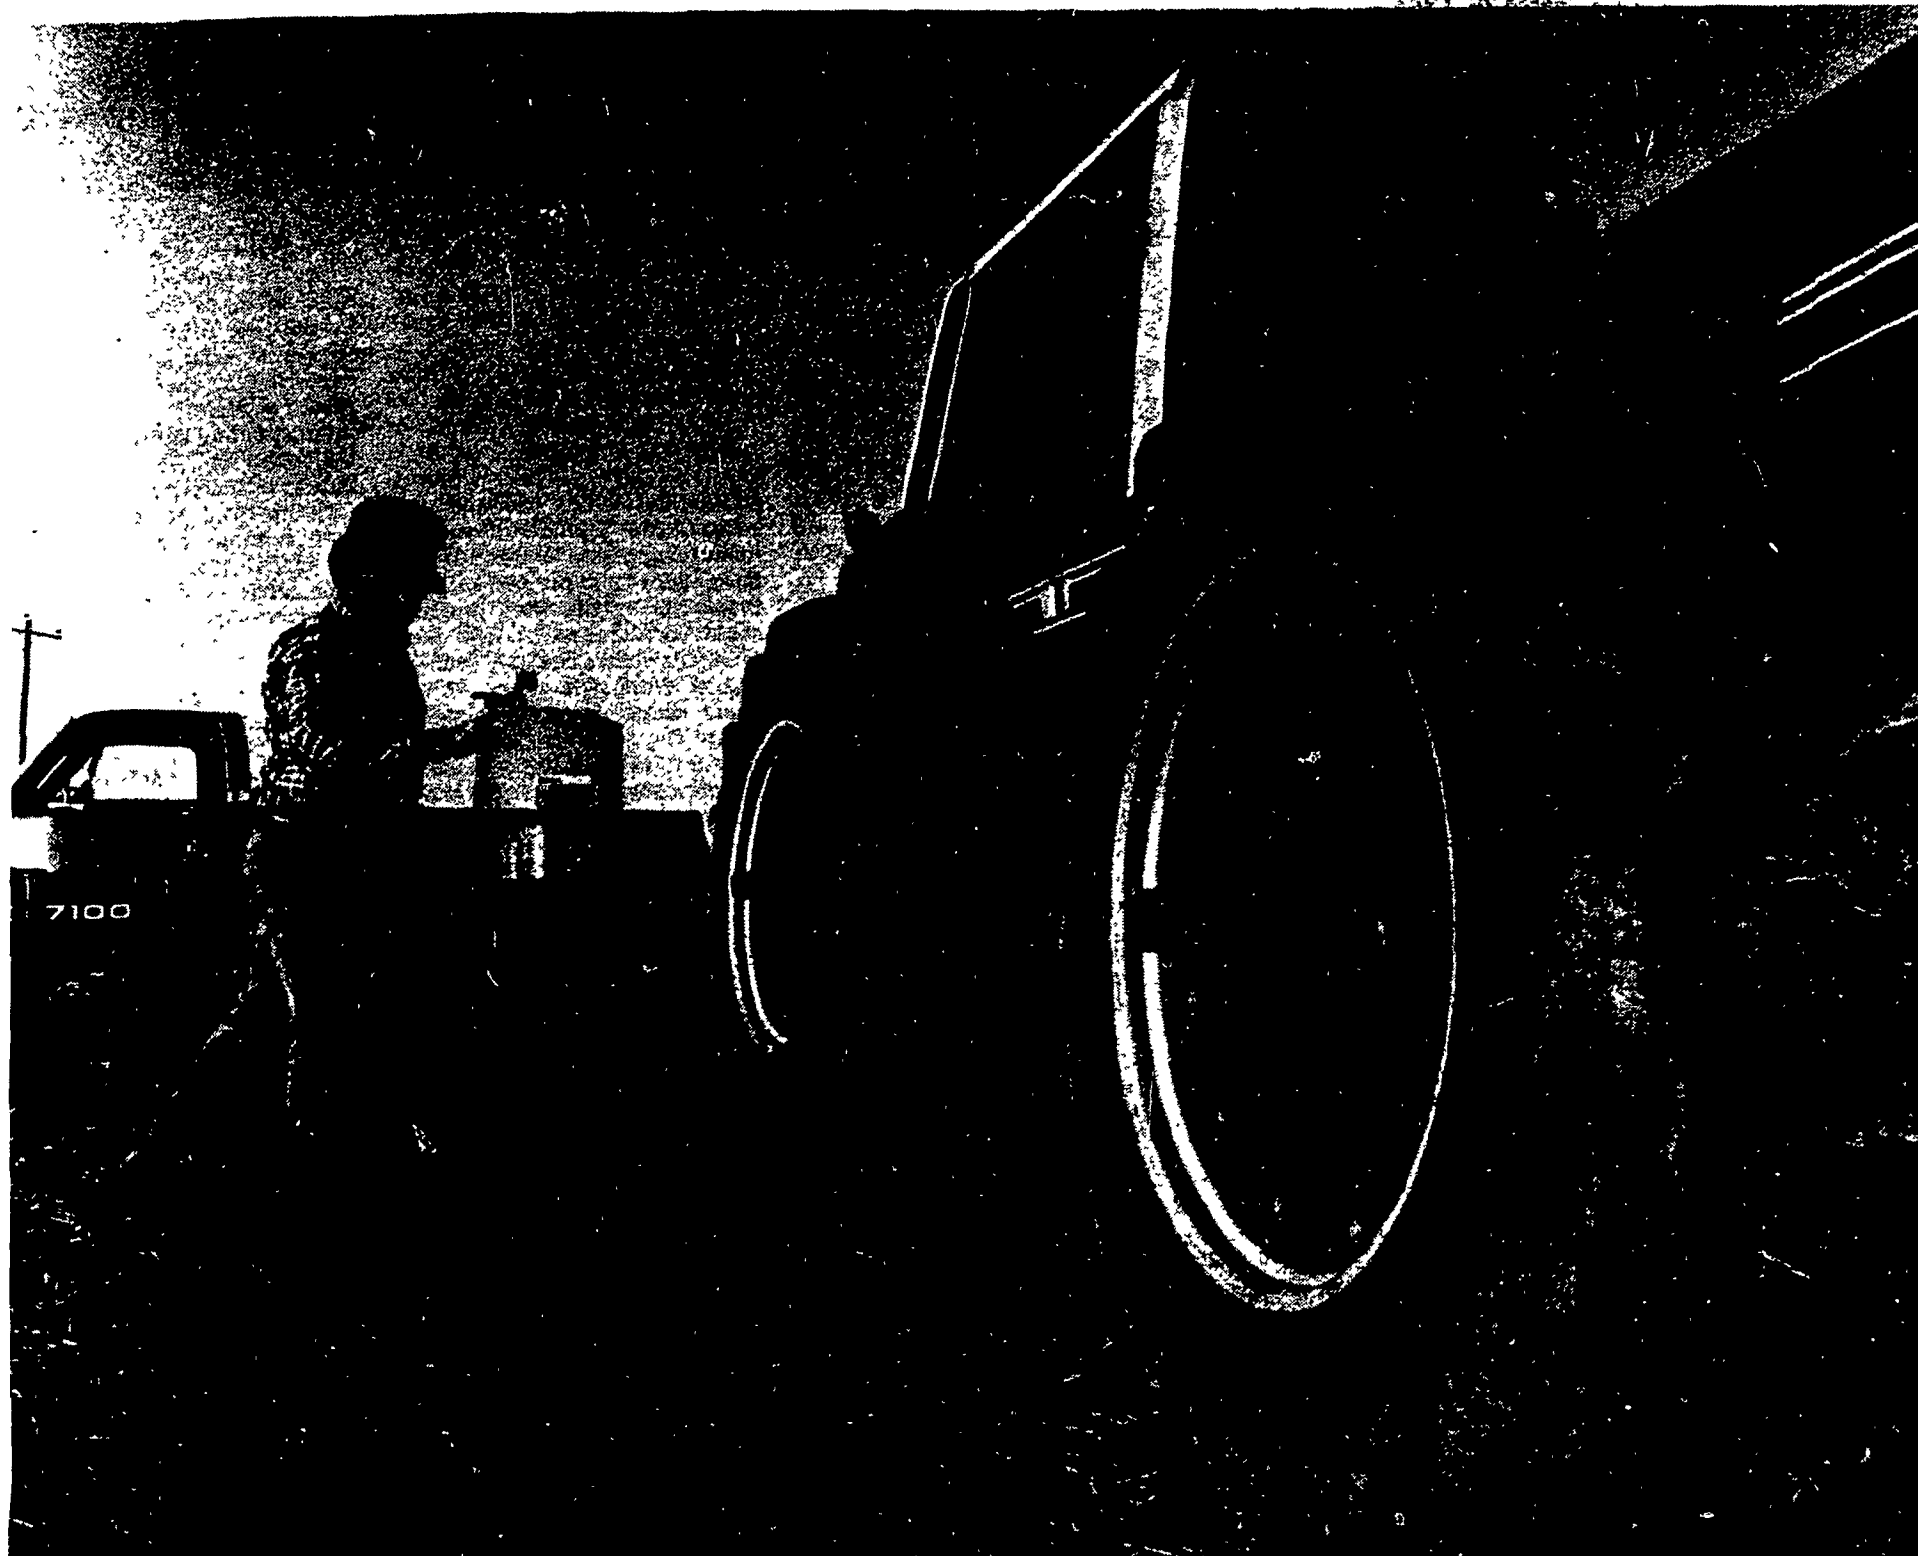

Please consider the following two ideas:

Instead of spending money storing cheese, powdered milk, etc., use the money to start a program that would allocate it to Double-Duty Bicep.

Weed and grass control you can believe in without tank mixing.

Now...when you're trying for the best return and you're looking for every possible way to improve your efficiency...look to Bicep.[®] Because it's the economical herbicide that gives you both control and convenience. Bicep gives you long control of broadleaf weeds and grasses. Without the trouble of tank mixing.

And now, when you might want to stay flexible, Bicep lets you either surface apply or preplant incorporate. It's safe to corn. It lets you rotate to soybeans without carryover problems. And for more convenience, Bicep is available in Farm-PakSM bulk...so you can cover more ground easily.

Now...when you need efficiency and control you can believe in, look to Bicep.

Omaha Cattle Thursday, March 24

Report supplied by USDA

Compared to last week's close, Slaughter Steers and Heifers .50-1.00 higher, advance coming at early week. Slaughter Cows firm to 1.00 higher. Slaughter Bulls steady.

Early advances in dressed beef prices and a good demand were prominent factors for higher prices on Monday, but by mid-week, declines in dressed beef prices turned most buyers on the cautious side. However, a few plants were in need of cattle for immediate requirements and on Tuesday and Wednesday, these plants were forced to buy at prices equivalent to Monday's advance. Steers comprised 44 pct. of the week's receipts, Heifers 35 pct., Cows 10 pct. and Feeders 10 pct.

the lower income people, such as Social Security recipients, unemployed and those with gross incomes under $10,000.

The idea is similar to the Wick check program, which gives so much milk, cheese, cereal etc. to mothers and children under 5 years. A card would allow a family one gallon of milk per week per person, two lbs. of cheese per month per person and two lbs. of butter per month per person. Also, the limits on the Wick program could be increased in the dairy area. The child's age limit could be moved from five years to six years, since most children are six before they are on the school lunch program. We'd have a healthier nation, a lower milk surplus and be helping those in need.

The real problem is the extra milk, not the paying of the $13/cwt. for the milk. Let's look what would happen if a farmer would dump one 100-cwt. tank of milk per month at $13/cwt. He would have approximately 14 milk pickups for the month (14X$13X100=$18,200). If the deduction goes through, the farmers would get less money even with a whole month of pickups (15X$12X100=$18,000). This would help cut down on the surplus milk. The farmer would be making out a bit better than with the dairy deduction.

Please, consider these ideas. They won't solve the whole surplus milk problem but would help.

NEW!

Heavy-Duty Wire Floor—

33% Heavier
Wire For Twice
The Floor Life!

Compare our new heavy-duty #3 gauge wire to #5 gauge. It's 60% stronger... 60% stiffer. That means less flexing and fewer supports. And the larger wire surface results in fewer abrasions to your pigs.

The Best Flooring Value

This heavier #3 gauge flooring will give you twice the life of standard flooring. Yet it costs only slightly more. It's perfect for new installations or as replacement.

Pa. Farmers Union to sue Block over milk tax

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania Farmers Union's executive director, Carl Kaufman, has announced that his organization will file suit against USDA Secretary John Block, in federal circuit court, several days before USDA intends to begin collecting the gross receipts tax from dairy farmers.

Farmers Union will petition for a new injunction against USDA's collection of the 50 cents per hundredweight levy, which is scheduled to become effective April 18.

Kaufman said he anticipates that several other producer groups may join Farmers Union as co-plaintiffs in the suit. Considering the cost of litigation, Kaufman, said, Farmers Union welcomes additional plaintiffs, either silent or on the record.

Secretary Block's most recent announcement is to the effect that USDA will begin by collecting only the first 50 cents. Collection of the second 50 cents per hundredweight will be delayed, according to Block, to give Congress time to adopt more appropriate legislation. USDA plans to start levying the second 50 cents by late summer if the matter has not been resolved by the Congress by Aug. 1.

After the South Carolina federal court issued an injunction against USDA's earlier collection attempts, because of flaws in the agency's pre-collection public notice and invitation for public comments, USDA started over, redoing the required preliminary procedure.

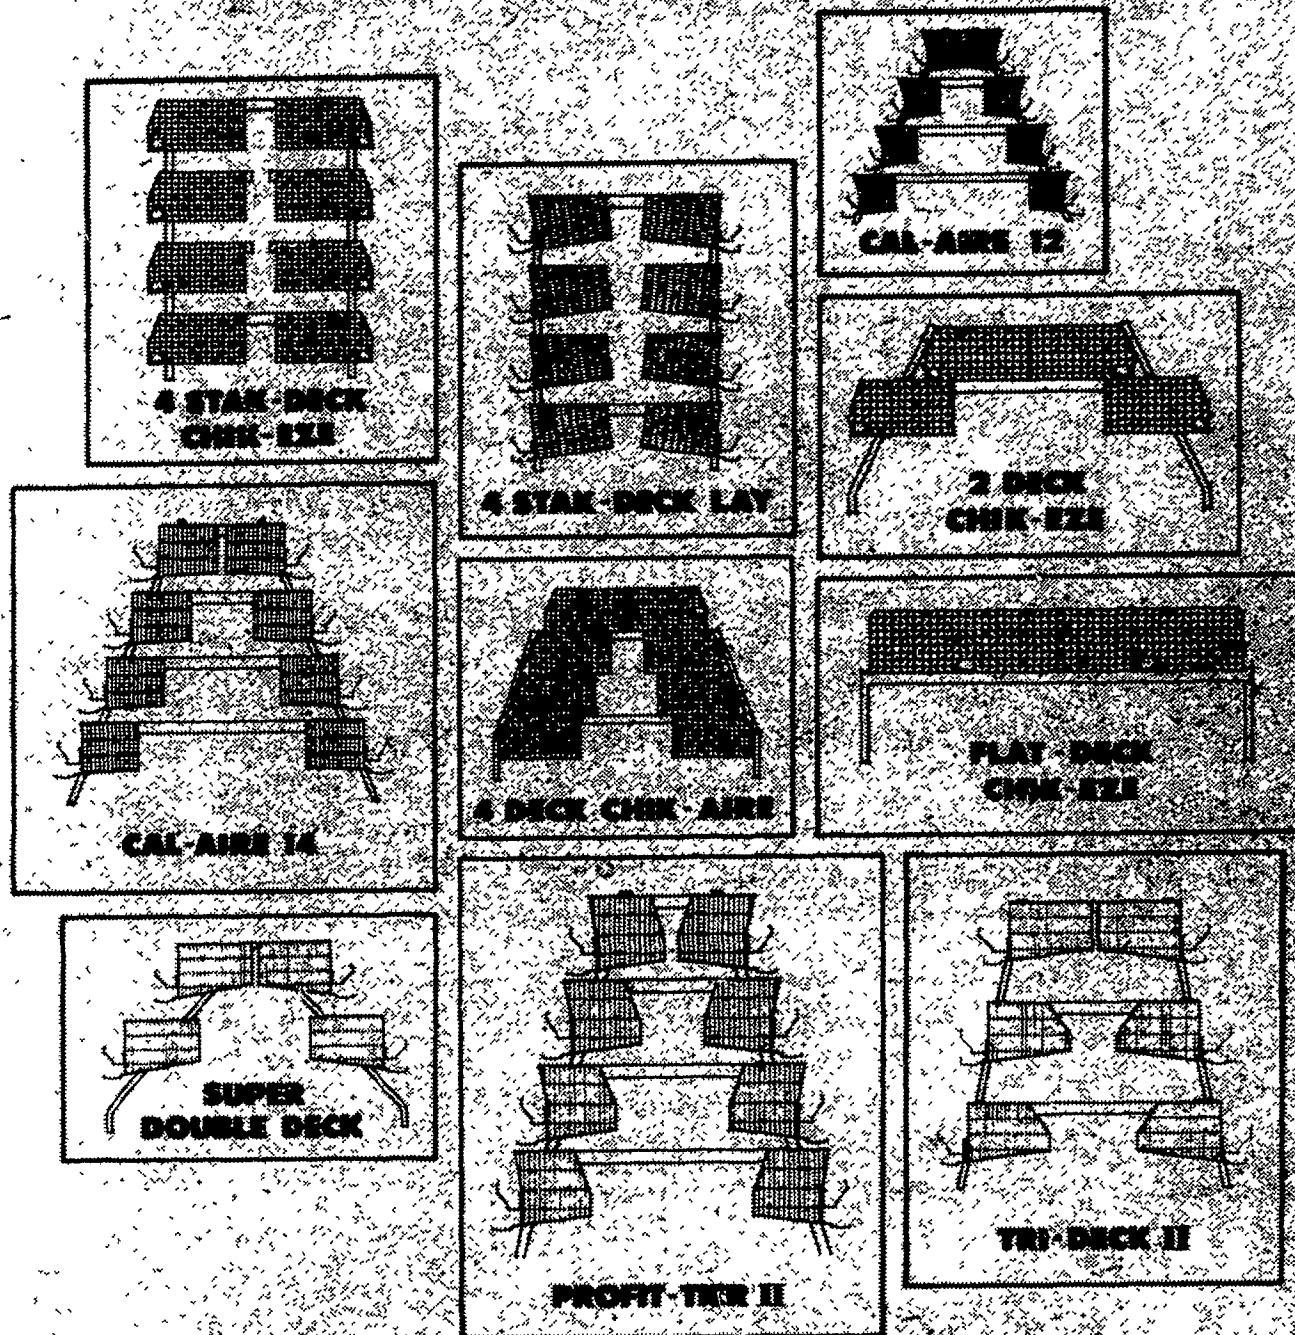

Farmers Union organized in Washington with 50 members from Pennsylvania joining dairy farmers from across the nation who visited members of Congress on Tuesday and Wednesday to urge that Congress replace the present law with a measure recently introduced by Congressman James Oberstar (D. Minn.). Oberstar's bill would establish a base price of 70% of parity which would be guaranteed to producers who reduce their production by the amount specified by USDA (a uniform percentage reduction for all producers). Those producers who refuse to reduce production, or worse, insist on increasing their production, would be subject to progressive deductions from their milk checks.

Eckel calls for local tax reform

CAMP HILL — Keith Eckel, president of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association, Monday night urged the General Assembly to support a proposal to reform local taxes.

Speaking at PFA's annual legislative banquet at the Penn Harris Motor Inn, Eckel discussed the need for property tax reform and other legislative proposals that affect agriculture.

About 400 PFA members spent the day meeting with state lawmakers to gain support on a variety of ag-related issues.

Citing a need for tax reform, Eckel, a Lackawanna County dairy farmer and vegetable grower, told the banquet gathering, "At present, farmers pay a disproportionate share of taxes when it comes to financing our school systems. They pay nearly seven percent of their taxable income versus about three percent for the non-farm citizen. Our policy calls for a combination of a locally-levied flat-rate income tax and property tax to finance our schools. The rate and proportion of taxes would be at the discretion of the local taxing authority. Our policy does not call for no taxes...it calls for equality."

Eckel said PFA will support a proposal recently introduced in the General Assembly which would reduce reliance on property taxes, eliminate most nuisance taxes and permit school districts and local governments to levy a limited personal income tax.

Eckel also urged lawmakers to support a proposed amendment to the Clean and Green Act so that farmers who are enrolled in the use value assessment program can split off up to two acres for use in agriculturally related commercial activities, such as farm markets, without being subject to rollback tax penalties.

Another item of interest to farmers, Eckel said, is stronger environmental protection from oil and gas well drilling. PFA supports the basic provisions of Senate Bill 402 to improve regulatory control in this area. The bill calls for plugging of abandoned gas and oil wells, estimated to number as many as 500,000. Eckel noted a study committee to the Department of Environmental Resources put the cost of plugging wells between $3,000 and $12,000 each.

"There are some people who feel the landowner should be held responsible for plugging the wells. That's absurd and almost impossible," Eckel said. Some farmers own land containing many long-abandoned wells for which they received no benefit. "The Commonwealth must take financial responsibility for plugging these wells, not the private landowners," Eckel told the legislators. He also called for strict enforcement of licensing provisions for oil and gas exploration to insure soil and water conservation at drilling sites.

Eckel also told the gathering that PFA will be supporting legislation to be introduced later this year to permit farmers to negotiate as a group with buyers for prices and other terms of sale.

Tractor is an appropriate means of transportation for Governor Thornburgh as he arrives to sign Ag Day proclamation Monday at PFA legislative conference.

Newt Bair to retire but not stop learning

BY TRISH WILLIAMS

LEBANON — After eleven years of outstanding service to the agricultural community in Lebanon County, Newton Bair will retire Thursday from his position as County Agricultural Agent.

Bair, a Penn State graduate, gained wide acceptance among local farmers. This is probably because of his reserved nature and practical farming background, having farmed himself for many years.

It was not until his three children had completed their college degrees that Bair left the farm to pursue his own dream of a college education. Selling their herd of registered Holsteins and renting out their York County farm, Bair and his wife, Priscilla, packed up for State College. Bair pursued his degree just like a farm job. Going year round, he obtained his bachelors degree in agronomy in two and a half years and went straight through another year and a half to get his masters degree in soil chemistry.

Upon graduating from Penn State, Bair accepted the Lebanon County agricultural agent position, and has been there ever since, with the exception of a two-year leave in 1975-76. During these two years Bair was part of a team of agriculturalists working in the Bahamas on a Penn State project to develop local agriculture.

Bair was stationed on Andros, the largest of the Bahamian islands with only 8000 residents and good agricultural potential. The Penn State group established an experimental station and trained personnel on all levels, from field labors to supervisors, to take over the station after its formation.

"One major goal of the project was to upgrade the livestock on the island," said Bair. "We introduced Santa Gertrudis cattle and they did very well there, but first we had to introduce good forage species for pasture and hay. We managed to get excellent stands of legume forages and good tropical forages growing there. Then, it was easy to introduce the livestock."

After completion of the two-year project Bair returned to Lebanon and the experimental station was turned over to the Bahamian government and the personnel he had trained.

Here in Pennsylvania, Bair has been instrumental in the success of numerous agricultural projects, but in his low-key way he stresses the efforts and accomplishments of the farmers he has worked with in these projects. Bair is especially proud of the recent recognition of master farmers in Lebanon County.

"For 37 years, Lebanon County never had a Master Farmer and I could never quite understand that since we have some of the state's best farmers," said Bair. "None were ever recognized, so several years ago, I started to encourage some of them to get involved in the program. The last two years we have had farmers recognized. In 1981, it was Hershey Bare and last year Harold and Donald Bollinger were recognized," Bair proudly explained.

Local members of Pennsylvania Alfalfa Growers have also profited from Bair's expertise and involvement with their organization. High yields of top quality alfalfa have earned area farmers state and national recognition because, as Bair describes it, they went all out to do a good job. Bair claims this was one of his pet projects, and found it very rewarding.

In 1973, Bair and several co-workers put together a demonstration project for Ag Progress Days showing methane collection from cow manure.

"It's not that we invented anything new," claimed Bair. "We simply put together a project that worked and that opened people's eyes to getting a combustible fuel from manure without destroying the value of the manure as fertilizer."

The demonstration project drew inquiries from across the country and eventually led to a $70,000 research grant to Penn State to study methane collection from manure.

More recently, Bair is probably best known for his work with computers. Others of the same age may shy away from these space age inventions, but for Bair they are just one more example of his commitment to life-long learning and his ability to master the machines of modern man.

Several years ago, Lebanon County installed an Apple II plus, microcomputer. Bair's keen interest in microcomputers was instrumental in its acquisition. He has worked with other staff members, familiarizing them with its uses and operation.

An owner of a home computer, Bair has written many programs and plans to continue to work with microcomputers in his retirement. Although he finds them fascinating, he does not presently plan to pursue them for a livelihood.

Bair and wife, Priscilla, hope to be able to take more time to visit

Ayrshire Breeders honor FFA youth

BY TRISH WILLIAMS

CARLISLE — The Pennsylvania Ayrshire Breeders Association named Heather Hernley, Outstanding FFA Ayrshire Youth in Pennsylvania, at its annual meeting held here Saturday at the Embers Convention Center.

The Association also elected officers for the coming year. The newly elected officers are: Harold C. Radar, president; John E. Ocker III, vice president; and Milton Brubaker, secretary-treasurer. The new directors include: Richard Lyons, Wilda Kline, Cleatus Rhodes, Curt Sweinhart, Harold Kulp and Gregory Kilmer. Sire committee members are Earl Keefer and Harold Kulp. Youth committee members are, Barbara Radar, John E. Ocker III, Sandra Shetlerly and, Harold Kulp.

Ms. Hernley is the daughter of Delmas and Mary Hernley of Lebanon. She is in her junior year at Northern Lebanon High School, her FFA advisor is J. Ray Bickle. A FFA member for three years, she also won the Star Chapter Farmer award this year. Heather purchased her first Ayrshire calf ten years ago from Jonestead Farms, she now owns ten head. This year she had the reserve Sr. champion and reserve grand champion of the junior show at the Pa. Farm Show. She has been a 4-H member for eight years and is active in many school and community youth groups.

Guest speaker, Peter Davis, executive secretary of the National Ayrshire Breeders Association addressed the afternoon session on concerns at the national level. Davis is stationed at the national office in Brandon, Vermont. He said the association had considered moving its headquarters to Columbus, Ohio, where the Guernsey and Jersey associations are headquartered, but has decided to remain in Brandon, because the move would not have been feasible. It plans to sell the building it is housed in, taking a long term lease for the 3500 square feet it requires. Davis said the association decided it was in the purebred cattle business not the real estate business.

Due to personnel changes, said Davis, the association is seeking a new classifier and a new field representative.

Davis also informed breeders about the Genetic Recovery Program. The purpose for establishing GR is to provide a procedure for grade Ayrshires and their offspring, to become eligible for Herd Registry.

The GR program will add genetically to the breed and provide a broader base from which to expand and grow. By enrolling animals in a three generation upgrading program, the third generation is eligible for Herd Book acceptance. GR is a joint program with the Purebred Registry Center (Guernsey and Jersey) and the GR agents for all breeds can assist in starting a GR program.

Youth Committee Chairperson, Barbara Radar, reported on the year's youth activities. According to Mrs. Radar, a total of 65 Ayrshires were shown by 53 exhibitors, at the Pa. Junior Dairy Show in September. The association sponsored the milk records contest at the show, and plans to continue this program.

The association presented the following trophies to junior exhibitors: seven grand champions and 4 reserve grand champions at 4-H district shows, five grand champions and one reserve grand champion at FFA district shows. Twenty-two youths recieved a $25 award from the association for completing their first year calf project in 4-H or FFA.

The Pennsylvania Association will host the National Ayrshire Breeders Association Convention in 1986. The state group has already started planning for this event. A location is being sought in the Lancaster, Harrisburg, or Hershey area that will accomodate the convention and sale. These locations will allow easy access by national visitors to the state's number one Ayrshire herd, the Androssan family, owned by Mrs. Hopescott of Villa Nova.

Milton Brubaker reported on the Young Sire Program. The committee is presently working with Atlantic Breeders Cooperative, but is willing to work with any stud interested in the program. Brubaker said they are looking for new young bulls and bull mothers.

Also being sought is a location for this year's Ayrshire Field Day.

Members voted to make donations to the following: County Agents National meeting in Pennsylvania in 1985, Penn State Dairy Science Club and, Delaware Valley College of Science and Agriculture.

Pa. Jersey Club honors Meryl Sheaffer

By ROBIN PHILLIPS
Staff Correspondent
CHAMBERSBURG — Well-known and well-liked by everyone, Meryl H. Sheaffer, R5 Carlisle, was honored with the "Distinguished Service award" by the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club at their annual meeting in Chambersburg, this past weekend.

Sheaffer, a past Jersey breeder, currently spends his time transporting cattle throughout the states. The award was presented by Merle Miller, long-time friend and fellow Jerseyman, stating:

"He is forever helping people buy and sell," and is well-known and appreciated for his "outstanding work in promoting the Jersey breed."

Sheaffer has owned many outstanding Jerseys in the past and his herd once stood at the top for highest classified herd in Pennsylvania. A past milk tester, Sheaffer has also been a PDCA approved judge and has an excellent eye for a good cow in any breed. A member of Centerville Lutheran Church, Sheaffer has also served as a Civil Defense Director, Representative to the State Farm Show Commission, fire chief, and a forest fire warden in his community. He has been a director of the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club, and has worked for Jersey Marketing Service at many national and state sales.

He has always been supported by his wife, Rema, and has one daughter and two sons. His oldest son, Tom, well-known for his top Holstein herd, is the sixth generation on the family farm.

Known affectionately as "Sheaff", he is in big demand, and has trucked many of the top cows and bulls of the breed. From his colorful stories of stopping every few hours to water or milk a heavy producer on a 3x milking schedule to his tale of using a motel trash can to water heifers on the back of his pickup, breeders know that when Sheaffer transports their animals, their stock gets the best care possible.

A traveler might pass Sheaffer driving his pickup with cattle box on back, or in his dashing blue mini-tractor truck with stock trailer attached and know he is trucking the future hopes of a young breeder, the best bred stock of a consignor, or the top-selling animal in a sale.

"No person spends more time promoting Jersey," Merle Miller stated as he presented the award. "Sheaff", in turn, received a thundering round of applause from all the breeders he has helped throughout the years.

Sharing the top honors of the day with Sheaffer, was Spring Run Jersey Farm, owned and operated by G. Richard Moose, and his son, Gerald, Rt.2, New Wilmington. With his herd of 77 plus registered Jerseys, the Moose families received a trophy for "High Herd for Milk" with a 1982 average of 13,974 lbs.; "High Herd in Fat", with a 4.9% butterfat test, 681 lbs.; and "High Herd for Protein", with 543 lbs. protein. Also receiving individual honors was their two-year-old-Jersey, "Vivian", with the highest record for fat for her age with 2-11 305 days 14,394 lbs. milk, 5.3% test, and 794 lbs. fat. With the Spring run animals often topping national and state sales, these high producers are milked in a stanchion barn and are expertly managed by Moose and his son as they closely monitor feeding and herd health.

Receiving honors for the "High Herd in Milk (1-49 cows)" was the herd of Lucinda Lane with 22 cows, 12,824 lbs. milk, 4.1% test, and 523 lbs. fat and the herd of Paul and Marvin Herr, R1 Holtwood, with 40 cows, 12,351 lbs. milk, 4.6% test, and 563 lbs. fat.

The "High Herd for Fat" (1-49 cows) was the Top-O-Hill herd of Mildred Seeds, Downingtown, with 12 cows at 12,113 lbs. milk, 5.1% test, 615 lbs. fat. These high producers were also recognized as being the highest classified herd in Pennsylvania for 1982.

Individual award certificates also went to the highest cows in each age group. Highest Senior Yearling in milk, Irene, is owned by Eugene and Brian Harris, Milan, with 1-10 305 days 13,542 lbs. milk, 4.2% , 568 lbs. fat. Walebe Farms, Collegeville, took the honors for the highest 2-year-old in milk, with 2-11 305 days, 16,852 lbs. milk, 3.9% 657 lbs. fat, the highest 5 year old in milk, with 5-09 305 days, 19,345 lbs. milk, 3.7% test, and 719 lbs. fat, the highest 7 year old in milk with 7-00 305 days, 21,001 lbs. milk, 4.3% test, 863 lbs. fat, the highest 9 year old in milk with 9-03 305 days, 17,588 lbs. milk, 4.3% test, 749 lbs. fat, and also had the highest cow for protein with 7-00 305 days, 21,002 lbs. milk 4.1% test, and 863 lbs. fat with 753 lbs. protein.

Robert Ulrich, Jr., R1 Quarryville, also had several leaders in their respective age groups, including "Debbie", high 3 year old for milk with 3-02 305 days, 19,768 lbs. milk, 4.3% test, 856 lbs. fat; "Jersey", high 4-year-old for milk with 4-07 305 days, 20,960 lbs. milk, 4.3% test, 907 lbs. fat and "Florence", high senior yearling in fat with 1-11 305 days, 12,850 lbs. milk, 5% test, and 647 lbs. fat. His cows, Debbie and Jessy were also the high cows for fat in their age group.

Rounding out the awards was "Jamie", owned by John Vanderstappen, Greenville, as high 5-year-old for fat with 5-02 305 days, 18,556 lbs. milk, 5.1% test, and 951 lbs. fat; and "Star", owned by

Jersey calf sale averages $580

SHIPPENSBURG — Demand was strong and bidding competitive as the 12 outstanding consignments to the PJCC Annual Calf Sale on last Saturday averaged $580. The 12 successful buyers, 4-Hers or adults gave evidence to the fact that dairymen can see a need for a higher quality product and towards the future of protein premiums as they purchased these stylish, well-bred calves varying from 3 to 8-months-old. The sale was held on the farm of Paul Gsell, Shippensburg, and the rain did not deter the crowd, which numbered over 100 people.

The top selling calf was a daughter of Vauclose Sleeping Surville. Consigned by Wallace and Sara Mellott, Harrisonville, this September calf featured a well-bred maternal line with records up to 15,589 lbs. milk and test up to 5.9%. "Wallymae Sleeping Cannas" was purchased by James R. Ulrich, New Oxford, for a final bid of $800.00. Ulrich, a representative for Select Sires, stated that he already owned one Jersey and needed this one to keep her company.

Second high selling animal of the sale was a September calf consigned by Wayne Stiles, Westminster, Maryland. Bringing $775.00, "Samson Molly", was sold to Cecil M. Lohr, R1, Stoytown, who also was successful with a bid of $700.00 to take home the consignment of Robert and Helene Dreisbach.

Other consignments bringing $700.00 or more were a December daughter of "Briarcliffs Soldier Boy", consigned by Paul Gsell, Shippensburg, and selling to Dena L. Horst, Chambersburg, and an October daughter of "B.S. Noble Superb", consigned by Lester Martin, Chambersburg, and selling to Erick T. Horst, Chambersburg.

"Pine Mountain Chocolate Ashley", a stylish black, September calf consigned by David and Florence Robinson, sold for $640.00 to Jere Shertzer, Lancaster. Robinsons are donating half the proceeds from their calf to the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club - 1985 National Meeting fund, at which time the PJCC will be the hosts for Jersey breeders throughout the nation.

All breeders were well pleased with the services of Paul Sensenig, Shippensburg, who auctioneered the event. His first time helping the PJCC, Sensenig was assisted by Doug Reinhart, Chambersburg, who read pedigrees.

CHAMBERSBURG — "We're a youth-oriented organization and we're proud of them", stated PJCC President, Robert Robison, Coal Center, as he relinquished the podium to the juniors for the Youth Awards Program at the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club.

Earning the top award of the day, the Robert H. Olmstead Trophy, was Patricia Dreisbach, R3 Hamburg. The oldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert G. Dreisbach, Miss Dreisbach has extensive achievements in 4-H and owns several high producing Jerseys. Youth advisor, Denise Kneller, R3 Troy, and Karla Martin, Chambersburg, presented the awards to the outstanding juniors. Juniors receiving cash prizes in the production contest (records are converted to M.E. dollar value) and the first place award of the Jacob M. Brunges Memorial Trophy are the following:

First - Helen Arrowsmith, R1 Peach Bottom with "Ellen" 3-01 305 16,705m 4.5% 759f; m.e. dollar value - $2,875.03.

Second - Jay Clark, R1 Enon Valley, with "Mercury Aspen" 2-01 305 14,615 4.6% 678f; m.e. dollar value - $2,654.99.

Third - Jason Robison, R1, Coal Center, with "Kathy" 4-02 305 17,238m 5% 861f; m.e. dollar value - $2,652.80.

Fourth - Lisa Lusk, R2 Charleroi, with "Gentle" 1-10 305 13,471m 4.2% 567f; m.e. dollar value - $2,546.37.

Fifth - Michelle Lusk, R2, Charleroi, with "Peanut" 5-04 305 16,915m 4.4% 736f; m.e. dollar value - $2,540.86.

Sixth - Carol Dreisbach, R3 Hamburg, with "Christmas Carol" 3-01 304 14,015m 4.6% 645f; m.e. dollar value - $2,228.62.

Seventh - Patricia Dreisbach, R3 Hamburg with "Honey" 1-11 305 10,949m 5% 547f; m.e. dollar value - $2,226.37.

Eighth - Thomas Clark, R1 Enon Valley, with "Spark" 3-03 305 13,461m 4.8% 652f; m.e. dollar value - $2,196.36.

Ninth - Chris Curtis, Columbus, with "Jenny" 8-02 305 14,946m 4.5% 678f; m.e. dollar value - $2,182.04.

Tenth - Tammy Clark, R1 Enon Valley, with "Susie" 1-09 305 9,900 4.8% 478f; m.e. dollar value - $2,140.14.

In order to earn money for their annual summer seminar, Junior Social, and Kentucky All-American trip, in addition to setting aside funds for the youth program for the National Meeting in 1985, Jersey juniors will be busy selling Jersey stationery designed by PJCC member, Doris Hough, Peach Bottom; Jersey license plates, and calf raffle tickets. The drawing for a well-bred, registered heifer calf, to be donated by Robert & Helene Dreisbach, R3 Hamburg, will be held at the annual state sale in September. Any of these items are available by contacting any Jersey junior or Denise Kneller, (717) 297-4303, Karla Martin (717) 375-4367, 4367.

New officers of the Pennsylvania Jersey youths club were chosen with Patricia Dreisbach selected President; Jay Clark, Vice President; Jody Minor, Secretary; and Sara Arrowsmith, News Reporter.

The youth program of the PJCC is greatly supported by the Jersey breeders and there were contests and awards available for qualifying youth that had no entries. Any interested 4-H'er or youth owning a Jersey or wishing to own one should contact the youth advisors for more information - R.P.

Pickard speaks at PFA banquet

BY TRISH WILLIAMS

GUTHRIESVILLE — In a brief, but upbeat speech, James Picard, secretary of the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce, addressed the Chester-Delaware County Farmers Association at its annual spring banquet, Tuesday evening.

Speaking at the Guthriesville Fire Hall, Pickard said the Commerce Department realizes the importance of agriculture to the state. With one out of every five workers in Pennsylvania involved with some phase of agriculture, the department is trying to become more aware of agriculture's needs. Pickard said he was instructed by Governor Thornburgh to work closely with the Secretary of Agriculture to increase exports of Pennsylvania's agricultural products. He reported that Sec. Hallowell came back from his recent promotional trip with 70 firm inquiries for Pennsylvania agricultural products.

A Lancaster County resident and businessman, Pickard likened the economic atmosphere to the climatic atmosphere. Success of a farm business depends on a good business environment as well as good weather, he said. The climate should be balanced and stable. He is calling for a balanced approach, and said the department is trying to encourage a favorable business environment for farmers.

Robert Mast, vice president, conducted the meeting, in the absence of president, Albert Bartels who was hospitalized for a blood clot in his leg.

State legislators and other guests were introduced by Harold Kuip, who also reported on the state PFA tour to Washington, D.C., earlier this month. Lee Brown reported on a recent tour of PFA members to Harrisburg. The group met with legislators from the two counties and discussed the a proposal to transfer some of the real estate tax burden to the income tax.

Chairman of the Women's Committee, Denise Wilkinson, reported the Ladies Day Out held last week was a success. She said there are still two openings for the youth conference to be held in June at Bucknell University.

Don Missimer, PFA regional director, encouraged others to bring in new members, he would like to see a better membership representation of the county's mushroom farmers. There are presently 729 members in the two county group.

Bartels sent word through Mast, of his concern for awareness of the proposal for the Octorara Creek to receive scenic designation. Representative, Arthur D. Hershey was present and able to answer questions members raised on what effect it would have on those who farm along the creek.

Chemical use safety tips given UNIVERSITY PARK — Chemical fertilizers have increased crop yields many-fold, and pesticides have ended the need to share farm fields with insects and other pests.

These chemicals, however, must be used carefully and with the appropriate protective gear to avoid an accident, says Dennis Murphy, Penn State Extension safety specialist.

"It's a good idea to wear trousers, a long-sleeved shirt and a hat when you use any agricultural chemical, even one regarded as not particularly hazardous," Murphy says. "Some chemicals require that you wear liquid-proof rubber or plastic garments."

In addition Murphy recommends these safety tips from the National Safety Council and the Pennsylvania Agricultural Safety Council.

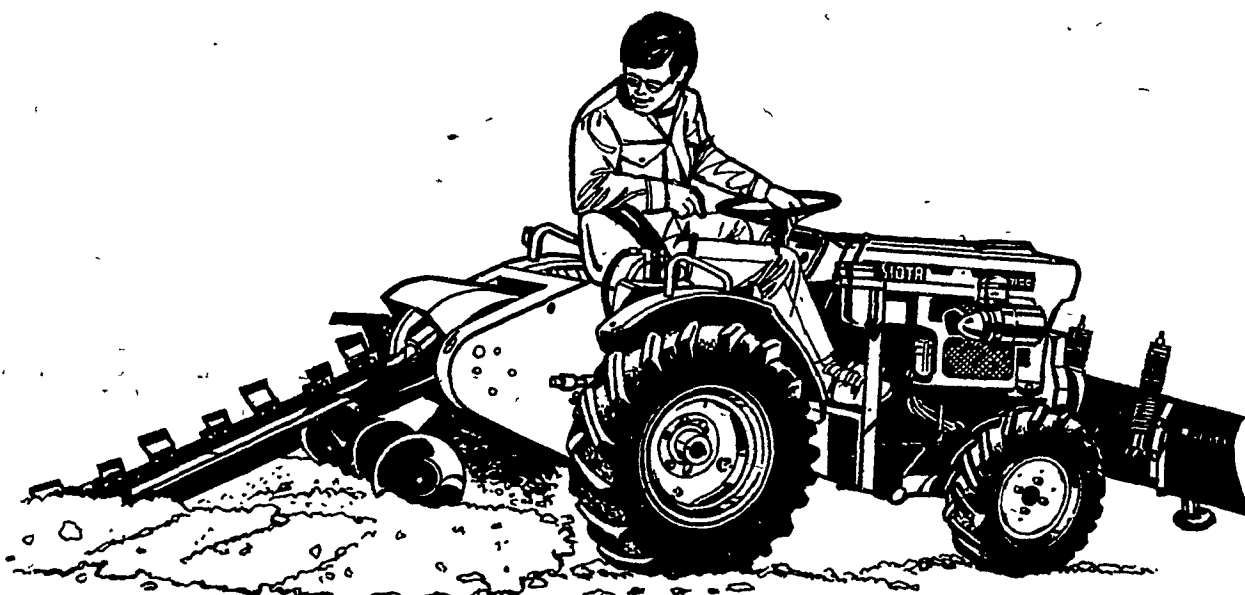

- Carefully read and follow label directions for all agricultural chemicals.

- With many pesticides, you'll need a respirator. Always obtain the correct type of unit and filtering materials. Check with the dealer if you have any questions.

- If the job involves oxygen deficiency, you must use an air-supplying respirator. A filter-type respirator only cleans ambient air without affecting the oxygen content.

- Protect your eyes with goggles when you use anhydrous ammonia. Carry a pocket squeeze bottle of water and a five-gallon can of water on the rig. Water is the only effective first aid measure in case of mishap.

DIGS IN ON ALL FOURS.

The Kubota B7100DT with four-wheel drive. It's strong enough for commercial work. Like park maintenance, nursery work and landscape contracting. And nimble enough for working around the garden.

Standard features include 3-speed rear PTO, independent rear brakes, differential lock and a Category I hydraulic 3-point hitch.

And happily, the B7100DT's 16 hp diesel engine uses less fuel. So when you dig in to go to work, you don't have to dig as deep into your pocket.

Artichokes

In an effort to put the last question into proper perspective, Irwin asked John Yocum, Senior Research Agronomist at Penn State's research farm at Landisville, to comment on the Jerusalem artichoke.

"I am concerned about Jerusalem artichokes being grown in Southeastern Pennsylvania," Yocum said.

"This species is a perennial with a large food storage organ (tuber) and has the potential to become a severe weed problem. We know that most perennial weeds are harder and more costly to control.

"As far as I can determine, the materials labeled for suppression or control are 2, 4-D; 2, 4-D plus Banvel or Roundup. When a grower decides to quit raising artichokes as a crop, he will have a problem growing row crops, both agronomic and vegetable, on the field unless all artichoke plants are killed.

"The cheapest material to use would be 2, 4-D, but this could only be used on fallow, small grain or corn land. We no longer recommend 2, 4-D applied post-emergence on corn; plus the label (Union Carbide-Weedar 64) indicates application when the perennial weed is bud to bloom stage and if corn is over 10 inches, drop pipes must be used.

"We have not had much experience, but my opinion is that with 2, 4-D in corn, we may only get suppression instead of control. We should get good control with Roundup, but the grower would have to delay planting or keep the field out of production for part of the year.

"The Roundup label calls for three to five quarts. This will cost between $70 and $116 per acre."

And Irwin adds:

"We hope growers consider the

Byers Farm, Enon Valley, as high 7-year-old with 7-11 305 days 17,152 lbs. milk, 5.2% test, and 897 fat; and "Chick", owned by Norwood Harkness, as high cow in fat over 8 years old with 11-08 305 days, 18,079 lbs. milk, 5.6% test and 894 lbs. fat.

The Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club is also proud to have one of its members running for National Director in the American Jersey Cattle club. Donald Koontz, RI, Fredonia, milking over 90 registered Jerseys with his wife, Angie, son, Brian, and daughter, Jackie, maintain a rolling herd average over 13,000 lbs. milk and a 4.6% test. Koontz told all present that he would be honored to serve as their National Director and would appreciate all support. An active member of the PJCC, Koontz currently serves as chairman of the state Bred Heifer Sale, and is a PJCC Director for District 5. A PDCA approved judge. Koontz is also involved in showing his own animals, and "Vantage" Jerseys are widely respected.

Commenting that "Pennsylvania is the most enthused," and the state sale "is one of the best in the nation", David Parkinson, Area Representative of the American Jersey Cattle Club, told all present that Jerseys have become the "strong number 2 breed". The American Jersey Cattle Club is well known to be an initiator in breed improvements and their strong leadership has taken strong steps for the Jersey breed. "With the enthusiasm for our breed...the quality milk programs...this will bring Jerseys higher up on the ladder," Parkinson concluded.

H. Duane Norman, Research Geneticist with the United States Department of Agriculture, addressed the issue of sampling young bulls vs. using proven bulls. Stating that "the size of the cow is not the whole story," Norman noted that the AJCC had "the right leaders in key positions making the right decisions." The Jersey breed organization was the first group to set aside the USDA Herdmate Comparisons, develop sire summaries for individual type traits, develop production indexes with meaning, cow indexes in the final score, and developed accurate individual type traits among many other innovative moves. Now breeders have available the AJCC Young Sire Program. Although it took the other breeds longer to get in the race," Norman stated, "You have to do a better job in your breeding program than your neighbor with the black and white cows."

Believing that the "young sires sampled will be the greatest factor in how a breed grows," Norman listed several reasons to use progeny test bulls in at least 50% of your herd.

1. Young sires currently being sampled have a higher average Predicted Difference (PD) than those currently in active A.I. service. The average PD of bulls marketed today is +1344, Progeny Test bulls are averaging +1500.

2. A.I. organizations are giving generous bonuses to dairymen

PFA honors Gov. as 'barn raiser' using their young sample sires. The AJCC is allowing daughters of AJCC approved young sires to be registered at half price.

3. "The higher the percentage of cows bred to young bulls, the greater the genetic improvement that you will make in the breed."

Norman continually stressed the need to have more young bulls sampled in order to have a bigger group of proven bulls to select from. "If you want to be competitive, you're going to need a better percentage", Norman stated.

"It doesn't matter how you sample...set up standards...don't put all your odds in one bull, just get them sampled," Norman continued. Citing the national slogan of "making owning Jerseys more profitable than owning any other kind of dairy cattle," Norman concluded, "Only you the dairyman can make it happen and the only way is to increase the number of young bulls you sample."

CAMP HILL — The Pennsylvania Farmers' Association Monday presented its first annual "Barn Raiser" Award to Gov. Dick Thornburgh in recognition of his administration's support for the family farmer in Pennsylvania.

PFA president Keith Eckel presented the award in a brief ceremony at the Penn Harris Motor Inn following Gov. Thornburgh's proclamation of Agriculture Day in Pennsylvania. Nearly 400 farmers had gathered at the site in preparation for a day of face-to-face discussions with their state legislators on agricultural issues.

Presenting the plaque, signifying the assistance a farmer receives from good neighbors if his barn is destroyed, Eckel told the Governor, "Your initiatives on behalf of farmland preservation and the promotion of Pennsylvania-grown commodities through the 'We're Growing Better' campaign have been very beneficial to the agricultural community. Your efforts to boost Pennsylvania farm exports and to encourage direct farm marketing promises to have significant impact in the future revitalization of our farm economy. And it is worth noting that during your administration, agriculture has become Pennsylvania's number one industry, generating $50 billion worth of economic activity last year. With your continued strong support, agriculture will remain a valuable economic and environmental asset for all Pennsylvanians for generations to come."

One American farmer grows enough food for 68 people here and abroad. That figure has risen dramatically in this century. Back in 1950, each farmer could feed 16.

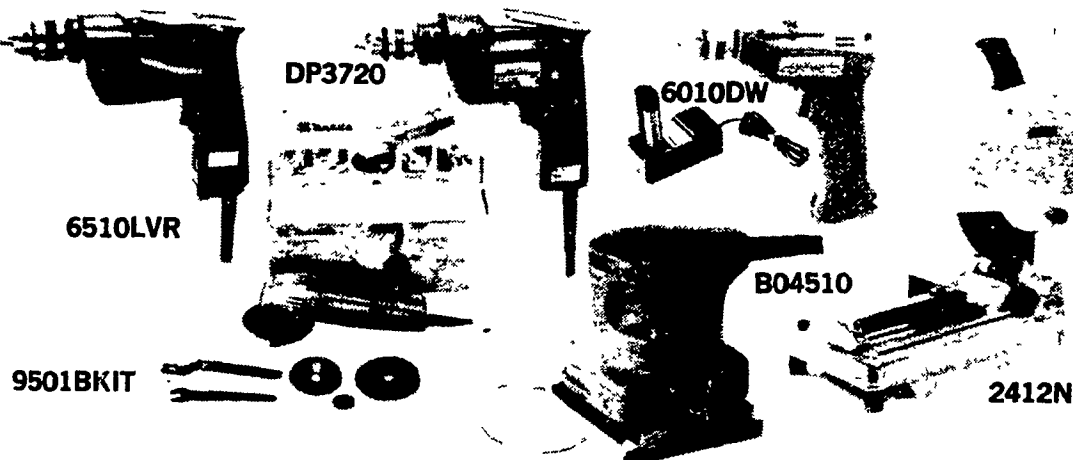

Individual Jersey awards for outstanding production in various cow age groups went to, from the left, Paul Herr, Mildred Seeds, Robert Ulrich, Richard Moose and Eugene Harris.

Block outlines milk tax plans

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block announced he will delay implementing the second congressionally authorized 50-cent per hundredweight assessment on milk producers to give Congress time to adopt more effective legislation. The first 50-cent assessment will be implemented, effective April 16.

The first assessment was originally implemented on Dec. 1, 1982, but has been barred since Dec. 21 by a federal district court in Columbia, S.C. In January, a proposal to again implement the first assessment, plus a proposal to implement the second assessment simultaneously, were published in the Federal Register for public comment. The comment period ended on Feb. 28. Block said the decision to seek comments was in response to the court injunction.

"We have no choice but to again implement the first assessment," Block said. "It never was supported by me, but we really have no other alternative. That is the only option Congress has given to us, and it would be fiscally irresponsible to ignore a tool which will save up to $60 million per month of the taxpayers' money. If not implemented, we run the risk of losing the program which has served both producers and consumers well since 1949."

Block said the first assessment would be maintained from April 16 until new legislation becomes effective. "If sufficient resolution is not forthcoming by Aug. 1, we will be forced to look again to implementation of the second 50-cent assessment. I hope this will not be necessary."

The second assessment includes "complicated" provisions for a refund to producers who reduce their marketings from quantities marketed during a designated base period, he said. "This is too much work and regulation to impose on dairy producers. If we're going to spend that much time and energy on a dairy plan, I want it to be a plan that will produce some positive and lasting results. I'm certain Congress doesn't want to make another mistake."

"Any solution to the dairy problem has to be unique. It cannot be a copy of other solutions for other commodities," Block said the solution should embrace the following principles:

— It should allow freedom of initiative for an individual dairy producer rather than operate under any type of restrictive system.

— It should maintain the type of program that has served producers and the industry quite well since 1949.

— It should lower dairy surpluses by simultaneously reducing milk production and increasing consumption to achieve a reasonable balance between supply and demand.

— It should be simple to administer and easily understood by dairy farmers.

— It should give the secretary of agriculture the flexibility over time to adjust, up or down, the economic signals sent to farmers so the program would remain in balance in future years.

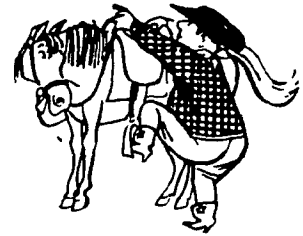

A proposal which includes these principles would receive the full support of this administration, he said.

Block said he is disappointed that dairy farmers have been put through the last two years of turmoil and uncertainty. "I can't blame dairy farmers for producing more in response to a price support level that has been artificially high since 1977. However, be that as it may, we must get together now and resolve this issue once and for all."

Strong showing at Md. Holstein Convention

GRANTSVILLE, Md — It seemed more like winter than spring, to those who drove through snow and whipping winds to attend the Maryland State Holstein Convention and Sale, Wednesday and Thursday. Nonetheless, the convention drew a large crowd for all the activities.

Reports during the business meeting from the various committees indicated growing strength of the organization. The association is financially strong now, as a result of the profits it acquired from the 1981 national convention sale held in Baltimore. The strength of the treasury made the process of approving items on the proposed annual budget an easier task. Some of the items approved were: returning one and a half percent of the proceeds from the state sale to the host county; sponsorship of the youth tour to the national convention in Norfolk, Va. in June; the addition of four more scholarships; and more milk promotion. Throughout the convention, promotion was the subject of conversations.

The nominating committee's report was unanimously accepted. The newly elected officers are: president, Edwin R. Fry, Chestertown; vice president, James R. Hill, Emmitsburg; secretary, John L. Morris, Frederick; treasurer, Jane King, Damascus. The new directors, who will serve a three year term, include: Roberta King, Church Hill; Donald Cruthers, Rising Sun; Wayne Savage, Boyds; Mike Haines, Westminster.

Presentation of the Progressive Breeder Registry Award, the highest award given by the Holstein-Friesian Association, was made to four breeders. Recipients of the PBR award were, Kingstead Farms, C Wrenn Remsburg, Maple Lawn Farms, and Schenning Brothers.

Guest speaker, James Lewis, an Ohio dairyman asked convention goers the rhetorical question, "Did you speak out and say what you thought." Lewis repeatedly stressed, "It's a one breed world," suggesting Holstein breeders should be in the front, pushing for dairy promotion.

Youth awards were presented during the banquet held Wednesday evening at the Grantsville Fire Hall. An estimated 325 HFA members were in attendance.

Winners in the junior division received a $100 scholarship, senior division winners received a $500 scholarship. The winners of the junior boys division were: first - Bill Swift, second - Matthew Iager, and third - Brian Stonesifer, first year winner was Krag Martin. Winners in the junior girls division were: first - Diane Moore, second - Jedonne Swift, and third - Kelly Vansant, first year winner Vivian Stottlemeyer.

Winners of the senior boys division were: first - Micheal Hill, second - Kevin Smith, and third - Kris Knutsen. The senior girl winners were: first - Kim King, second - Chris Stonesifer, and third - Kelly Shaw. The overall trophy winner was Micheal Hill.

Production awards for a two, three, and four year old cow, were given in the junior division to, Matthew Hoff, Susan Hill and Micheal Iager, respectively. Privately sponsored production

Md. Sale tops $200,000

GRANTSVILLE — There was standing room only for the large crowd, that filled to capacity the Grantsville Fire Hall, Thursday, to watch the Maryland Convention Sale. The annual sale was hosted this year by the Garrett County Holstein Association. The host county will receive one and a half percent of the proceeds from the sale, as a result of a new resolution passed at Wednesday's business meeting.

The sale brought in a total of $205,055 for the 64 head sold, with a sale average of $3204. Buyers came from Pennsylvania, New York, West Virginia, North Carolina, Virginia, California and Maryland to attend the sale.

Top-selling animal was an open heifer, Art-Acres Kay H-ET, bringing $13,000 from her buyer Larry Wenger of Lancaster. Kay was consigned by her breeder, Arthur Rhoderick of Hagerstown, Md. Born December 1981, she is a Glendell Arlinda Chief daughter. Her dam, Art-Acres Elevation Kay (EX-91), has records of 34,000M and 1115F.

Marbeth Enid Promise Bootmaker, bred October 1982 to Marshfield Elevation Tony, was second high in sales. She brought $12,400 from her buyers George William Smith III and David Younger of Frederick, Md. A Paclamar Bootmaker daughter, she is out of Marbeth Edin Cow Power (2E-93), with 31,090M and two records over 1000F. She was consigned by Owen E. Martin also of Hagerstown.

Sale animals were housed in the gymnasium of the old Grantsville school. Tie stalls were brought over from the barns at Timonium fairgrounds.

DVC Block/Bridle Club presents awards

BY MARTHA GEHRINGER
Staff Correspondent
DOYLESTOWN — Awards were presented at the recent annual banquet of the Block and Bridle Club of Delaware Valley College.

Agriculture. She spoke on the future of the farmer in the United States and told the students that as future members of the agricultural society, they were in charge of their own destiny.

Following the speaker, various awards were handed out to the members. The outstanding member award went to Sharon Raab, a senior animal husbandry major from Hartsville. She is the club's nominee for the National Block and Bridle and is the proprietor of Raab Hampshires in Hartsville.

The outstanding senior award, a tie, went to Steve Ledoux and Ron McCarty. Ledoux is from Acushnet, Ma. and upon graduation will either enter the job of Manager of the beef operation of

Genetic Farms, Inc., Vincetown, N.J. or enter graduate school to continue his education. McCarty is from Medford, N.J. and is currently employed by Argus Research in Perkasi.

A Scholarship of $250.00 was presented to Steve Trostle from Red Lion. This scholarship award is based on scholastic ability, club activities, outside activities, and future plans in the animal husbandry field. Steve was also the winner in 1982.

The collegiate livestock judging team was also honored for its activities this past year. The team placed fourth in the Eastern States Exposition and was high team in swine. Members of the 1982 judging team were Steve Ledoux, Ron McCarty, Hoyt Emmons, Steve Pallis, Karen Butcher, Steve Triol, Fran Goitz, and Sharon Raab. The team was coached by Rodney Gilbert, livestock superintendent at the college and adviser of the Block and Bridle Club.

Those attending the banquet witnessed a changing of the guard for the club as the 1982 officers turned over their offices to the 1983 officers.

The 1982 officers include president, Steve Ledoux; vice president, Hoyt Emmons; recording secretary, Sharon Raab; corresponding secretary, Karen Butcher; program, Steve Trostle; publication, Kathy Sheffer; a-day representatives, Karen Takakjy and Jerry Reichard; ICC representatives, Jim Glunz and Andy Lindsay. The 1983 officers are president, Steve Trostle; vice president, Karen Takakjy; treasurer, Julie Clark; corresponding secretary, Kathy Sheffer; recording secretary, Melanie Roche; program, Bred DeFranco; publications, Terri Dzurenko; A-Day representatives, Carrie Flagg and John stump; ICC representatives, Andy Lindsay and Jim Glunz.

Now Sold Under The WIC Label THIS WELL-BUILT MANURE TANKER SPREADS AN EXCELLENT PATTERN ON YOUR FIELDS

Because this well-built manure tanker from WIC shoots the discharge slurry up, and baffles the spread down, you get an even coverage pattern on your fields. Better than most makes and models, we think.

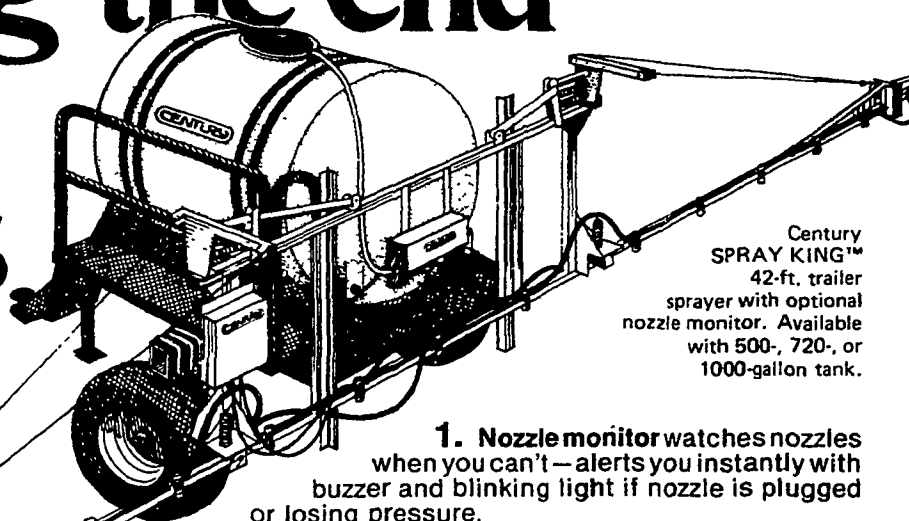

In addition, the advanced design allows you to do the job with very few moving parts on the spreader. Gravity settles the slurry into the fan. The fan blows the slurry over the top of the spreader in a 6" pipe and out the back. So simple you know the unit will be easy to maintain.

So while this well-built manure tanker comes to you under a new name, you still get the same excellent spread pattern on your fields. Write for special prices now in effect and model information to US Agri-Systems, 3053 Barren Rd., Oxford, Pa. 19363, or phone 301-398-2948.

Century SPRAY KING™ 42-ft. trailer sprayer with optional nozzle monitor. Available with 500-, 720-, or 1000-gallon tank.

1. Nozzle monitor watches nozzles when you can't — alerts you instantly with buzzer and blinking light if nozzle is plugged or losing pressure.
2. No-drip nylon nozzles prevent under or over application — keep herbicide from dribbling onto ground, burning crops. Won't rust or corrode. Wear four times longer than aluminum or brass.
3. Large 3/4-inch E.P.D.M. jumper hose increases flow to outer nozzles — provides even pressure and proper output.
4. Heavy-duty 1 1/2-inch square tubing on all booms gives greater, longer-lasting strength than round-tube booms.
5. Two-speed fast pressure control lets you increase or decrease pressure quickly, easily as you spray.

their three children and six grand children. Both daughters, Anne Leonhart and Claudia Winetraub, live with their families in Reston, W.Va. Their son, Alan also served in Extension for seven years, and is now member relations director for Atlantic Breeders Cooperative. Traveling is also a top priority. The Bair's are already planning to host a trip to western Europe this summer through Rural Route Tours of Kansas City. The tour is leaving July 19 on a circuit tour of Holland, Belgium, France, Germany and Switzerland. Later in the year they plan to tour the United States extensively.

Other activities Bair has planned are wine making and genealogy. Bair helped to establish a wine making club in the area several years ago that has been a growing concern. There are now 60 to 70 members, mostly professionals, who have wine making as a hobby. Genealogy has long interested Bair, because his roots go back in Pennsylvania Dutch heritage. Now he will be able to take the time to do some digging through family records and archives.

extension is proposed to be held at last year's levels.

"But due to inflation, higher costs of benefits and retirements, this actually puts us about seven percent behind last year in federal formula funds," he explained.

And in the Food and Nutrition

Program conducted by Extension among the low income, the Federal Government proposes a 42 percent cut.

"This would mean the loss of 100 of the 180 people now participating in this program," Smith said.

In addition, programs, such as farm safety and the safe use of pesticides would be eliminated.

If the proposed cuts in the Federal Executive budget go through as proposed, Dean Smith estimates there would be a reduction of about 140 positions in the College of Agriculture and throughout Extension.

The budget concerns are even deeper at Penn State since roughly one-third of the ag faculty and research staff is due to retire over the next four years.

"This is very frustrating in our recruitment," Smith said.

"We've always been known as a good stable school in our recruiting."

The State budget calls for a two percent fund increase, Smith explained, but when inflation and the other factors are considered, it amounts to about a five percent reduction.

Smith said he is optimistic about federal funds since the Council of Cooperative Extension Associations has just been to Washington to explain the fiscal plight to legislators.

"Penn State has the opportunity over the next few years to maintain its high quality of ag leadership through the core of experienced personnel remaining and the new people that should join us," Smith said.

"The money problems could not have come at a worse time."

Archer record set

HARRISBURG — For the third consecutive year, archers have set a new state deer harvest record.

During the 1982 seasons, bowbenders reported taking 7,264 deer. One year earlier, the harvest was 6,070, while the 1980 figure was 5,879. All three harvests topped all previous records.

A significant drop in deer taken by flintlock hunters was recorded in 1982; just 4,177 were reported by the black powder fraternity, compared with 8,246 the previous year.

Flintlockers reported 358 antlers and 3,819 antlerless deer. While the muzzleloader harvest impacted mainly on the antlerless herd, the archery harvest was more evenly distributed; bow hunters claimed 3,363 bucks and 3,901 antlerless deer.

Potter County was tops for archers with 357, followed by Schuylkill 257; Tioga, 253; Bradford, 251; and Berks 243.

Venango County produced 257 cards from successful black-powder advocates. Other top counties included: Schuylkill, 186; Clearfield, 181; Somerset, 162; and Luzerne, 150.

those idle acres will be farmers' poorest land. Thus, the corn and wheat that's grown will be on the best yielding acres and we'll wait and see how much the overall yields will be cut. In any event, this coming season may be the best for national per acre yield averages (barring any weather disaster) as only the best land goes into production.

Also, while soybeans are not in the PIK program, it remains to be seen how much PIK will affect how many beans will be grown. When farmers start putting a pencil to plans for their best remaining acres, many may be switching from beans to corn.

And that may only cause further ripples in intensive livestock areas where meal is required.

Also, what about those Pennsylvania farmers who signed up acres to be idled and who don't have surplus corn in storage on their own farms? Those farmers who have surplus corn in storage will undoubtedly receive their "Payment in Kind" from the grain they're storing.

But how will those farmers be paid in kind who don't have any surplus grain in storage? Will the government devise a huge transportation network to bring surplus grain from an area in the Midwest where it is being stored to an Eastern area like Pennsylvania which has a grain deficit.

Or will the government be paying these farmers by check? If payments in kind are made by check, it could only compound the grain supply-price situation for local poultry and hog farmers.

These are just some of the effects of PIK that may be yet felt.

And while the rate of escalation of grain prices is expected to slow down, there's no doubt that the ripples of PIK will continue to be felt across the local farm economy in coming months.

Ag enrollments decline

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A steady decline in enrollment in U.S. colleges of agriculture since 1978 now is reflected in shortages of scientific and professional personnel, a U.S. Department of Agriculture research official reports.

Terry B. Kinney, Jr., administrator of USDA's Agricultural Research Service, forecast an annual need for 59,780 new graduates in agriculture between now and 1985.

Despite opportunities for employment, annual projections are for only 51,976 graduates, he said.

Current enrollment declines follow an upsurge of student interest between 1970 and 1978 when majors in agriculture at many colleges nearly tripled.

But that expansion thrived because of the "baby boom" era that began in 1946 along with that generation's strong interest in environmental issues, according to Kyle Jane Coulter, director of the research agency's higher education programs.

Coulter said the shortage of high school graduates is further compounded by the disproportionate numbers of food and agricultural professionals who began their careers after World War II. These professionals now are becoming eligible for retirement.

Also in short supply are graduate level students in agriculture, down 6.1 percent at the land grant institutions from a year ago, Coulter said.

"One of the critical problems the nation must face within the next 10 years is the emerging shortage of professionally trained agriculturists. We must address and remedy this issue while there is still time," Kinney said.

NEW FROM CENTURY

Spray Baby

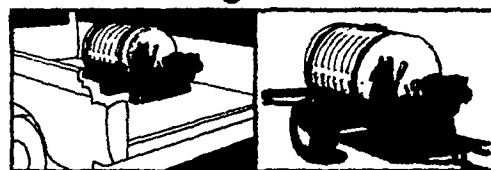

The farm-quality sprayer for lawn and garden use.

For those spraying jobs around the yard and garden, and for spot treatments around the farm, Century introduces the Spray Baby.

It's built with the same kind of rugged construction and practical design of our farm sprayers.

Spray Baby is available in a 25- or 50-gallon model. The smaller model features a hand-pull tongue which can be converted to drawbar. Both are equipped with Hypo 2-piston pumps and three-horsepower Briggs & Stratton engines. Herbicides, fertilizer and insecticide may be applied with the hand gun or the 80-in. coverage spray boom.

See your Century dealer soon about the new Spray Baby. It's big enough for even the smallest jobs.

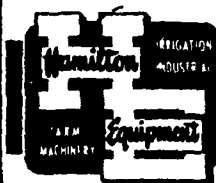

Both Spray Baby models may be skid-type units for use in pickup bed.

50-gallon Spray Baby features drawbar hitch for use with garden tractor. High flotation tires.

Century has the sprayer for every spraying job.

Terraced farmland earns Kirk cooperator award

BY SYLVIA COOPER

LANCASTER — Upon entering the Kirk estate, you are impressed with the well-kept farmstead, buzzing with activity. Immediately, you feel welcome as the 10 farm dogs bound up for greetings. The owner, Francis Kirk, is usually not far behind with a cheery "hello."

After being ushered into the large, stone house, you are greeted by Ethel, Kirk's wife. As with other mornings, she has busied herself with barn work and has now retired to the kitchen to begin baking.

Sons Tom and Robert are busy finishing the morning milking.

Tom's main interest lies in the dairy herd. He handles most of the vet work and the breeding.

Younger brother Robert, is in charge of dairy replacements for the operation.

The Kirks take great pride in their registered Guernsey herd of 101 testing cows. This pride also has resulted in top management of the cropping system and the land.

The view through the kitchen window is spectacular with rolling hills falling into valleys that require many working hours to maintain. And maintain is exactly what Kirk must do. On Thursday night, at the Lancaster County Conservation District's annual banquet, Kirk was named the Outstanding Cooperator.

When Kirk bought the farm in 1943, the land was badly eroded and in need of contouring. He began to get his soil in shape for Contour strips and terraces on the hill behind his barn have been profitable conservation measures for Francis Kirk. Terraces have enabled him to plant continuous corn on hills that once would have eroded from lack of cover.

the spring crops by spreading manure and liming.

Later, most of the land was contoured. But in spite of good soil practices, problems remained with runoff and sedimentation. By cooperating with the Soil Conservation Service, Kirk put in grassed waterways and tile.

This conservationist estimates that there are between four and five thousand feet of plastic tile in certain wet portions of his land. Some of the old drains clogged after years of use, and new tile had to be laid.

Kirk also added terraces so he could grow continuous corn on his land. Although he wanted more corn than hay, he said he needed the benefits of a hay crop between the corn fields to prevent erosion.

Terraces enabled him to plant a hillside in corn, even though there is little ground cover in the field itself. Kirk is now able to plant 150 acres of corn and 60 of alfalfa.

"His plan isn't easy to follow," District Director for the Soil Conservation Service Tom Johnston said, "because of his many terraces."

"He is very conscientious and the tough questions facing government today.

"There's not enough of these sites and, as I understand, we're not talking about any really hazardous materials, such as nuclear wastes."

And, concerning the Farm Show, Hallowell said the Show's Commission on Wednesday tentatively adopted the rule that the 1984 show will put exhibitors with products made in countries with unfair trade practices at the bottom of the priority list for display space.

"It's likely you won't be seeing any Kubota tractors or Honda chain saws at next year's show," Hallowell said.

Leading the list of the award winners were the Kirks, who operate a Guernsey dairy farm in southern Lancaster County. Over the past three decades, the Kirk farm has been the site of the installation of well over four linear miles of various conservation practices, including first strips and then terraces, waterways and tile drainage.

The Kirk's conservation story can be found in the first section of today's issue.

Among other conservationists honored were:

From SCS, Warren Archibald, George Rohrer, Larry Zuchlag and Cliff Bienko.

And those involved in the Sadsbury Twp. storm water management project in the Williams Run watershed, including Nicholas Yoder, township supervisor, Leonard Shraum, of the Citizen Committee; Dan Lake, of the engineering firm of N.M. Lake, land owners Dr. J. C. Bryer and Amos K. Lantz, who provided land for basins; and Brubaker Excavating.

Participating in the program and the presentation of awards were James Huber, county commissioner, Aaron Stauffer and Robert E. Wagner, of the District.

In his address, Hallowell reminded farmers that now is a good time — during PIK — to install needed conservation practices, while the signed-up land is idled.

The ag secretary reviewed the many efforts of the Thornburgh Administration on behalf of agriculture, including farmland preservation, increasing exports and the direct marketing loan program.

--it's not new; but today it's the best way to make your business profitable.

Inflation, shortages, rising fuel costs, government regulations, and our general standard of living have reached the point of reckoning. No one knows that better than the poultryman, the hog farmer, and the dairyman whose market prices rise and plummet daily.

Beginning today you can resolve many of the uncertainties of your operation, spend more time progressing and less time handling feed. But best of all, you can look forward to a profit picture that shows your good business sense.

does an excellent job of applying his conservation plan to the conditions required by the land," Johnston said. "I think he feels it's worth it to keep up with the plan because he can see positive results."

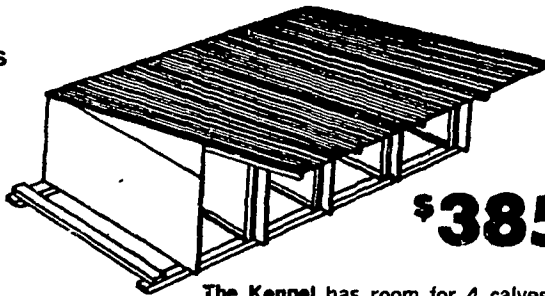

Kirk is the first to state that more conservation practices will be implemented at his farm in the future. This progressive dairyman is planning to cultivate land that has been pastured for years but it will require contouring as well as other unforeseen conservation measures.

But with dairymen like Kirk leading the way, there will be little reason for future generations to worry over the results of poor conservation.

Turkey-cooking contest leads Amanda to own business

BY PATTY GROSS MOCK
Staff Correspondent

McCONNELLSTOWN — Thirty years ago, Amanda Kyper and friends served a turkey dinner to win a contest. They won, and she is still serving and winning praises with their turkey dinner today.

The first dinner was served to the Huntingdon Lions Club. Sunday School classes at the McConnellstown Church of Christ competed to raise money to buy an organ. Everything was donated and enough money was made to pay for the organ. That wasn't the end of the festivities, however. Amanda received requests for future dinners.

"I thought, why couldn't I do it myself?" remembered Amanda. "So I started, and little by little it grew."

The group dinner parties have become so popular over the years that the Huntingdon County woman serves approximately six groups a month during the busy seasons of spring and fall. As many as 60 people have shown up for the homestyle meal, at one time. Amanda requires that there be at least 20 people in the party. Busloads of diners come from all over Pennsylvania and out of state to get a taste of the mouth-watering delights.

For the Kypers, hosting turkey dinners was never difficult. The turkey farmers raised 5,000 to 6,000 birds until four years ago and had a well-stocked freezer.

Amanda said they have always served the same dinner. The entire menu is composed of local products — all homegrown and homemade. No one apparently has walked away hungry. The Kypers guarantee that the guests get their money's worth.

Her gourmet's delight includes: Potato salad, slaw, endive, bean salad, pickled eggs, cranberry relish, fruit dish, heavenly rice, baked apples, cottage cheese and apple butter, liver paite and crackers, relish dishes, turkey salad, filling balls, fried breaded turkey breast, roast turkey, mashed potatoes, noodles, corn, peas, rolls, sticky buns, cake or pie, large black cherries, ice cream, homemade candy, homemade nuts and coffee.

It isn't difficult for an experienced cook like Amanda to prepare a feast.

"If you tell me you want a dinner tomorrow night, I can get it ready," proudly said the 71-year-old chef.

Every detail is worked out to perfection. "I've done it long enough, that I know what must be done," She said.

She roasts the turkeys, prepares the potatoes, bakes the pies, sticky buns, and rolls the day of the dinner. Some of the other menu items are made in advance and stored in the walk-in freezer. The baked apples and cranberry relish are prepared in the fall of the year to preserve them and thus save valuable time. The apple cake, filling balls and noodles are made whenever her busy schedule permits.

If the sign of a good cook is doing the job without a recipe, that describes Amanda. "I wouldn't know how to write some of my recipes. I'd have an awful time," she confessed. "I don't measure much!"

Her cooking techniques are uncomplicated but have proven to be a huge success in satisfying appetites.

The appeal for the fried turkey breast makes it an often requested recipe:

Slice the breast off the raw turkey, beat the egg, and bread the meat with homemade bread crumbs. Brown the breast in a huge skillet and steam prior to serving. Remember to roast the

Here, Amanda cooks in her kitchen. She is very proud that she serves real potatoes to her guests, and that everything on her menu is homemade and homegrown.

Amanda depends on her old cookstove to get her turkey dinners ready. She says they have always had a cookstove to help prepare their meals, but no dishwasher for cleanup.

This is a "before" picture of Amanda Kyper's living room. When reservations for a group of 20 or more come in, the furniture moves out to make room for tables and chairs.

People travel from all over McConnellstown area to enjoy the homey atmosphere of the Kyper home in this "after" picture. The Kyper family has been serving meals for 30 years.

remainder of the turkey and take it off the bone. Use the liver, heart, and gizzard to make the liver paite. Let nothing go to waste!

The petite, white-haired grandmother plans on one pound of raw turkey per person. "It depends on the eaters. Sometimes you have a lot left and other times not very much. I love to see people eat. Tonight was as close as we ever came to running out of food and I don't want to ever be that close again," laughed the generous hostess.

Amanda never restricts the amount her diners eat, as she passes things around a couple times. The tasty food that remains is purchased as a take-out before the night ends.

Most of us would expect Amanda's kitchen to have appliances to accommodate the large-scale cooking. However, her sink, electric stove and refrigerator prove that it is no different from most kitchens, except for the large preparation table.

Amanda could never get along without one of her appliances: a cookstove in a nearby building, out the back door, is used for every meal.

Something that is noticeably missing from the kitchen is a microwave oven and a dishwasher.

"They wouldn't be an advantage," she explained.

Instead, Amanda praises the superb help that has stood behind her over the years. Arlene Kyle, a close friend, can outwash any dishwasher, according to her boss. One hour after the dinner guests go home, cleanup is complete. The waitress who attends to the needs of the entire dining room is Amanda's daughter-in-law, Barbara. Granddaughter Amy, when not attending classes at Penn State, can also be found in the kitchen. Until recently Amanda's husband, Eugene, was a fixture in the kitchen. The dish-dryer and errand-runner passed away in February.

It is obvious that Amanda enjoys her job. "I always like cooking, otherwise I wouldn't be doing it." She explained that her father was a cook by profession, too. She learned from him while at home and also helped with the meals for their family of 10. Today's large groups do not present a problem for the cook. "It's harder for me to cook for myself than it is to cook for thirty!" she joked.

The homemaker's kitchen door is always open to the people who helped her get started — her church friends. Amanda has served churches, clubs, employee groups, senior citizens and friends. The homey atmosphere is Amanda's secret to successfully attracting the crowds. "It's home, it's where I live," she cheerfully explained.

END-OF-MODEL REBATES UP TO $5,500 ON 40- to 228-HP JOHN DEERE TRACTORS

The signals are improving: the farm economy is turning up for the 1980s. Reading those signals, consider this money-saving fact. You can now get a new John Deere 40 Series tractor at a model closeout price that will never be as low again. A price that competes with offers on tractors of any make. A bargain price on a tractor that will return you top dollar when traded in.

So, even if you're going into the PIK program to the maximum, you'll be dollar-wise to take advantage of this closeout offer on 40 Series tractors. Because you'll never again be able to match these savings.

John Deere's offering you a maximum cash rebate up to $5,500* (see chart below) on top of our best deal on a 40 Series tractor. And we're discounting from list prices that date back to 1981! Or you can qualify for a cash rebate waiver of John Deere finance charges to November 1, 1983.* See us for details.

Special cash rebates up to $8,200 on 50 Series 4WD tractors, too, with the added attraction of waiver of finance charges to June 1, 1983.*

John Deere 8- to 16-hp lawn tractors make fast work of big mowing jobs

When you need to do mowing and other round-the-home chores quickly, ride one of the magnificent seven from John Deere.

Choose the 16-hp 116 or 116H (hydrostatic). Both have a twin-cylinder aluminum-block engine with cast-iron cylinder liners for strength. A 38-inch and 46-inch version are available for each model. The 38-inch version mows an acre of lawn in about one hour. The 46-inch version, an acre in about 45 minutes.*

The 111 and 111H (hydrostatic) are powered by an 11-hp engine. Both have a 38-inch mower that will cut an acre in just over an hour.*

The 8-hp 108 features a synchro-balanced engine for smooth operation. It has a 30-inch mower that lets you mow about three-fourths of an acre in one hour.*

Handle your lawn mowing chores quickly this year. See us soon for a John Deere 8- to 16-hp lawn tractor.

* Estimated mowing time for tractor working continuously in wide-open area without rear bagger. Mowing time may vary, depending on operating conditions and terrain.

The mouth-watering baked apples and sticky buns are part of at least two dozen items on the Kyper menu. If there are any leftovers, the guests will take them home.

Kyper's Turkey Farm is probably one of the few places where you can watch your meal being prepared in the kitchen. If the aroma lures you into the country kitchen, you are heartily welcomed. Amanda also makes an attempt of visiting with her guests. "When we have the main course served, I go to the dining room to see if everything is alright."

She said she never receives complaints and truly appreciates the frequent compliments. "A lot of people know me, but I don't know them. They have eaten here over the years. My husband always enjoyed meeting the people," recalled Amanda.

The mood of the kitchen is relaxed, not hectic as one might imagine. Experience has paid off for Amanda Kyper. "I've learned from mistakes. When you do it as long as I have, you don't have many problems." It also helps when you are your own boss, your employees are family and the job is not so much a business as a hobby, according to this chef.

A few changes have been made over the years. "I think we started at $2.50 per person," chuckled Amanda. She now charges a flat rate of $13.

A wall between the dining room and living room was removed. The large mirrors on the farmhouse walls give the room a more spacious appearance. Between meals, the rooms are disguised as a normal home. Prior to dinner, the sofa, rocking chair, and television give way to tables and chairs. Outside the Kyper home the turkey buildings have come down. The 30-year-old turkey farm has been converted into a beef farm by Amanda's son, Woody.

Amanda is popular for (believe it or not) her leftovers! "I make individual turkey pies, turkey casseroles and turkey breast. I have a big sale of everything out of my freezer."

She stuffs more than 40 turkeys for people during Thanksgiving and Christmas, and roasts two dozen birds for friends and neighbors.

Amanda never has considered turning her small operation into a large-scale restaurant. "I might have considered it if I would have started when I was younger," she reasoned. "I didn't start until I was middle age."

She said she believes the diners appreciate the informal and personalized dinner in her home.

She never has advertised her group dinner parties. She depends on satisfied customers to handle the publicity. Her calendar of reservations proves that word-of-mouth is all that is needed.

"I love good places and having others cook for me," smiled Amanda. "When I hear of a new place I try to go. I enjoy going out to eat."

When the restaurateur retires, the business will disappear. The Kyper family does not wish to carry on the dinners. However no one is thinking of giving up the business at this time. Amanda is planning on at least four or five more years. The self-made businesswoman will be hurrying around her brightly-lit kitchen for years to come. Since the death of her husband, she decided it is important to keep busy. "I want to go on as long as my health permits," admitted Amanda. The Huntingdon County woman's clientele encourages her to continue the tradition of the year-round Thanksgiving Dinner at the Kyper Turkey Farm.

USDA schedules Farm Women Forum

LANCASTER — "Reach Out-Speak Up For Agriculture" will be the theme for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Third Annual Farm Women's Forum, April 10-13, at the Capitol Holiday Inn, Washington, D.C.

Annette Schucker, Troy, Bradford County, and a member of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee will represent Pennsylvania ASCS and the nineteen northeast area states at this forum.

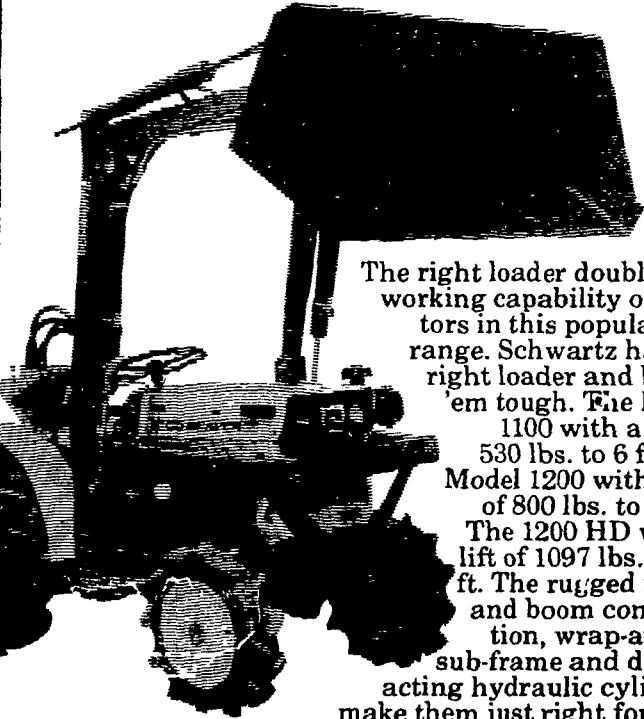

"The purpose of the meeting is to give encouragement and assistance to farm women as they continue to increase their information and educational activities on behalf of agriculture," said Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block. "Communicating the story of agriculture is vitally important. It is crucial that the story reach nonfarm audiences who are increasingly called upon to make major decisions which affect agriculture."

The forum will include government experts who will provide practical, usable information about such topics as how to identify and reach audiences; the types of information and approaches most effective for presentations to nonfarm audiences; the basics of effective writing and speaking; and how to reach and use traditional and new communication techniques and technologies.

Easy quilt-look

Print fabrics provide shortcuts to a wide variety of crafts. It's easy, for example, to make a print fabric look like a pieced-together quilt. All that's required is choosing the right print, lining it with batting, and then outlining the print with stitches.

The secret to success is in the choice of print fabric. The best kind is a simple print with big shapes and flat, rather than shaded, colors.

Scarves are often suitable for quilting. In most cases, the central design is an excellent size for a pillow or quilt block.

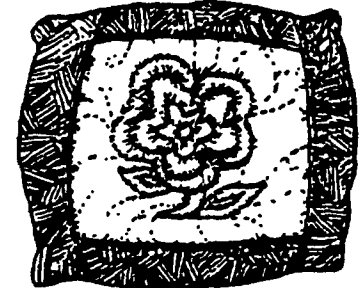

If your favorite scarf or print fabric, however, is too large or too small for your purposes, you can either cut it down, or add a contrasting border.

Directions for quilting a print fabric follow. Look in next week's column to learn how to applique with print fabrics.

MATERIALS: Scarf or print fabrics; solid-color fabric for pillow back and/or borders; muslin or other fabric for backing; polyester batting; polyester fiberfill for pillow stuffing; sewing supplies.

CUTTING: For approximately 18x18-inch pillow or quilt block: 1. Cut 18x18-inch square from batting and backing. 2. For pillow, also cut one 18x18-inch square from pillow back. 3. For pillow front or quilt block, cut a square of print fabric no larger than 18x18 inches. 4. If your square is smaller than 18x18 inches, cut fabric borders from contrasting fabric as follows:

1. Measure difference between your print square and 18 inches. 2. Divide that figure in half, and add 1 inch for seam allowance. That is the width of your border strips. 3. Cut two 18-inch long border strips for sides. 4. Measure your print square. Cut two border strips to that measurement for top and bottom border.

STITCHING ON BORDER: (Note: If your square is already 18x18 inches, skip this section and go on to quilting directions). 1. With right sides facing, pin short border strips to top and bottom of print square. Stitch 1/2 inch seams. Press seams open. 2. With right sides facing, pin long border strips to sides of print square. Stitch 1/2 inch seams. Press open seams.

QUILTING: 1. With right sides of print square on top, sandwich batting between print square and backing. 2. Baste a large X-shape through all three thicknesses. 3. Outline your print with machine-stitching. 4. If your square has a border, machine-stitch around edges.

PILLOW: 1. With right sides facing, stitch pillow front to pillow back. Leave small opening for turning. 2. Clip corners; trim batting close to seam; turn pillow right side out. 3. Stuff pillow with fiberfill. 4. Sew opening closed with tiny hem stitches.

NATURAL MASTITIS TREATMENTS THAT WORK

Much repeat business by phone, mail orders, proves it works. It is rich nutrition in the mouth. Builds resistance. Combinations for stubborn cases. Economical. Treating the cause is better than treating the symptoms. 200 tablets only $18.95 postpaid.

SAME WITH THE SOIL

Preventing bugs as we do with natural mineral fertilizer is better than spraying poisons on the cow feed (alfalfa) which is additional cost of spray and additional cow problem expense. Our fertilizer (rock phosphate) is also very economical priced. Only $105 per ton plus spreading because it comes bulk direct from mines without blending costs. Many happy customers 27.7% protein haylage. Vegetables sweeter than the neighbor's because of more nutrition. Big double crop, both without fertilizer, but had our rock phosphate 2 years before. 200 bu. corn per acre in dry 1980. Our program holds the moisture because of looser soil and subsoil from live earthworms and micro-organisms which do more than dead ones killed by chemicals. Extremely low vet. bills because of better feed grown. Much more could be said but the above should convince anyone that obeying natural law pays big dividends. Ask for literature.

STRAWBERRY YUM-YUMS

Crust:
1 c. flour
1/2 c. margarine or butter
1/4 c. brown sugar
1/2 c. nuts

Toast on cookie sheet at 375 degrees, stirring often, for 10 to 15 minutes. Let cool. Put half of crumbs in the bottom of 9x13 inch pan.

Beat for 20 minutes:
3/4 c. sugar
2 egg whites
2 t. lemon juice
2 c. partly thawed strawberries.
Fold in 1 cup whipped cream. Pour onto crust and top with remaining crumbs. Refrigerate several hours. Serve.

Rose Zook, Belleville

OLD TIME BREAD PUDDING

2 c. milk
4 c. coarse bread crumbs
1/4 c. melted butter or margarine
1/2 c. sugar
2 beaten eggs
1/4 t. salt
1 t. cinnamon
1 t. vanilla

Heat milk, pour over bread crumbs. Let cool. Add rest of ingredients. Pour into 1 1/2 quart casserole (greased). Bake for 40 minutes at 350 degrees.

QUESTION — Does anyone have a recipe for creamy peanut butter Easter eggs? As Easter will be upon us soon, many readers may be interested in this recipe.

Mrs. Robert Curley
Telford, Pa.

ANSWER — In answer to Jean Entriiken's request for a thick pie filling, comes this recipe for blueberry pie from Susie Stoltzfus of Ronks, Pa.

Use fresh or frozen berries. When freezing blueberries, do not wash before freezing. Wash when ready to use.

7 c. blueberries
2/3 c. water
1 c. sugar

Heat in saucepan. In small bowl, mix 2 T. clear jell (not instant) and 2 T. cornstarch. Mix with water till smooth and fairly thin. Add to berry mixture. Bring to a boil. Boil about 2 minutes or until clear, stirring constantly. Set aside. Cool. It is best to use cold when ready to bake.

Pump...Agitate...Fill!

The versatile Badger Northland Pum/Agitator is available now!

The portable Badger Northland BN 103 is built for years of dependable, high capacity performance. Designed to pump and agitate pits or lagoons, it can also be used as a manure transfer system for transferring manure from holding pits to lagoons or other storage facilities. Choose the gearbox that matches your tractor's horsepower and PTO RPM.

The BN 103 features an agitator nozzle which sweeps a full 300° for thorough agitation. Reaches all corners of the pit or lagoon.

The pitched blade of the "Souper-Charger" moves material into the impeller for smooth, high capacity pumping. The semi-cupped design of four paddles develops more pressure for mixing settled solids. Breaks up crust.

Pow-R-Ram Manure Transfer System

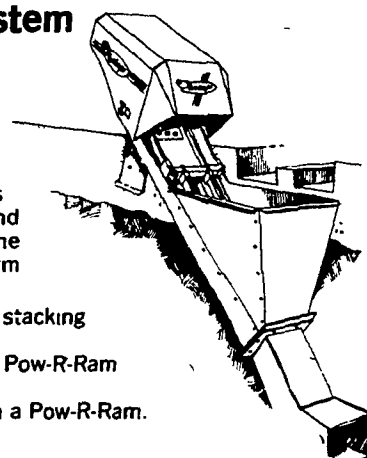

Badger Northland, the manure handling experts have done it again. They've designed a powerful manure transfer system that's unmatched in power, dependability and efficiency.

You'll get your money's worth with this big brute. The key is the new improved piston design that features doubled bearing areas which assure smooth operation and longer life. The transmission, the business end of the system, is specially designed to perform its strong-arm duties quietly and with minimum maintenance.

Three transmission options make this system ideal for stacking slab-semi solid, basin or structure-liquid operations.

Two hopper options let you tailor to your needs and the Pow-R-Ram easily installs in a self-contained concrete form.

Add some punch to your manure handling system with a Pow-R-Ram. See your Badger Dealer now.

The Badger Souper-Trail Lagoon Agitator/Pump for long reach... fast agitation and fast fill.

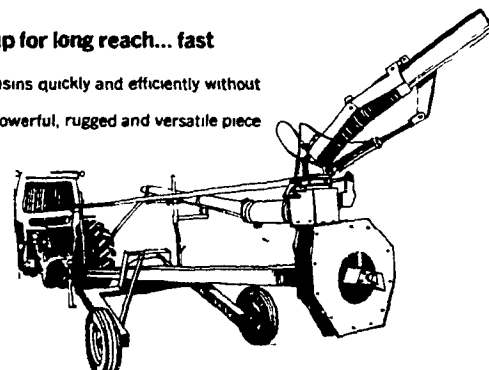

Now you can pump solid or liquid manure from storage basins quickly and efficiently without the need for ramps or docks.

That's right. The Badger Souper-Trail Agitator/Pump is a powerful, rugged and versatile piece of equipment. It transports easily behind your tractor.

The Souper-Trail is easy to position and can be used in any depth lagoon. And its long reach and high capacity pumping allows for fast economical agitation of large manure basins. It will quickly fill even the largest manure tank.

Other features include a special chopper blade rotating ahead of the impeller housing. The heavy-duty hydraulic controlled spout breaks up large clumps and surface crust. Mixes settled solids.

Your dealer has two Souper-Trail models available for use with either 540 or 1000 tractors. See him now and count on him for all your manure handling system needs.

Ladies Have You Heard?

By Doris Thomas

Prepare To Save The Nutrients
Suppose you are preparing a well-balanced evening meal — roast beef, tossed green salad, mashed potatoes, and mixed vegetables.

To save time, you peeled and sliced all the salad vegetables in the morning before leaving for work. You removed the outer leaves on the lettuce and soaked the remaining leaves in iced water to retain crispness. You also took the roast out of the freezer in the morning and put it on the counter to thaw.

That evening you peeled and boiled the potatoes. After thawing the frozen mixed vegetables, you boiled and drained them in preparation for serving.

The scene is complete. Just as your family was clamoring for dinner, you got everything on the table — everything, that is, except all the important nutrients that were washed, peeled, soaked, thawed and boiled away as you prepared dinner.

With the whole month of March set aside as National Nutrition Time, you might want to set aside some of your time to consider how you can serve more nutritious meals without even changing your meal planning. You can retain vital nutrients, vitamins and minerals by:

- scrubbing (not peeling) vegetables,
- slicing vegetables just before serving,
- not soaking vegetables in water,
- cooking potatoes in the skin; just scrubbing them prior to boiling,
- steaming vegetables (not boiling) taken directly from the freezer,
- saving vegetable water and using it as a stock in soups and gravies,

- cooking meats from the freezer, not thawed,
- reusing meat drippings.

Include these methods in your meal preparation routine and guarantee your family well-balanced meals from start to finish.

Coping With Contractors

Think you can assign the job and just walk away? Never! Even after you've made the decision to rebuild or remodel and have carefully chosen a contractor, your part of the job is not over. You still have work to do and the most important part is negotiating the contract.

NEVER allow a contractor to begin work without a written contract — it protects you both. The contract should be based on the on-site estimate for the job. A bid would even be better. The difference is that a bid is a precise accounting of the amount a contractor will charge to do a particular job. An estimate, on the other hand is an educated guess. Unless your job is relatively straightforward, a written estimate is what your contractor will offer.

Once you have it in writing, if there are any sections you do not understand have an attorney review it before you sign. Never agree to oral guarantees and do not leave sections of your contract blank to be completed later. Make sure the contract includes the following:

- name and address and phone number of the contractor;
- your name, address, and phone number;
- a complete description of the work;

— a specific description of the materials to be used;

— a provision requiring your written approval for any changes in the agreed-to plans and specifications;

— a requirement that the contractor obtain workman's compensation and public liability insurance so that you are protected in case of injury;

— a guarantee with terms which are clearly stated and cover all promised items;

— a clear listing of total cost and specific terms of payment for both materials and labor. (Do not make substantial payments in advance. Generally, home contracting work is paid for when it is satisfactorily completed, in installments, as portions are completed to your satisfaction);

— the signature of the contractor.

Delaware to hold textile day

The Delaware County Cooperative Extension Service will hold a Textiles and Clothing Day open house on April 7, at the Hunt Club building in Rose Tree Park, Media, Pa.

Special demonstrations will include strip quilting, 10 a.m., machine applique, 11 a.m., and fabric painting at 1 p.m. Other topics to be covered include trapunto, candlewicking, zippers and how to buy the right size pattern.

The cost is $1, payable at the door. Participants should bring a sack lunch.

CHOCOLATE CHERRY BALLS

- 1 c. butter
- 1/2 c. sugar
- 2 t. vanilla extract
- 1 3/4 c. all-purpose flour
- 1/4 c. cocoa
- 1 t. instant coffee powder
- 1/2 t. salt
- 3/4 c. finely chopped nuts
- 1/2 c. chopped maraschino cherries, drained

cream butter; gradually add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Beat in vanilla. Combine flour, cocoa, coffee powder and salt. Gradually add to creamed mixture; mix well. Stir in nuts and cherries. Chill dough. Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Shape dough into 1-inch balls; place on cookie sheet. Bake 16 to 18 minutes or until set. Cool. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and garnish with chopped maraschino cherries.

KAHLUA FUDGE BROWNIES

- 1 1/2 c. sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 t. baking powder
- 1/2 t. salt
- 2/3 c. butter
- 3 one-oz. squares unsweetened chocolate
- 3 large eggs
- 2 c. sugar
- 1/4 c. Kahlua
- 3/4 c. chopped walnuts
- 1 T. Kahlua for tops of bars

Resift flour with baking powder and salt. Melt butter with chocolate over very low heat or over hot water. Beat eggs with sugar until light. Stir in chocolate mixture and 1/4 c. Kahlua. Add flour mixture and mix well. Stir in walnuts. Turn into greased 9-inch square pan lined in bottom with greased parchment or foil.

Bake in center of 350 degree oven for 30 minutes, until top springs back when touched lightly in center, and edges begin to pull away from pan. Be careful not to overbake. Remove from oven and cool in pan. When cold, brush top with 1 T. Kahlua. Let stand until thoroughly cold before cutting. Use sharp knife for cutting into bars.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

"Look what I got."

Small brown cardboard box in hand, the teenager carried in a surprise acquired from a neighbor of Grandma's.

Inside the box was a small bundle of black, curly hair, accented with a white slash along one side.

Another guinea pig.

A girl-type guinea pig.

For several years, we've been entertained by the antics of a pair of loveable males, tame little guys that run around the yard oblivious to the cats, protected by the dog, and squeak a "Did you bring me a carrot?" welcome to anyone within communicating distance to their pen.

With the purchase of this female newcomer, the teenager announced her intention to expand the guinea pig population. While I protested the addition of more pets, the arguments fell on deaf ears. After all, the farmer himself had begun his agricultural career breeding rabbits, so he could see the potential of this venture.

Keeping carrots, celery and lettuce supplies on hand through the winter proved nearly impossible. Apples as well disappeared with frequency, destined for the guinea pigs' insatiable appetites, with a few sneaked off to the spoiled, pampered 4-H heifers.

This pet breeding business was eating heavily into the family grocery budget.

A supply of guinea pig pelleted food earned only turned up furry noses, and an even louder, squealing outraged round of "where are the carrots?"

Over the months, Nikki grew into a lovely, furry young lady. One day the time came that Mopsy (who looks like a motorized black dust mop) was taken from the bachelor-pad quarters he shared with pal Snoopy to join Nikki for a brief period of marriage.

Microwave cooking can reduce calories

LANCASTER — Cooking with microwaves probably won't significantly increase the nutrient content of your meals, but it may reduce calories, says Greta C. Vairo, Delaware County Extension home economist.

By substituting water for butter or shortening in food preparation, you can cut down on the calories. For example when a recipe calls for onions or peppers to be sautéed in butter, they can be cooked in a small amount of water or broth, thus saving those extra calories.

Nikki's approaching motherhood gradually became apparent. In fact, as her time drew nigh, Nikki came to resemble a walking hairy box with a face, her little tummy as wide as she was long.

When the due date came, and then passed, we all took frequent peeks into the pen, with a growing concern that some problem had developed.

But, early last Sunday morning, on a maternity check before church, the teenager came bounding into the house, beaming from ear to ear.

"I'm a Grandma!" she announced. Nikki's two infants were running around the pen, bright-eyed and fully-haired miniature replicas of the adults.

Sure enough, she's acting just like a Grandma, hand-carrying treats to the babies. There go the rest of the carrots.

The nutritional value of foods cooked with microwaves is changed in other ways. If you cook vegetables in a lot of water and discard that water after cooking, you are throwing out vitamins and minerals which have leached out of the vegetable. With the microwave, little or no water is needed, so less vitamin loss occurs.

Vitamins are destroyed by air, light, and heat, so the shorter the cooking time with less intense heat, the more vitamins are retained. Some research reports indicate that more Vitamin C is retained in broccoli, tomatoes, and cabbage, and more thiamine and riboflavin remained in meat when those foods were cooked in a microwave oven.

The lack of the browning reaction means less lysine (the amino acid which combines with a sugar molecule and produces the brown colors) has been tied up and protein quality may be slightly higher. This factor is eliminated when a browning pan is used.

Although microwave cooking doesn't add to the nutritional quality of a particular food, it can help that food retain its optimal nutrient potential.

Theal preps farm wives for emergency

LEBANON — Gail Theal, an emergency medical technician, recently spoke to the Lebanon County Farmer's Association Women's Committee at the Iona United Methodist Church about preparing for a farm emergency. Approximately 65 members and guests were present.

Theal, a Paramedic II and respiratory therapy technician, included descriptions of various rescue devices used by technicians. She said that it is important to keep the emergency phone number on the telephone, along with specific directions to the farm.

"This may seem simple to remember," she said, "but during an emergency, panic makes us forget these things."

"When placing a 911 call, don't hang up until the person taking the information hangs up," she said. "This way, you can be sure you have given all the necessary details."

"Never move a victim unless there is danger of fire, collapse of building or equipment," she said, "because permanent injury can result."

One of the most important things you can do for an accident victim who is breathing and conscious or semi-conscious, is to "give moral support," Theal said. She urged everyone to trust ambulance personnel because they are trained individuals.

Grace Ziegler took the women on a quick trip to Russia with a slide show. She described a State farm in Russia where 10,000 people live in apartment-type buildings.

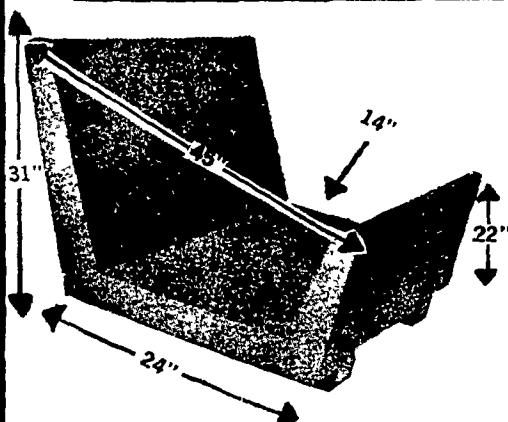

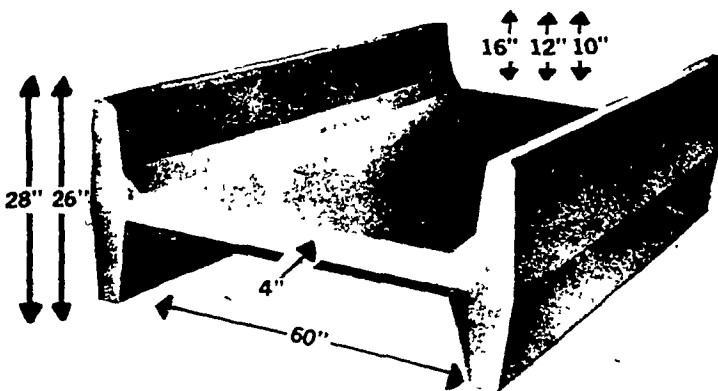

Edith Lehman, spoke about restoring dolls. Her collection ranges from a 45-year-old doll to some dolls of the present day. One in particular, was found in a junk barrel in a barn.

In a dramatic monologue, Mildred Eisemann, of Ephrata, portrayed women of the Bible. Eisemann related some of her personal experiences along with her presentation of Sarah, Hannah, the widow of Zair, the woman at the well, Lydia and Ruth.

GIRAFFES ARE THE TALLEST OF ALL ANIMALS. A FULL GROWN MALE MAY BE 18 FT. OR MORE. AFRICA IS THE ONLY PLACE WHERE THEY LIVE WILD. THE GREAT HEIGHT OF THE GIRAFFE IS DUE TO ITS LONG NECK, AND LONG SLENDER LEGS. A BABY GIRAFFE IS ABOUT 6 FT. TALL AT BIRTH, BUT DOES NOT REACH MATURITY UNTIL IT IS 6 TO 8 YEARS OLD.

4-H intern catches glimpse of life as an agent

Editor's Note — Pennsylvania celebrated its first 4-H week these past seven days. In honor of this event, LANCASTER FARMING would like you to meet Lancaster County's 4-H intern, Kelli Nachbar — a shining example of 4-H's influence. You see, although Kelli is caught mid-stream now — not yet an agent and no longer a 4-H member — she is eagerly and busily preparing for the time when she can put her 4-H experiences and education to profitable and rewarding use. Here's Kelli's story.

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

LANCASTER — Kelli Nachbar senior at Penn State, is getting an opportunity few people have — she is trying out a job before making a career commitment.

Kelli is spending ten weeks in the Lancaster County Extension Office working with 4-H Agent Donna Lucidi under an internship which is gaining her ten credits as well as a wide range of on-the-job experiences.

Making the most of this chance to observe a job first hand, Kelli is diving right in, assisting Donna with the numerous things which must be attended to in the 4-H office with the start of a new 4-H season.

Kelli says, "I'm sold on the intern program. It helps students get out of books and into the real world. I am basically here finding out what it is all about. I can see some of the rewards and some of the hardships of being a 4-H agent. I wanted to find out what it is like before I applied for a job."

The intern program became available under a stipulation that all departments must offer an internship to students. Kelli chose to look into a 4-H position, because, "In the last two to three years I found myself heading for a career in 4-H. After I was in 4-H for a year I was sold on it. I totally loved it."

Kelli, 21, was a 4-H member in Lancaster County for just one year in the Boots and Saddles 4-H Club and admits that when she first attended 4-H meetings she wasn't eager to join. However, when she finally did join she became a teen leader and news reporter and she credits these positions of responsibility with keeping her interest in 4-H. "The responsibility drove me ahead in participating. I got so much out of it by putting so much into it."

Her enthusiasm for the 4-H program will sustain her during the next ten weeks when she hopes to have an opportunity to meet with leaders and 4-H'ers. "I think 4-H is important because it promotes old-fashioned values which are less emphasized to kids today. They need to develop that firm background of commitment and responsibility. Having a leader helps keep them interested and 4-H helps them strive for ideals," she stresses.

One of Kelli's first responsibilities was creating a program on demonstrations designed to encourage young people to improve their demonstrating skills and participate in the county's demonstration contest. She has a 20 minute verbal presentation which she would like to give to any 4-H clubs. She also has prepared a longer presentation to offer 4-H'ers a chance to actually do sample demonstrations. This one is designed for groups of 10-15, and Kelli says, "It will be a fun thing."

Having arrived on the job a week before the orientation of 4-H leaders, Kelli presented her demonstration talk to the leaders. She was glad to have a chance to meet them and have them get to know her so early in her work here.

She also is preparing a game leaders' workshop and an officers' training meeting during her time in Lancaster.

Of course, you don't get college credits without making reports and plans, and before arriving in the county, Kelli prepared a list of goals and objectives. She will give mid-term written reports and a final written report as well as evaluations by Donna.

In addition to the day-to-day activities, Kelli will be taking a group of teens to a regional teen leader retreat at Dublin Gap and will be doing some radio and TV spots.

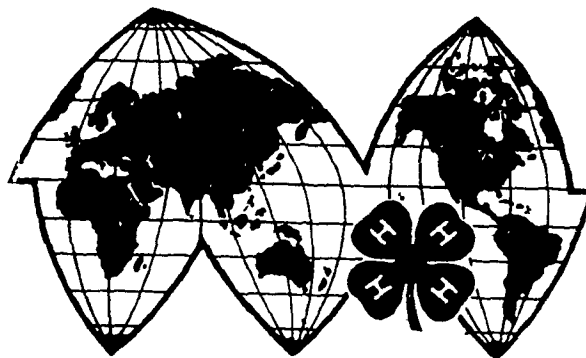

Preparing demonstrations can be easy if you follow the advice given by Kelli Nachbar, current intern in the Lancaster County Extension office. Kelli has prepared a talk on demonstrations which she is eager to share with 4-H clubs throughout the county.

She is eager to assist with the therapeutic riding club, and mentions that her mother and sister have volunteered with that program in the past. "It is a valuable experience for kids," she remarks, "It helps them grow."

There is a new horse club forming, which Kelli will assist with, and she is also available to talk to clubs about animal nutrition and horse care while here.

While Kelli is benefitting from the experience, she feels the county is also benefitting from having someone to do additional programs and "to help promote 4-H in the county." She says she was a little apprehensive at first, but adds, "So far it has been a positive experience."

Kelli has a two-year-old horse of her own and a seven-year-old one that she shares with her sister. She enjoys riding in her spare time, but also is an enthusiastic cake decorator. In fact she says she is very interested in "everything in art," and likes the domestic life.

A graduate of Hempfield High School, Kelli says she had to choose between agriculture and art when she went to Penn State, and chose to major in animal production. "All my life I was interested in history and admired the way of life people once had when they were self-sufficient. I like the less complicated life and I think some of that is lingering in agriculture and in 4-H."

When Kelli is finished with this intern program on May 17, she will be graded by her advisor, but whatever her grade, the real value for Kelli will have been the experience of learning about a potential job. She also will have the satisfaction of having promoted the 4-H program, something she feels is beneficial to young people and the community.

Lancaster County 4-H Agent Donna Lucidi, standing, shows 4-H intern Kelli Nachbar how to adjust the microphone as she prepares for radio broadcasts. Kelli will be in the county for 10 weeks, helping with the 4-H program.

Lancaster 4-H dairy clubs list meetings

LANCASTER — Lancaster County youths between the ages of 8 and 18 who are interested in dairy cows are invited to attend the next meeting of the nearest dairy club.

— The Lancaster Co. Ayrshire, Brown Swiss and Jersey 4-H Dairy Club will hold its next meeting at 7:30 p.m., Monday, April 11 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brommer, near Safe Harbor.

The Lancaster County 4-H Guernsey Club will meet Tuesday, April 12 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Rohrer, Lancaster. Their farm is located on Lime Valley Road, about 2 to 3 miles southwest of Strasburg.

The Kids and Kows Klub, an all-breeds club which meets in the southern part of the county will hold its next meeting on Monday night, April 4 at the Hoffman Building at the Solanco Fairgrounds.

To be a member of a dairy club, the young people are required to own a dairy calf. To be eligible for showing, the calf needs to be registered and the member must have made application to have the calf transferred to their name by May 1.

Older heifers and cows must have been transferred by Jan. 1.

For more information on any 4-H dairy club, contact County Extension Agent Glen A. Shirk, 394-6851.

Lebanon 4-H names contest winners

LEBANON — The Lebanon 4-H program recently named the winners of the various contests held during 4-H days at Boscov's North and Fairgrounds Square Mall. Winning in the several categories were:

For the avid gardener

Landscape from your easy chair

Landscaping is a job that never really ends. Think of it as a life-long pleasure. You don't need to make drastic changes — your outdoor space should change as your use of it changes.

Early spring is just the right time to get out your gardening books and read about the possibilities new plantings can bring to your garden. In a few weeks nurseries and garden centers will be full of fresh, healthy plant materials and you want to be ready. It's surprisingly easy to be tempted by that perfectly shaped viburnum, or the picture of how beautiful that spreading maple will be in years to come. Yet when you get home with it, you may find you haven't room.

Extension horticulturists at Penn State say the development of a plan is the first step to success. Draw your entire property on paper. Locate your house, your walks, your driveway and garage, and any other structural elements. Then, draw in permanent trees and garden areas you want to keep the way they are now. Next comes the hard part; identify the problem areas and, on paper, experiment with alternatives. Get out the garden hose and use it as a boundary for possible flower, shrub, or vegetable beds. If you don't like that configuration, change it and use the hose to map out another.

Go inside and look out the window. What do you see? What would you like to see? If there is something beyond your property, you definitely don't want to see, plan to screen it out with trees and shrubs. If you're desperate and can afford it, a fence may do the trick immediately. But then, you need to think of plantings in front of the fence to soften it and make it a natural part of your garden.

Does your garden look drab in the winter? Several plants can add color and texture even without their leaves. Evergreens are always a welcome relief to a winter landscape — and Pennsylvania has a lot of winter. Talk to your friends and neighbors. What do they grow? Does it do well? Then, go to your local garden center or nursery. Before the spring planting season is really here, these specialists may have a little extra time to advise you on the best plants for your area. You may be dying to have a mimosa blooming in your front yard in late summer, but it simply won't happen in most parts of Pennsylvania. Learn what does best where you live. Plants and trees growing in the climate and soil they like will reward you for years and years. Others languish and die.

Be kind to your family. Plan your garden so that everyone can enjoy it. That may mean a sandbox this year, a basketball area next year, or a private place to have a conversation.

Now's the time to bird watch

UNIVERSITY PARK — Late March and early April are usually the best times to keep track of favorite bird species returning from the south, suggests Merrill Wood, State College, author of "Birds of Pennsylvania." Later than that, an "aerial traffic jam" may occur, he commented recently.

Wood developed "Birds of Pennsylvania," a black and white manual, while associated with the Agricultural Experiment Station at Penn State. He is now retired from the faculty in zoology.

Normally, about 16 species arrive in mid-March, 23 in late March, and 20 species in early April. By early May, the "traffic pattern" for bird arrivals is somewhat congested, he said, with 41 species appearing — the peak time for migrations.

The guidebook lists the species migrating into, or through Pennsylvania during each month of the year. "Birds of Pennsylvania" is available for $2.25, Pennsylvania tax and shipping included, from Birds, Department 6000, University Park, PA 16802. Make checks payable to The Pennsylvania State University. Allow at least two weeks for delivery.

When driving to Penn State, you can pick up a copy in room 204 of the new Agricultural Administration Building at the corner of Shortlidge and Curtin Roads. The office is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The volume was revised in 1979 and describes briefly the 381 bird species normally reported in Pennsylvania. The guidebook includes abundance, seasonal occurrence, habits and status changes, and general breeding and winter ranges. It contains 201 pen-and-ink drawings of the most common species in the State.

Berks PFA women "hop" into spring

BY ROBIN PHILLIPS
Staff Correspondent

Shartlesville — Shedding their winter doldrums and "hopping into" the "spring" of things, the Berks County Farmers Association Women's Committee held their annual "Ladies Day Out" program last Wednesday at the Shartlesville Grange Hall, here.

After greetings from Lillian Harnish, chairperson for the event, and John A. Kock, Berks County Farmers Association president, the women were treated to an "awareness" pep talk from Pennsylvania State Trooper Robert McLovich.

A trooper for 12 years and currently stationed at the Hamburg barracks, McLovich is devoting much of his time promoting crime prevention to gatherings across the county and introducing a "crime watch" program.

"Our program is to get everybody involved...be aware," McLovich said.

With the average burglary taking about three minutes to complete, neighbors must learn to help each other, McLovich warned. The biggest problem, according to McLovich is apathy. "People just don't want to get involved," he continued.

McLovich is currently contacting all township supervisors in the county to assist in starting the crime watch program.

"The most important thing (in crime prevention) are your neighbors. Concerned neighbors working together make a safe neighborhood," McLovich said. "Let's start getting involved."

Following are tips McLovich offered for protecting property.

- When going out at night, turn on several lights in at least two different parts of the house. A radio or tape player could be turned on, also.

- If away for several days, have a neighbor watch your property. turn lights on and off at different intervals, collect your mail, change positions of your window shades, and park a car in your driveway.

- Do not leave notes for delivery men. Anyone can read notes and realize that there will be no one home.

- Cut away any shrubbery or trees restricting the view to your windows and doors.

- Install locks and bolts on door.

- If confronted by intruders

Ladies Day Out participant Carol Kopfer enjoyed the craft demonstration that day. Here, she scratches out her own design on the onion-skin dyed egg.

Esther Becker, a blind pianist and singer, entertained the women with old-fashioned favorites and country charm.

The annual Berks County Ladies Day Out, last week, featured a craft table filled with inexpensive crafts made using materials from around the house or farm.

always cooperate. Nothing is worth your life.

— Do not give any information about yourself or your neighbors to strangers. Report suspicious-looking strangers to your neighborhood police.

— Identify all liabilities by engraving your driver's operator number on them. The engravers can be loaned from the police department, free of charge.

— Keep the phone number of your police on all phones and call at first signs of any intruders or breakins. Do not attempt to apprehend the intruder yourself.

— Get your neighbors involved, and watch each other's property.

— Stating that the laws are tough to enforce, McLovich said, "It's up to your organizations to change things and help the police."

PFA Regional Organization Director, Don Missimer praised Berks County for being the most active PFA organization. Berks PFA also has the second largest amount of members.

Following the theme for the day, "Hopping into Spring," Patricia Glausere presented new ideas in decorating a home. A teacher of elementary art education with the Schuylkill Valley School District, Miss Glauser specializes in crafts from household items at a cost of less than $20.

Stating that she collects everything from bottle caps, pie pans, and baler twine, to pine cones and born husks, Miss Glauser showed some finished projects which anyone would be able to complete.

Hardboiled eggs dyed with onion skins were then passed out to each woman. A paper heart pattern also was provided to fasten to the egg with scotch tape. The women then were instructed to decorate the egg using the razor blade, by scratching a heart design on to the egg. The pattern then was removed and the women could scratch out a more delicate design around the egg. Rubber bands were stretched onto the egg to be used as line guides for the designs.

After each woman completed her original design, eggs were to be coated with a decoupage lacquer to give them a shine.

Esther Becker, Reading, a blind pianist and soloist was on hand to entertain the ladies. One of eight children, Miss Becker has been blind since birth and volunteers to sing for all the convalescent homes, senior citizen groups, and county organizations that she can fit into her schedule.

"God gave me the gift of music", Miss Becker stated. Wherever she goes, she is accompanied by her pet dog, Bingo, who also enjoys singing along with the audience and her owner.

A graduate of the Overbrook School for the Blind in Philadelphia, Miss Becker enjoys playing the organ. She also plays the piano and loves to be pushed in a wheel chair from hospital room to room as she plays the accordion and sings for patients. Miss Becker is employed by Wegman's Restaurant, Reading.

I'm a professional musician, but I'd much rather volunteer. I love it," Miss Becker stated.

In addition to the entertainment by Miss Becker, several of the Women's Committee members presented colorful skits in Berks County "Pennsylvania Dutch".

Member of the PFA of Berks County Womens Committee include: Lillian Harnish, chairperson; Gloria Christman, vice chairperson; Esther Kieffer, secretary; Joan Hafer, treasurer; Rita Stump, public relations; Nancy Sanner, chaplain; and June Burgert, Carol Kopfer, Dorothy Wagner, Anna Mae Myer, Marie Maggiaro, Sandy Kulp, and Carolyn Feeg.

Gardenias need special care

NEWARK, Del. — One of the most popular houseplants today is the gardenia. Unfortunately, it's also one of the toughest to grow successfully. The fact that it's native to the cool, moist hillsides of southern China may explain why it seldom seems to thrive in the warm, dry interiors of the typical American home.

Also called Cape jasmine (Gardenia jasminoides), this attractive plant with its super-fragrant, waxy white flowers and glossy, dark green leaves is currently much in demand.

Gardenia plants appear to sprout overnight on the counters of florist shops, supermarkets, garden centers and variety shops—especially around Easter. But before you buy one, University of Delaware extension garden specialist Dave Tatnall suggests you check it over thoroughly. Make sure it has good foliage color, plump, healthy flower buds, a nice compact form, and no obvious insect pests. Buy promptly, because gardenias are perishable and many stores don't provide expert care.

If you bring one home, be prepared to give it lots of special care or you may not enjoy it very long, Tatnall says.

Provide full sun, such as from a south window, though a little light shade during the heat of summer is desirable. The plant needs daytime warmth (70 to 75 degrees F) and cooler nights (60 to 65 degrees). Keep the soil evenly moist. Maintain a high humidity by misting daily, or place the plant on a tray of pebbles and water. Grow it in a humus-rich commercial potting soil formulated for acid-loving plants. And apply a soluble houseplant fertilizer every three weeks during active growth.

Gardenias aren't much troubled by disease, but Tatnall says they are subject to several insect pests—especially mealybugs, spider mites, white flies and scales. He recommends spraying the foliage frequently with plain water or washing it with a mild detergent. This will keep the plant cleaner, more attractive and help prevent a build-up of pests.

More important than insects is a common, frustrating problem that afflicts many home-grown gardenias—bud drop. This condition, in which flower buds drop before opening, has several causes including poor light, improper watering, unfavorable or fluctuating temperatures and low humidity.

If possible, Tatnall suggests putting your gardenia outdoors for the season after the weather has warmed up—usually by late May or early June. Place the pot in a slightly shaded, sheltered spot. Water regularly and liquid-feed as recommended. With cooler weather in early fall, repot the plant in a slightly larger container and bring it inside.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Late last year my husband and I went to an open house sponsored by the Pa. Farmers Assn. in Lancaster County. We visited several farms but felt that the highlight of the tour was the Mount Hope Estate and Winery. It is located on Route 72 and is about five miles north of Manheim.

It was lavishly decorated for the Christmas season and the 28-room mansion of quarried red sandstone still maintains some of its federal style from 1800.

It was known as the Daisy Grubb mansion for many years, because it was built by her grandfather Henry Grubb. His father Peter bought the original 2,500 acres of land in order to use the forests to keep his ironworks supplied with charcoal. At one time he owned a dozen red stone homes in the area which his workers occupied.

There is an ancient elevator in the house and many fireplaces. Some are constructed of black marble and others have elaborate ornamentation and special tiles. A very large ballroom, added in 1895, has a stained glass skylight. There is also a dome-roofed greenhouse. The billiard room has been changed to a wine-tasting room with a gleaming copper bar.

Starch blockers raise questions

NEWARK, Del. — Last June, health food and drug stores were stocked with more than 100 brands of a product which purportedly keeps the digestive system from absorbing starch. Starch blockers sounded like the answer to every springwater from a nearby hillside and the Grubbs had flush toilets almost one hundred years before other families. The gardens contain very old boxwoods and an ancient cork tree. They also had an ice house sunk 20 feet into the ground which held ice for the entire summer.

My husband Allen was especially interested in seeing this property because his three times great grandfather, Jacob Kraybill, sold this same tract of land to Peter Grubb on November 20, 1784. It was then that he moved to what is now known as Donegal Mills Plantation where he built a mill and continued in the milling and farming business the rest of his life.

And here we are at the other end of the county, but still in the farming business.

dieter's prayer — pills that permit indulgence without weight gain.

But to the federal Food and Drug Administration (FDA), those "magic pills" were drugs whose safety and effectiveness had to be proved under the Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act. In July, the FDA asked manufacturers to stop marketing the pills until testing could be completed.

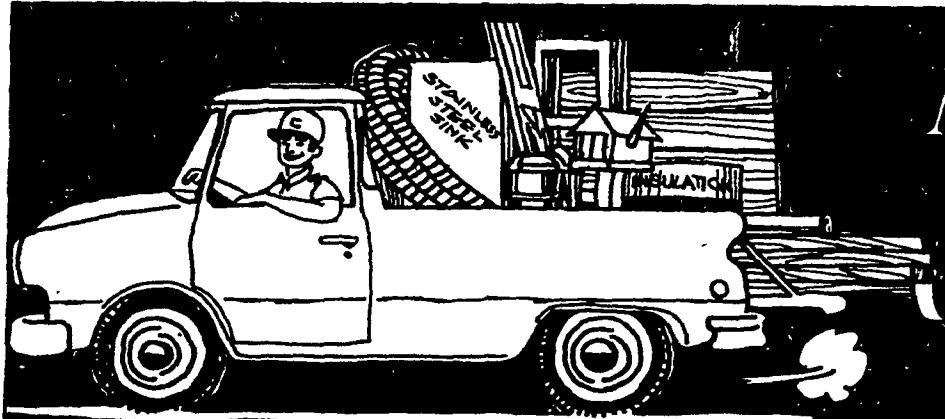

The majority of manufacturers complied voluntarily, but some have resisted, claiming that starch blockers are a food supplement rather than a drug, and therefore not subject to regulation under the act. The FDA is working through the federal judicial system to have the remaining starch blockers removed from the marketplace.

Advertisers claim that one starch blocker pill inhibits the absorption of up to 100 grams of starch (400 calories). They say the pills work by binding with amylase, an enzyme the body uses to break down starch into an absorbable form. The proclaimed active ingredient in starch blockers is phaseolamin, an extract of raw kidney beans and wheat. In laboratory tests, phaseolamin has been shown to inhibit amylase activity. However, its effect on the digestion of starch in humans is a matter of controversy, points out student dietitian Dawn Thomas, who is working with University of Delaware extension nutrition specialist Marguerite Krackhardt.

A number of questions have been raised regarding the safety of starch blockers, Thomas points out. Numerous side effects have been reported, including nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, and cramping.

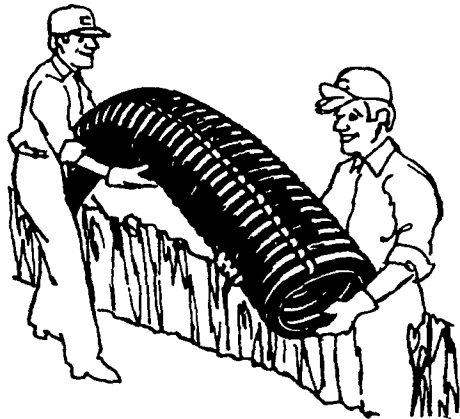

There are also concerns about the purity of the bean extract, since kidney beans contain at least three other "anti-nutrient" substances in addition to phaseolamin. These other substances influence mineral absorption, blood clotting, and protein digestion and utilization. Thus, an impure bean extract could have several adverse consequences.

Attention FFA Alumni: you're back in business

MYERSTOWN — Attention FFA Alumni in Pennsylvania: You're back in business.

That's the message that a former state FFA officer and currently president of the Alumni Association is bringing to FFA Chapter graduates across the state.

The goal of the Alumni President, Glenn Wenger, of Myerstown, is the rejuvenation of FFA graduates and friends into effective alumni chapters, which can lend local support to Future Farmers of America activities and vo-ag programs in their home communities.

And, Wenger has been on the FFA banquet circuit lately spreading this message to the audiences, which include many graduates and friends of vo-ag.

For example, last week Wenger attended five banquets in as many nights across the four-county area of Lebanon, Lancaster, Berks and Lehigh. At the same time, he acted as FFA host and guide for Bruce Kettler, National FFA Eastern Vice President, who was featured speaker at the banquets.

Kettler called on his fellow FFA'ers at the banquets to be ready for the challenges that the future of agriculture will bring.

"There will be tremendous changes in agriculture in the coming near future," Kettler stressed at the Lehigh County FFA banquet last Saturday night.

"We, in FFA must be ready to take over a leadership role and be ready to run with it.

"And, we must convince the adults that they can have confidence in us to help take over in agriculture."

"I like the competitiveness I see in FFA in this area. Don't be afraid to stick your neck out and take the lead."

"And, we must work together — FFA'ers, parents and other adults — to guarantee a smooth transition in future agriculture."

And, this is where the rejuvenated Alumni Association Chapters that Wenger is boosting in his appearances would play a key role.

"This year, the Alumni Association will take over operation of the leadership conference for FFA'ers in Eastern Pennsylvania, which is held at PEEC (Pocono Environmental Education Center)," Wenger explained.

"And, we're looking at a leadership conference for FFA members in the western part of the state, too."

In addition to statewide FFA alumni activities, Wenger is encouraging the formation or rejuvenation of local chapters to support the FFA at the community level.

In his home Elco chapter, Wenger heads a new alumni group, which is already planning a Junior FFA program in the Eastern Lebanon County School District.

In addition, the Elco FFA Alumni held a reception on Friday, March 18, for Kettler, the visiting

Among speakers at the reception were Charles Lebo, State FFA Advisor; Harvey Smith, area consultant; Kenneth Good, of the School District Administration; Dennis Grumbine, representing area business; Wenger and Ketler.

As is the purpose of the FFA Alumni, the reception brought together the "younger and older" generations of FFA to see how more effective cooperation can be achieved to further the goals of FFA and vo-ag.

So, on the banquet circuit and at special events, Wenger is stressing the potential effective force that FFA alumni can become in reaching those goals.

Any FFA graduate, friend or supporter of vo-ag interested in more information about the FFA alumni can contact: Glenn Wenger, Wenger's Farm Machinery, Inc., Myerstown, Pa. 17067.

Solanco Chapter wins dairy judging competition

BY DEBBIE KOONTZ

LANCASTER — The Lancaster County PenSupreme plant on Hempstead Road, maker of 8 1/2 million gallons of ice cream last year, played host to the annual FFA dairy judging contest, Wednesday, when the Solanco chapter captured top honors in both team and individual competition over teams from Lancaster and York counties.

The Solanco team, coached by advisor and teacher Ron Althoff, competed with nine schools and tasted their way through milk, cottage cheese and solid cheeses to win the title.

More than 50 students participated in the competition, but only two, Todd Groff, son of James and Linda Groff, Quarryville and Edwina Johnson, daughter of T. Edwin and Doris Johnson Jr.,

Airville, earned first place awards.

Besides Todd, other winners from Lancaster County include Ken Ruhl, son of Paul and Thelma Ruhl, and Tracey Stowe, daughter of Allen and Jean Stowe. Ken and Tracey are members of the Elizabethtown chapter.

Second and third placings for York County went to Peggy Klinedinst, daughter of Barry and Sandra Klinedinst of R11 York, and Brian Bupp, son of Laverne and Norma Bupp of Brogue, respectively.

Other placings in the team competition included the Manheim chapter in second place, followed by the Elizabethtown and New Holland chapters. The Ephrata chapter won fifth place.

According to Dan Hamilton, quality control director at PenSupreme, the dairy sponsors the competition because "We feel it's a service to the school system." Hamilton, in charge of preparation for the contest, said "I have somewhat of a personal interest in the contest too, because I used to be an FFA member during my school years."

The competition Hamilton prepared included a written quiz of 25 questions about dairying, 10 solid cheeses to taste, and several examples of milk and cottage cheese for grading of its merits or defects.

Todd Groff, right, was named first place winner of the individual competition at Wednesday's dairy judging contest. With him are Ken Ruhl and Tracey Stowe, both of the Elizabethtown chapter, second and third place winners respectively.

Dreisbach wins Jersey crown

CHAMBERSBURG — Patricia Dreisbach, 17-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert C. Dreisbach, R3 Hamburg, was crowned the Pennsylvania State Jersey Queen, March 19, at the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania State Jersey Queen Contest.

Selected from a field of six contestants, Miss Dreisbach presented herself as a confident, well-informed, promoter of the Jersey breed according to the judges.

Miss Dreisbach is very active in the Northern Berks 4-H Dairy Club, the Hamburg FFA Chapter, and the Junior Club of the PJCC.

In her speech, Miss Dreisbach listed her accomplishments and goals and extolled the virtues of the Jersey cow. Ending her speech with "And it hurts less when she (the Jersey) steps on your foot," it seemed obvious that this beaming girl should be the next ambassador for the breed.

First runner-up was Ann Sanderson, daughter of Thomas and Carolyn Sanderson of Crawford County. A former dairy princess of Crawford County, the blonde Miss Sanderson stated, "One of the most important things (of living on a farm) is our family life together."

The duties of the new queen and her alternate, in addition to promoting Jerseys wherever she goes, will be to distribute out ribbons and awards at state fairs and district shows. Miss Dreisbach will represent the Pennsylvania state club in the National Jersey Jug Queen contest in Louisville, Ky., in November.

Other contestants competing were: Valerie Miner, Tioga County; Elizabeth Dupuis, Centre County; Lisa Lusk, Washington County; and Lisa Pilipauskis, Crawford County.

Judges were: Betty Wenger of St. Thomas, from the Department

Maryland Grange names youth representatives

WALKERSVILLE — In conjunction with "Youth Month Activities in March," the Maryland State Grange named two Frederick county youths as Grange representatives for the next year.

Theresa Duvall and Mike Spielman, both of Glade Valley Grange in Walkersville, will be attending activities and functions across the state. Highlighting their year's reign will be attendance at the 117th National Grange Session next November in San Antonio, Texas.

Theresa Duvall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merhle H. Duvall, lives on a 350-acre dairy farm on Devilbiss Bridge Rd. near Walkersville.

Theresa is currently the lady assistant steward of Glade Valley Grange and serves as co-chairman of the Youth Committee. She is also the Grange Deaf Activities Chairman. She is on the Community Service and Community Show committees.

Theresa has been very active on the Pomona and state levels of Grange youth work. She was last year's first place winner in the state song contest and was in the group winning first place in regional competition for song-signing.

Theresa is co-leader of the Glade Valley Junior Grange, an organization for boys and girls aged five to fourteen. She has been in the first and second degree teams for the past two years and served in the Court of Pomona for two years. In addition to her Grange work, she has been very active in many other organizations. She was the Grange's 1981 Youth Representative Award Winner and was also the 1979 Maryland Ayrshire Girl (winning an honorable mention on the national level), the 1980 Frederick Co. 4-H Unsung Hero Award Recipient, and the 1971 Recipient of the John Williams Sportsmanship Award for Dairy. She is a member of the 4-H All Stars, Frederick Church of the Brethren, Walkersville FFA Alumni, and has helped with the Maryland School for the Deaf 4-H Club. She is also a member of the Md. State Police National Emergency Air Radio Monitoring Team. She works at The Farm in Frederick.

Michael Spielman is 18 years old and lives in Frederick. A member of Glade Valley Grange, he serves as co-youth chairman and is on the Community Service and Community Show Committees.

A graduate of Walkersville High School, Mike has been very active with Grange/FFA related activities. Mike was the state Public Speaking Contest Winner in 1982 and placed second in the regional competition. A recipient of the Md. State Grange Agriculture Scholarship, Mike plans to attend UMES for ag business management courses. Mike is involved in the Blood Donor Program through G.V. Grange and is on the safety and membership committee. While in school, he was a member of the FFA dairy products, poultry and parliamentary procedure teams.

He was chosen to receive the Ruth K. Holter and FFA Alumni Scholarships last year at Walkersville High. Mike also was active in band and sports during school. He is currently working at Watson's Fuel and Food in Frederick.

Mike Spielman and Theresa Duvall, both of Glade Valley Grange in Walkersville, will be representing the Maryland State Grange in youth-related activities for the next year. In November, they will attend the 117th National Grange Session in San Antonio, Texas.

ELVERSON — Twenty three students in the vocational agriculture program at Twin Valley High School recently recorded 12 radio programs for broadcast during national FFA week.

Four of the programs were 15 minutes long, with the remaining being five-minute programs. The programs discussed some of the many projects undertaken by the Twin Valley FFA.

Specific topics covered the Food for America Program, PEEC Pennsylvania FFA Leadership Training Conference, Building our American Communities Projects, Showing dairy cattle, the trip to the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, activities for Greenhands, the history and background of the FFA, what horticulture is and projects for horticulture students, showing swine, forestry and forestry projects. All programs were broadcast by WCOJ Coatesville during national FFA Week.

Students involved in the radio programs were Mary McMullen, Carol Kurtz, Chris Cylcewski, Glenn Stoltzfus, Beth Morgan, Chris Coblentz, Lisa Yoder, Bert Zerr, Bill Kirk, Brenda Werner, Mark Zerr, Scott Burnett, Joe Nonnemaker, Dave Sowa, Dave Naples, Gail Raser, Rich Geedy, Tim McEwen, Chad Myer, John Noyes, Rod Stoltzfus, and Greg Raser. Students described their main topic and then told what activities they had participated in, what their projects were, and what their future plans are.

Planting control for early emergence

Cyclo® Air Planter

Revolutionary IH Cyclo Air planters combine unmatched seed environment control with the metering accuracy and speed of air placement. Result: earlier rising crops and more uniform emergence.

- Precision seed metering, depth control, seed placement and covering.
- Crop changes in 10 minutes or less, without tools.
- Big 15-bushel seed hopper lets you plant longer.
- Drums for wide range of seed varieties.
- Plants up to 8 MPH, depending on population.

Trailing or mounted models, 4 to 12 rows.

Finance plans available.

Consumers should be aware of USRDA

LANCASTER — Consumers interested in nutrition and good health should familiarize themselves with the initials U.S. RDA, what they mean, and how they're used, says Dairy Council Inc., a nutrition education organization in Southampton, Pa.

U.S. RDA stands for United States Recommended Daily Allowances; they are guides to the amounts of vitamins and minerals a person needs each day to stay healthy.

Based on the Recommended Dietary Allowances (RDA) established by the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Sciences - National Research Council, the RDA's represent the amounts of essential nutrients known to meet human nutritional needs.

The U.S. RDA's are a set of simplified RDA and were devised by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) for use on product labels to provide consumers with nutrition information about the food they buy.

U.S. RDA's not only take into consideration the average nutrient requirements that healthy persons need, but also extra margins and are set high enough to cover variations in the needs of individuals.

Since these allowances are designed for product labeling purposes, the many categories of dietary allowances for males and females of different ages are condensed to as few as nutritionally possible. The highest values for the ages combined in a U.S. RDA are used.

For example, the U.S. RDA's for adults and children over four are representative, generally, of the dietary allowances recommended for a teenage boy. Therefore, the U.S. RDA is higher than necessary for some people. Many adults may need only about 75 percent of the U.S. RDA of most nutrients and children about 50 percent.

There are four groups of the U.S. RDA. Best known and the one used on most nutrition information panels is for adults and children over four years of age. The second is for infants up to one year; the third for children under four, and the fourth for pregnant women and nursing mothers.

Nutrition labeling is required on all foods to which a nutrient is added or for which a nutrition claim is made. It appears voluntarily on other foods.

The lower part of the label gives the percentages of the U.S. RDA of protein and seven vitamins and minerals in a serving of the product, for example:

Protein	30
Vitamin C	10
Iron	25
Thiamin	15
Niacin	25
Calcium	2

This means that one serving of that food contains 30 percent of the U.S. RDA for protein, 35 percent for vitamin A, and so on.

By reading labels and, specifically, recognizing the U.S. RDA, says Dairy Council, consumers can learn which food contributes substantial amounts of nutrients. Eating a daily variety of foods and reading nutrition information on labels assures consumers of getting needed nutrients.

Middle Creek plans wildlife lectures

MIDDLE CREEK — A series of free wildlife lectures, open to the public, has been scheduled during the next five months at the Middle Creek Wildlife Management Area Visitors Center in Lebanon and Lancaster Counties.

The programs, Wednesday and Thursday nights twice a month, begin at 7:30 p.m. in the center's auditorium.

The schedule follows:

April 6-7 - Elk in the Keystone State - Wildlife Biologists Jerry Hassinger (Game Commission) and Dan Devlin (Pa. Bureau of Forestry).

April 20-21 - Wild Flowers in Pennsylvania - Tim Flanagan, Pennsylvania district game protector.

May 4-5 - Pennsylvania's Black Bear - Gary Alt, Game Commission wildlife biologist.

May 18-19 - Mountain Men and Indian Lore - Barry Warner, Pennsylvania district game protector.

June 1-2 - Managing Farm Lands for Wildlife - Edward Soutiere, assistant manager, Remington Farms.

June 15-16 - Nobody Cries When Habitat Dies - Jerry Hassinger, Game Commission wildlife biologist.

July 6-7 - Outdoor Photography - Tom Fegley, host of WGAL-TV's "Call of the Outdoors."

July 20-21 - Edible Wild Plants - Kermit Henning, educator and outdoor writer.

Aug. 3-4 - Pennsylvania's Birds of Prey - Mike Ondik, safety director, Pennsylvania Forestry Association.

Aug. 17-18 - Outdoor Survival Skills - Carl Graybill, Game

Commission Information and Education Division assistant chief.

Sept. 7-8 - Migration and Bird Banding - Robert J. Blohm, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service migratory game bird specialist.

Sept. 21-22 - Venison Field Care and Processing - Mike Schmit, Game Commission conservation information assistant, and Ted Fox, Pennsylvania district game protector.

Soil fertility meeting Tuesday

Beegle is in charge of soil test recommendations and will discuss the interpretation and proper use of a soil test.

Other topics of interest will include use of a side-dressing fertilizer, fertilizer efficiency, timing of various fertilizer materials, with special emphasis on fertilizing high-fertility soils for maximum production.

With lots of manure being used, increased yield goals in mind, and ample soil moisture, farm managers need to know how to use the soil test tool to make intelligent management decisions. This educational meeting will present basic and advanced soil fertility information valuable to any farmer growing crops.

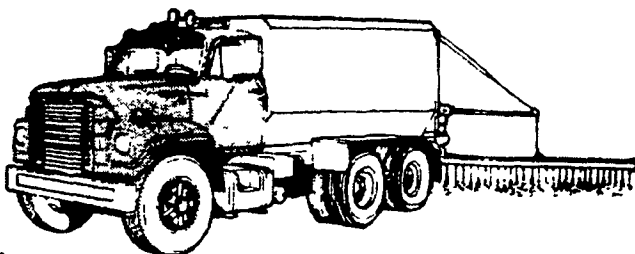

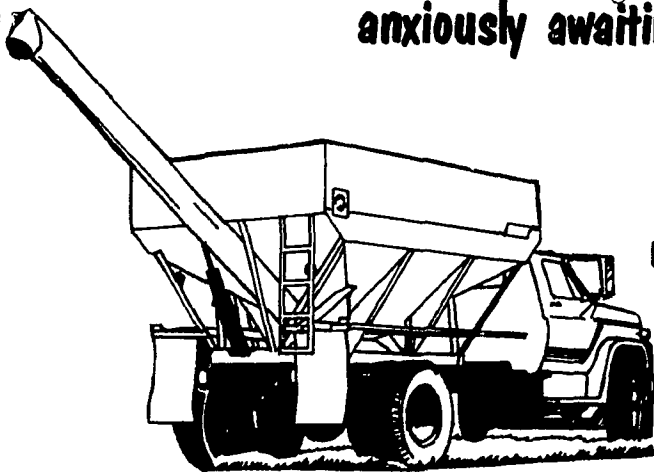

All interested persons are invited. The Union Grove Alternative School is located near Terre Hill on route 625, 2 miles north of route 23.

Exports make jobs

Every time U.S. farm exports increase $1 billion, 31,700 new jobs are created for Americans.

Chester 4-H offers tractor safety course

WEST CHESTER — The 4-H program of Chester County is offering a tractor safety course to youths between ages 14 and 16 who are interested in working on farms this summer.

Youth employees are required by law to be certified before hiring to operate farm equipment. According to Donna Connell, Chester Extension agent, "This training is for their own protection and to help guarantee insurance coverage in case of accident. Farmers have the added legal responsibility for supervising youth on-the-job about machinery safety precautions."

The Extension will be offering training in two locations this year. The southern Chester County meeting will be held at the Oxford Area High School, and the northern meeting at Owen J. Roberts High School.

Members must pre register to attend.

For more information, contact Donna Connell at the Chester County Extension office (215) 696-3500.

Penn State schedules judging events

UNIVERSITY PARK — Dairy cattle and livestock judging contests, open to local 4-H and FFA members, are scheduled for April 9 at the Penn State campus. The contests will be sponsored by the campus Block and Bridle Club and the Dairy Science Club as part of their annual expositions.

Registration for livestock judging begins at 9 a.m. in the Penn State beef and sheep barns. There will be a youth division for 4-H and FFA members, as well as collegiate competitors from the campus.

Youth and collegiate divisions in livestock judging will be further divided into amateur and professional groups. All contestants will judge eight classes of swine, beef cattle, and sheep — with the professional groups presenting oral reasons for their placings.

Brenda Werner of Hanover, senior in animal production, will be chairman of the April 9 livestock judging. Prizes to winning teams and individuals will be awarded April 30 during the Block and Bridle Club's annual banquet in the Hetzel Union Building on campus.

Registration for dairy cattle judging will be held in the university dairy barns, starting at 9 a.m. Groups will compete much the same as for the livestock judging. Co-chairmen of this year's dairy cattle judging are Lisa Cooper, senior dairy production major from Slippery Rock, and Alan Kozak, junior majoring in dairy production from Washington.

Dairy cattle judging will feature eight classes with two oral reasons classes for 4-H and FFA divisions. In addition, four oral reasons classes will be presented by Penn State students. Twelve official judges will place the classes and score the oral reasons. Winning teams and high individuals will receive awards at the Dairy Science Club's annual banquet May 7 at Gatsby's, State College.

The major event of "Show Day" for the 66th Little International Livestock Exposition will begin at 8 a.m. on April 30 at the Penn State Beef and Sheep Center. Competition includes fitting and showing techniques for beef cattle, horses, sheep, and swine. A champion showman and fitter will be chosen in each species, from which a grand champion showman will be named.

The 1983 Dairy Exposition concludes with Show Day on May 7 at the Dairy Production Center. About 115 cows from the university dairy herds will be fitted and shown by Penn State students.

The registration fee for both contests will include the cost of a bag lunch.

Your "Mammas To Be"

Dry cows are not simply cows that have stopped producing milk and a cost item that is temporarily not earning you an income. Nor are they cows that you can simply shove into some out-of-the way corner in your barn or on your farm. They are your "mammas to be", and they deserve the same general care as your wife who may be expecting your child!

The pregnant cow has been endowed with many motherly instincts and abilities. Her unborn fetus and her new-born calf are her top priority concerns. In fact, like a good mother, she'll rob her own body, and make many sacrifices for the benefit of her young.

As a dairyman, one of your challenges is to provide here endless opportunities during the dry period and during her lactation to do her own thing - naturally; that is, to be a good mother. Once she has calved, and you have taken her calf away from her, you and your milking machine become a substitute for her calf. In other words, she becomes your mother. At least she thinks she is, and it's to your benefit to let her think that way.

With her motherly instinct, she'll reward you well in the milk pail.

A Good Start

Back to the dry period. How well a cow will do in her next lactation will depend largely on how well she was taken care of in late lactation, during her dry period and in the weeks following calving. Like a good race, a good lactation needs a good start - a good dry period - a good foundation. If a cow fails to get off on a good start in early lactation, generally she will never make a real good recovery during that entire lactation. That could make a real good recovery during that entire lactation. That could mean a loss of 500 to 2000 pounds, or more, of milk for that lactation.

Big Job

Even though she is not milking, the dry cow has many jobs to accomplish during her dry period. Some of these are discussed below.

(1) Replenishing and repairing secretory tissue in the udder. This required a minimum of about 45 days. Shorter dry periods deny cows an opportunity to complete this job, and generally result in a less productive lactation. Similarly, secretory cells damaged by infection (mastitis) late in the dry period will not have sufficient time to be repaired prior to the next lactation. Again, production suffers.

(2) Replenish body reserves. Think of a cow's body as a checking account. Heavy production in the previous lactation has depleted the balance in her checking account. If you don't feed her properly to enable her to make some deposits into her account during late lactation, and during the dry period, there is no balance for her to draw upon at the beginning of her next lactation. Some of these reserves, especially energy, can be replenished most efficiently in late lactation. You'll get the job done with less feed. The goal is to get her in good flesh before you dry her off, and maintain that flesh during the dry period.

(3) Grow a fetus. The fetus (unborn calf) makes its most rapid growth during the last two months of pregnancy. It's gaining about one pound per day. Dry cows have to be fed for that gain.

(4) Develop various reproductive tissues, membranes, and fluids plus manufacture antibody-rich colostrum milk for her calf.

(5) Repair her digestive system and get it conditioned for the kinds and amounts of feeds it will be subjected to in early lactation.

(6) Rest and repair tired, injured and infected feet and legs. A reprieve from concrete can be helpful.

(7) Become acclimated to the kind of life she'll be living as a lactating cow. In other words, getting used to her new herd mates, new daily routines (feeding, milking, etc.), new housing systems and strange surroundings, and new workers - a shocker for those heifers that haven't had any close contact with human creatures for nearly two years.

Big Stresses

Calving time, and the weeks that follow, has to be the most stressful time in a cow's life! Let's reflect upon some of these stresses.

(1) The act calving, and the laboring that is associated with it, is a big stress. If she also had complications at calving time, that compounds the problem.

(2) After calving, the cow has a major repair job to do on her reproductive tract. If she is plagued with uterine and udder infections at this time, she is under additional stress.

(3) Then, she has to start producing milk to feed her new-born calf. Through breeding and selection, we have magnified this stress because we expect her to reach peak production soon after calving. Mother Nature only intended her to produce enough milk for her young; that's 10-15 pounds per day. We expect her to peak at 100-150 pounds; that enough for 10 calves!

(4) At the same time, she is adjusting to some major changes: new herd mates, from low levels of grain and energy to high levels of grain and starchy feeds, from long dry hay and low protein hay to chopped, ensiled, high moisture and higher protein forages, and perhaps to confinement on concrete.

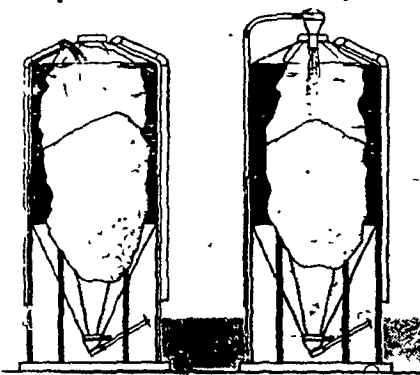

(5) As if that were not enough, we then expect her to conceive while in peak production! It's physically impossible for most high producing cows to consume enough feed to meet their nutrient needs for high levels of production; they are forced to call upon their body reserves. For good conception, a cow needs to be in a positive state of nutrition - gaining weight. I guess it's Nature's way of saying "if you can't take care of your own needs, who are you to think you can also take care of the additional needs of a growing fetus?"

Is it any wonder we have problems getting our fresh cows off to a good start in early lactation? That dry cow has a lot of work to accomplish. If we expect the most from her in her next lactation, then she has the right to expect the most from us during her dry period and during her lactation, especially early lactation.

In my next column, next month, I'll be focusing on some specific management practices. In the meantime, take good care of your mammas.

Tye No Till Drills

make your land productive year around

• Plant alfalfa into alfalfa • Stubble plant into rice, corn wheat soybeans and more • Double crop • Reseed or interseed bermuda or bahia pasture land with clover, alfalfa wheat grass, rye grass, birdsfoot trefoil

The Tye No Till Drill plants into conventional and unprepared seedbeds, stubble, field residue and pastures.

1/Independently spring loaded coulters with narrow profile, tapered roller bearing hubs cut through stubble and vegetation preparing a track for the double disc openers to follow.

2/Double disc openers roll through trash and deposit seed uniformly.

3/Independently spring loaded press wheels firm the soil around the seed for proper germination.

Choose the model to fit your operation: 80", 120" and 160" widths with 8" and 10" row spacings in three-point hitch or pull type. The 120" model is available only in pull-type and 8" row spacing

ACCESSORIES: Walkboard, fertilizer hopper, special hopper for fluffy hard-to-plant native grass seeds and others.

Williamsport College to offer dairy course

WILLIAMSPORT — Williamsport Area Community College will begin offering a course in Dairy Herd Management in the Fall. The new course was approved by the College's Board of Trustees at this month's meeting.

Dairy Herd Management, a one-year certificate program, will offer business management and dairy herd production training to students who plan to manage their own herd or seek employment in managing a large commercial herd.

In the ten-county area which is served by the Williamsport Area Community College, there are 2,255 commercial dairy farms which generate $179 million in dairy products each year. In addition, four additional neighboring counties (Columbia, Centre, Luzerne, and Schuylkill) have 550 commercial dairy farms and produce $38 million in dairy products annually. The total production of the 14-county area is $217 million.

Farmers returning questionnaires to the Williamsport Area Community College indicated a strong interest in the program. Expected enrollment is 18 to 20 students per year. As presently planned, one faculty member with experience and expertise in dairy herd management will be employed. During the first year, this person would be involved in course development as well as teaching.

Three-fifths of the program will be taught at the state-owned Danville Farm in Montour County. The college is currently using the farm for training purposes in its agribusiness program through a lease agreement. All necessary laboratory equipment, such as milking machines, tractors, forage blowers, etc., are currently in place at the Danville Farm and are available for use by the Dairy Herd Management students and instructors.

Specific areas of study will include soils, forage production, dairy feeding, herd health, animal breeding, record keeping, financing, and milking management. Actual hands-on experiences with a variety of situations and equipment will be held at the Danville state Farm.

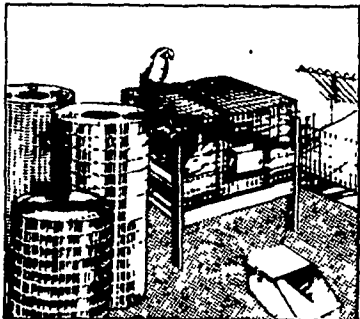

Persons interested in more information on the Dairy Herd Management program should contact the Admissions Office of The Williamsport Area Community College.

Just one of the important benefits you get with Safeguard equipment!

At Eastertime, a lot of parents buy bunnies or chicks for their children. But as the fun of the holiday fades comes the inevitable question: What are we going to do with them now?

This year you can keep the smiles on your children's faces by giving your new bunnies or chicks the proper protection of Safeguard science-engineered cages and accessories. Safeguard has everything from sanitary, all-metal enclosures to watering systems, feeders and nest boxes. Even 100 ft.

rolls of welded wire-mesh. Just about everything you need for the proper care and protection of your small animals and gamebirds.

And it all sells at low, direct-to-you prices. For a firsthand look stop in at the Safeguard Factory Showroom, 114 Earland Industrial Park, Building #1. Just east of New Holland off Route 23. Phone (717) 354-4586. Open Weekdays: 7:30 AM to 4:30 PM
Fridays: 7:30 AM to 6:00 PM
Saturdays: 7:30 AM to 11:30 AM

PRODUCT OF RYDER SUPPLY

SPRING IS HERE!!
THINK HAYLAGE.
YOUR HAYLAGE IS TOO VALUABLE TO STUFF IN A PLASTIC BAG!!

As a field-wise farmer, you have learned to calculate your feed crop harvest, to maximize the capture of Total Digestible Nutrients (TDN) which will ultimately result in efficient, top production

Your profit rides on it!
So why chance ensiling your valuable crop in a plastic bag? Even temporarily? The truth is that — at best — bags are a gamble Consider the outrageous expense of filling equipment which cannot be used for any other purpose. In addition to the cost of the non-reusable bags. Oxygen free storage? What about the documented research done at the University of Minnesota showing an average 12% DRY MATTER
LOSS during a two year study
After considering the facts, we think you'll agree that it's time for a concrete solution. Want more information? Write or call us for all the facts - you'll be glad you did

LANCASTER SILO CO. WILL BE CLOSED
FRIDAY, APRIL 1 & MONDAY, APRIL 4th
EASTER HOLIDAY

DON'T BUY FROM US

If you can't find a better deal, you had better buy our deal NOW. Our low, low prices will INCREASE on April 1st because of a change in factory rebates.

AG-RAIN WATER-REEL

The reel irrigator with so many advantages all rolled under one name.

- Radial Inflow Turbine Drive - originated and patented by Ag-Rain. It's the most efficient turbine drive on the market - it saves energy. Unit is totally gear driven - reel has roller cog drive - no inefficient V-belts.
- Speed Compensator - maintains uniform travel speed - assures uniform watering.
- Tachometer Speed Setting - convenient, direct read-out of ground speed. Set and forget.
- No Wasted Water - all the water goes through the gun sprinkler - none is dumped on the ground.
- Reel Swivels - easily on ball bearings - irrigates up to a half mile from one position.
- Dwell Timer - delays start of travel - results in uniform end of field watering.
- Four Models to choose from - 4 1/2 inch x 900 feet, 4 1/2 inch x 1150 feet, 3 3/4 inch x 1250 feet, or 3 inch x 880 feet.

BEFORE YOU BUY A DISC HARROW COMPARE A KRAUSE

Krause Rockflex Discs are unequalled in the field.

COMPARE

TIE RODS AND SPOOLS

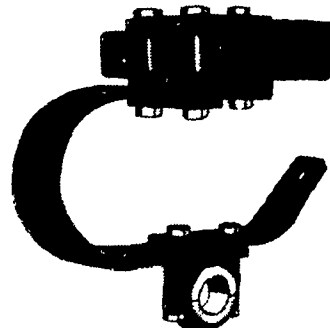

Alloy steel tie rods are 1 3/4" in diameter on heavy duty units (1 1/2" on medium duty). There's a nut on both ends for easy servicing. Krause spools are ductile iron and weigh 20-30 lbs. each. Precision machined with large diameter bells to fit snug against disc blade. SPOOLS ARE KRAUSE MADE.

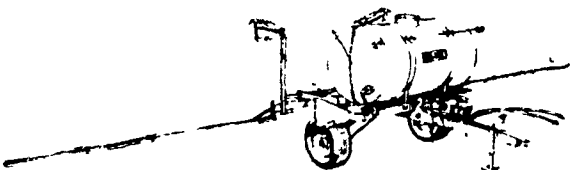

COMPARE

super strength steel tubing with cross braces and gussets at major stress points.WING HINGESKrause uses big 1 3/4" diameter bolts on HD units
(1 1/2" on medium duty) with over 10" of wear surface area.

COMPARE

PERFORMANCE: "ROCKFLEX" BEARING ARMSKrause invented the Rockflex" arm in 1965. This C-shaped arm flexes over obstacles. It helps protect disc blades and spools from breakage.We have over 400 rockflex discs in the fields of PA, MD, NJ and DE. These Krause owners continue to prove daily that the Krause disc levels and cuts better than any other disc they've ever owned.

PAY FOR THEMSELVES IN EXTRA YIELDS

Early Riser Outyielded Deere and Allis-Chalmers Planters in Independent Side by Side Tests...

Fourteen on-farm tests in five states conducted by an independent test firm confirmed that the International® 800 Series Early Riser planter can outperform the John Deere Max-Emerge® 7000 Conservation and Allis-Chalmers 333 No-Til planters in both emergence and yield.

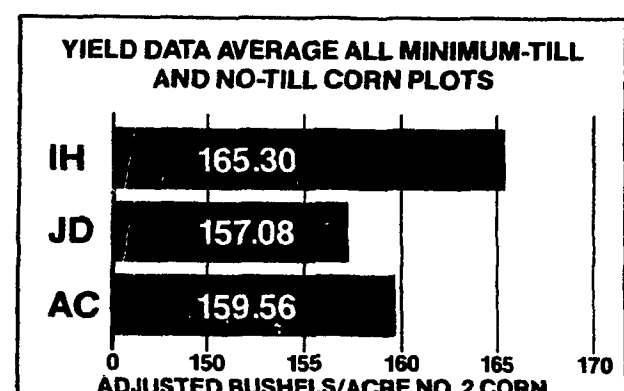

THE FACTS BELOW SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES

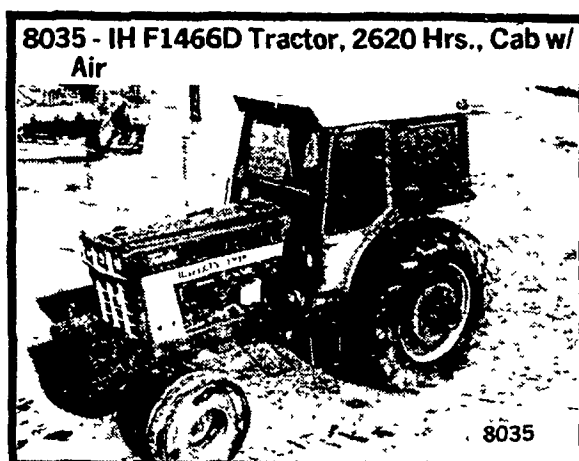

Corn yields were based on hand harvested samples that were weighed, moisture tested and then adjusted for No. 2 corn at 15.5% moisture.

THE PISTONS AND SLEEVES FOR HIGH HORSEPOWER TRACTORS OF TODAY AND TOMORROW!

Repower your big high horsepower tractor with the pistons and sleeves designed for tomorrow's tractors. The generation II piston and sleeve work together to save fuel and extend the useful life of your tractor. The M&W Pow'r Seal Piston seals tighter as combustion pressures increase for more power and less wasted fuel. The new M&W Chromed Steel Sleeve resists distortion to reduce wear, transfers more heat to the cooling water and breaks up harmonic vibrations to reduce pitting. Find out more about the Generation II piston and sleeve from M&W by stopping in today.

We have these sleeve sets in stock for some models

GUNITE
Silo Relining & Repairs

Extensive tests have been conducted on Gunite. Below are some of the properties of Gunite:

1. Excellent bonding
2. High Density
3. Extreme strength and hardness
4. High resistance to absorption

The excellent physical properties of the material are due to the water content being only the amount needed to satisfy chemical hydration.

Reseal and re-strengthen your silo with Gunite.

WHY PAY UP TO $900 FOR 150 TON CAPACITY SILAGE BAG???

If you put up 4 bags a year, it could cost you as much as $3600 for 600 tons storage. A 20x65' silo will hold 600 tons at 65% moisture.

You can lease this silo for around $294 per month or only about $3529 per year. No more than you may pay for 600 ton storage in silage bags per year. And at the end of 8 years, you still have a 20x65' silo.

All you pay down is the first $294 monthly payment and the last $294 payment or you lay out less than $600 with the order for the BEST wet cast Stave silo complete with redwood doors, Stave chute, roof and safety ladder.

THERE'S NO BETTER WAY TO

AND WE CAN PROVE IT TO YOU.

The many benefits of high moisture corn are all well known these days: No dryer costs, reduced shrinkage, less labor, less grain damage, fewer field losses, fewer bad weather problems—and a great feed!

And the only way to process high-moisture corn most effectively is with a Madison Grain-O-Matic® Here's why:

The light gray color of the Vibra-Cor® staves reflect direct sun ray heat 2½ times better than the dark color used by others! These thicker truss-beam design staves also provide superior insulation value.

Thus gases in the Grain-O-Matic® structure expand and contract much less than in a steel structure. Inside pressure is regulated by a precision vacuum and pressure valve. Every structure is air-pressure tested by experienced Madison crews. Result: Better feed and no breather bags, so you can fill clear to the top of the structure with nutrition packed high-moisture grain. And you also get the Madison/Laidig bottom unloader that provides fast, positive delivery day after day for a long, long time.

High-Tensile Fence System:

VERSATILE FENCING FOR PASTURES, FEEDLOTS, GRAIN FIELDS AND EVEN ORCHARDS

Using pressure-treated posts and smooth high-tensile wire, the adaptable Koppers HTF™ System can handle many agricultural problems. It can contain livestock or control predators; it can be electrified, it can be used as temporary fencing, it can be installed in 3- to 12-wire arrangements; it's even being used to guide the growth of vines and trees.

The system features Max-Ten® 200 wire from U.S. Steel Corporation strung on posts pressure-treated by Koppers Company. Together they provide long spans, minimal hide damage, extended service life and low maintenance

Tri-Loader..

European-style Contractor Body

The European-style Tri-Loader body is an extremely versatile piece of equipment. It features 14" hinged sides which fold down or remove completely for loading from either side, a double-acting tailgate, hinged top and bottom for dumping and spreading operations with forward or rear controls, or both. Swaged (indented) 3-light cluster in rear outfall for better light protection and appearance. Heavy duty 40" or 52" steel bulkheads with full width mesh windows combine maximum protection and visibility. The rugged 96" wide platform offers maximum payload and is available in wood, smooth steel, treadplate steel or steel over wood flooring.

Finishers visit Hatfield

The bus load of finishers toured the Hatfield plant, which included a baked ham lunch. Hatfield is a major buyer of market hogs bought through Carlisle.

Wonsidler group tours Hawaii

QUAKERTOWN — C.J. Wonsidler Bros., Allis-Chalmers dealer in Quakertown, conducted a group of 40 farmers on a trip to Hawaii last month.

The trip was awarded through a sales program offered by C.J. Wonsidler Bros. Qualification included purchase of a new Allis-Chalmers tractor over 60 hp. or a Gleaner combine during the past year.

The group of 40 stayed at the new Hawaiian Hilton Tapa Tower in Honolulu. Their tour included a guided bus tour of the city of Honolulu, one-day excursion to the Polynesian Cultural Center on the north shore, and a live Polynesian dinner show. The participants included Mr. & Mrs. Charles J. Wonsidler, Mr. & Mrs. Paul L. Bishop, Mr. & Mrs. Walter H. Bishop, Mr. & Mrs. Harold W. Bodder, Mr. & Mrs. Wilmer H. Dise, Mr. & Mrs. Albert Engel, Mr. & Mrs. M. Elmer Eyrich, Mr. & Mrs. Otto M. ITHACA, N.Y. — Members of the Empire Polled Hereford Association are not only completing plans for their fifth annual Empire Classic Sale May 14 at the Judging Pavilion on the Cornell campus but are also beginning to plan for their 6th annual Empire Classic Show July 29 and 30 at Cortland.

Robert Card of McGraw, sale chairman, said 60 registered Polled Herefords have been consigned to the May 14 sale by New York and Pennsylvania breeders. Consignments will include daughters of "Jogger", "Graystone Granite," "Walking Tall" and other top bulls in the breed, Card said.

All open heifers and young bulls will be weighed and graded and only those grading 13 or higher will be eligible for the sale. Performance information including birth weight, weaning weight, frame score will be required for all animals 18 months and younger and will be encouraged for the older animals consigned.

Sue Haynes, of Groton, chairman of the Empire Classic Show July 29 and 30 said a new class, "offspring of dam" for any farm or farms exhibiting two animals from the same dam has been added.

She also announced Juniors may enter the Junior Show if they qualify for the May 20 ownership deadline. "This means that any Polled Hereford purchased by a Junior at the May 14 Classic Sale will qualify for a Junior Show entry," she said.

Tour group from C.J. Wonsidler Bros., Quakertown, is shown along beach in Hawaii.

Purina holds Accu-Lay meeting

SMOKETOWN — Purina marketing and nutrition experts came to Lancaster County last week to explain the new Accu-Lay feed ration program, which is designed to help poultrymen produce the most profitable egg size.

Speaking at the Purina session held at the Good 'N Plenty Restaurant on Thursday, March 17, were Bill Ragland, marketing manager for Poultry Chows; and Hank Engster, Senior Nutritionist for Poultry Chows.

Also, appearing on the program, which attracted about 150, were Paul Hann, District Sales Manager for Lancaster County; and Jerry McMillen, Poultry Specialist for the Keystone Division.

In the presentation, layer operators heard an explanation of how the new Purina Accu-Lay feed rations will permit increasing or decreasing egg size to conform to the most profitable size determined by existing market conditions.

There are seven Accu-Lay feed rations in the program, which are fortified with amino acids, vitamins and minerals in five percent increments.

Depending on the feed intake level of the birds, an operator can select the proper Accu-Lay ration from the seven to either increase or decrease egg size to conform to the best profitable size for current market conditions.

Instances in which egg size might want to be increased include young layers producing less than optimum egg case weights, when egg size is depressed because of temperatures, when a big difference exists between the price of mediums and large; or if a high premium is paid for jumbo and extra-large.

Conversely, egg size may want to be decreased when the cost of production of larger eggs exceeds prices paid for them, shell problems develop or the layers are old or have been previously molted.

At times prior to peak production periods, temperatures of poultry houses can help determine which of the seven Accu-Lay rations to utilize.

The Purina speakers stressed at the session that very accurate feed ingredient formulation is needed to achieve the precise nutrient fortification levels that are found in the various Accu-Lay rations.

Empire Classic show, sale slated

Stoltzfus plans no-till meeting

COCHRANVILLE — Chester County farmers will have an opportunity to try out no-till corn planting on a limited basis. Stoltzfus Farm Service, Rt 41, Cochransville, is sponsoring an information session on Monday, April 4, at 7 p.m.

In addition, farmers can get some hands-on experience by renting a White's 5100 Seedboss 4-row no-till corn planter. Farmers may rent this machine for up to 25 acres.

No-till planting is a crop production system designed to reduce soil erosion from farmland.

Interested farmers are invited to the information session to be held at Stoltzfus Farm Service. According to John Stoltzfus, Steve Fenton, of the White Equipment Company, will be on hand to explain the adjustments of the planter as well as other techniques to insure a good crop. Dave Cody, of Chevron Chemical Company, will discuss herbicide and insecticide considerations in a successful no-till program. The meeting is co-sponsored by the Chester County Cooperative Extension Service and the Chester County Conservation District. Representatives will be on hand to answer questions and provide information.

Farmers can sign up to use the no-till planter at the meeting.

"This is a good chance for farmers to see what no-till can do without having to make a big commitment," says Marshall Hawes, District Conservationist.

New Bolton to hold open house

KENNETT SQUARE — New Bolton Center, the rural campus and large animal facility for the University of Pennsylvania's School of Veterinary Medicine, will hold its annual open house on Saturday, April 16, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Both the George D. Widener Hospital with its surgical facilities for large animals and the C. Mahlon Kline Center with its unique recovery pool will be on view to the public at this time.

Various exhibits which reflect the Veterinary School's commitment to teaching, research, and clinical care also will be on display for the occasion. Some of the more striking exhibits include, a cow whose rumen liquor is used to treat digestive disorders in other cows and an intensive care unit for horses. Two years ago, the world's first test tube calf was born at the Center. "Virgil" will be on view for the public as part of an update on the School's in vitro fertilization project.

In addition, several special demonstrations will highlight the day, such as a computer ration approach to feeding, diagnostic evaluation of respiratory problems in a horse, and corrective shoeing for lameness problems.

New Bolton Center is located on Route 926 near Kennett Square.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Administrator of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS), Vern F. Highley, has received inquiries about a proposed new user fee to cover administrative costs of marketing orders and agreements. The proposed fee would represent a small additional charge for such services, most of which have been covered by such a fee since the inception of the orders and agreements, according to Highley. The proposal provides for recovery of administrative costs incurred by AMS for supervising and monitoring the Federal milk order program. The proposed user fee is consistent with the aim of the Administration's economic recovery program to reduce costs to taxpayers for industry self-help programs.

Presently the dairy industry is assessed about $25 million annually for field administration of the milk marketing orders, which were initiated and designed by the industry to reduce marketing risks... AMS estimates that on the average, the new user fee would increase the assessments 10 percent, or 0.3 cents per hundredweight of milk marketed under federal orders.

The $2.5 million collected under the proposal would reimburse AMS for essential overhead services now financed through permanent annual Congressional appropriations. The proposed changes would provide that:

—AMS apportion the additional assessments among the 46 milk marketing orders as equitably as possible.

—AMS collect the new user fee through the office of each milk market administrator, utilizing existing procedures to minimize expenses.

—$1.25 million be transferred from the appropriations account to provide approximately six months operating capital for phasing in the new user fee in fiscal year 1984.

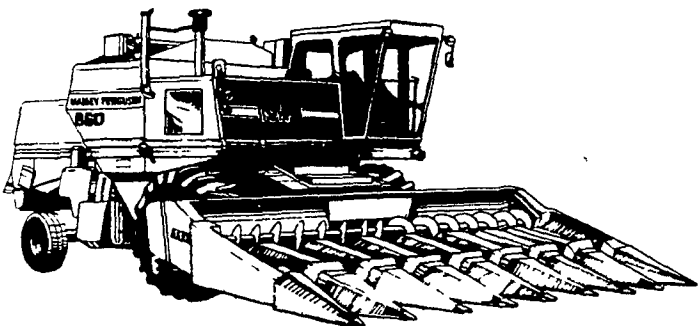

PFA plans labor seminars

CAMP HILL — The Pennsylvania Farmers' Association is sponsoring its first farm labor management seminars next month at three locations.

PAED, the Pennsylvania Agricultural Employers Division, will conduct the seminars at the Holiday Inn, Lionville, April 6; at the Holiday Inn, Gettysburg, April 7 and at the Holiday Inn, Meadville April 14. Each seminar, will run from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., and there is a fee for non-PAED members.

February Milk Collects $13.35

Dairy farmers who supplied milk plants regulated under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders during February will be paid on the basis of a uniform price of $13.35 per hundredweight (28.7 cents per quart). Market Administrator Thomas A. Wilson also stated that the price was $13.35 in January 1983 and $13.30 in February 1982. The uniform price is a marketwide weighted average of the value of farm milk used for fluid and manufactured dairy products.

A total of 17,424 dairy farmers supplied the New York-New Jersey Milk Marketing Area with 884,282,230 pounds of milk during February 1983. This was an increase of 3.8 percent (about 32 million pounds) from last year. The gross value to dairy farmers for milk deliveries was $120,846,720.31. This included differentials required to be paid to dairy farmers but not voluntary premiums or deductions authorized by the farmer.

Regulated milk dealers (handlers) used 351,765,591 pounds of milk for Class I, 39.8 percent of the total. This milk is used for fluid milk products such as homogenized, flavored, low test and skim milks. For February 1983, handlers paid $14.87 per hundredweight (32.0 cents per quart) for Class I milk compared with $14.81 a year ago.

The balance, 60.2 percent, was used to manufacture Class II products including butter, cheese, ice cream and yogurt. Handlers paid $12.61 for this milk.

The uniform price is based on milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat. For February 1983, a differential of 16.9 cents was applied to the price for each one-tenth of one percent that the milk tested above or below the 3.5 percent standard.

All prices quoted are for bulk tank milk received within the 201-210 milk zone from New York City.

Base Milk Rises 8 Cents

Middle Atlantic Order Market Administrator Joseph D. Shine today announced a February 1983 base milk price of $14.04 per hundredweight and an excess milk price of $12.49. The weighted average February price is $13.98 and the butterfat differential for the month is 16.9 cents. The base milk price was up eight cents from the previous month and is eleven cents higher than last February.

The advertising withholding rate, that is deducted from the base and excess milk prices but not the weighted average price, was 14 cents a hundredweight in February 1983. The gross value of February producer milk was $66.8 million, compared to $64.4 million a year ago. A total of $670.3 thousand was deducted for advertising and promotion this February compared to $652.1 thousand a year ago.

Mr. Shine said that producer receipts totaled 478.8 million pounds during February. This represents an increase of 13.0 million pounds or 2.8 percent over last February. The average daily delivery per producer increased 75 pounds or 3.2 percent from February 1982. Class I producer milk totaled 229.8 million pounds and accounted for 47.99 percent of total producer milk receipts during the month. The Class I utilization percentage was 47.08 a year ago. Base milk accounted for 87.52 percent of total producer milk receipts in February compared to 86.87 percent last year.

The average butterfat test of producer milk was 3.76 percent in February, compared to 3.78 percent a year earlier.

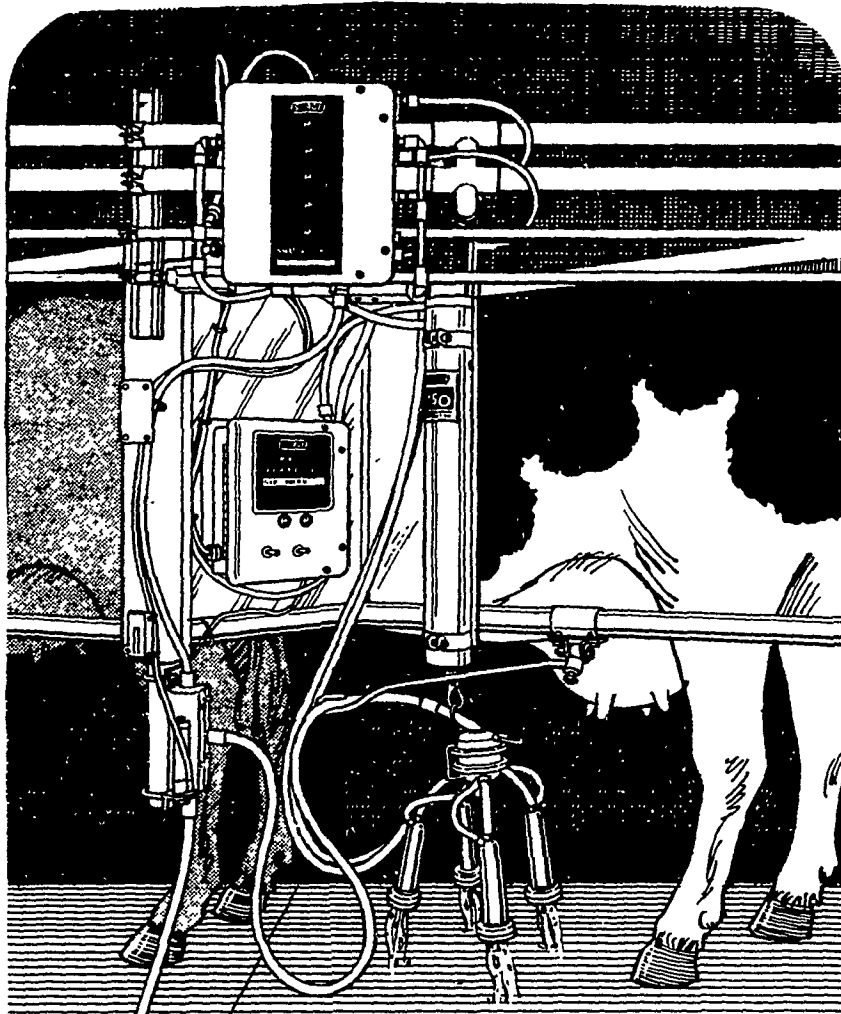

Middle Atlantic Order pool handlers reported Class I in-area milk sales of 193.7 million pounds during February, an increase of 4.4 million pounds or 2.3 percent over a year earlier.

THE SURGE BACKFLUSH SYSTEM...THE AUTOMATIC WAY TO CONTROL MASTITIS.

The Surge Backflush System can cut your mastitis losses substantially by helping to prevent mastitis-causing bacteria from hiding in the milker inflations and getting a free ride from infected cows to healthy cows.

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS...

After the cow is milked out, the milking unit is switched from the milk line to the backflushing position. The system then treats the milking unit to a four-stage cleaning and sanitizing process.

It's all done automatically in just a shade over a minute, completely independent of the operator.

Benefit Sale to reduce debt

MANHEIM — The second Benefit Sale for the Manheim Farm Show will be held April 23 at the farm show building, here. Proceeds from the sale will be used to reduce the debt of the 80 by 180-foot building erected last year.

Although the Farm Show Commission has taken the initiative for the building project, the community is also involved. The building, initially built to house the dairy, beef cattle, farm crops, poultry and rabbit exhibits, is already being used by other community organizations.

Last summer, about 100 head of dairy, and 45 head of 4-H and FFA beef were housed in the building during the farm. The new building reduced crowding and rental fees in the tents, according to the Commission.

This year all types of sale items are expected to go across the block. At last year's sale, baked goods, livestock, furniture, tools, hay and straw were all donated to the building cause.

Marlin Becker will serve as chairman of the sale.

Conservation funds increase

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Despite lean budgets, state, county and city governments have appropriated a record $185.6 million for saving soil and water in fiscal 1983, an increase of nearly $16 million over fiscal 1982.

"Many state and local governments, while feeling their own budget pinches, still have appropriated 10 percent more this year for soil and water conservation," Peter C. Myers, chief of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service, said today.

"They agree that soil erosion is one of America's most serious resource threats, and that a strong agriculture is important to their economy."

State appropriations for soil conservation totaled $96 million, up from $14 million ten years ago. Local appropriations totaled $89.6 million.

Myers said the funds are used to accelerate conservation work — to speed completion of soil surveys, share the costs of farmer-installed conservation practices, and help pay for state and local shares of conservation and flood prevention projects.

One-third of the appropriated funds will be spent for conservation district operations, he said.

Thirty-six states increased funding from fiscal year 1982 to fiscal 1983.

Pennsylvania conservation funds total $3,205,921, including $1,217,000 from the state and $1,988,921 from local governments.

The new Manheim Farm Show building, as it appeared a year ago, is now being used for community events.

Cow stress comes in many forms

NEWARK, Del. — When cows are under stress, their health, milk production, and reproductive efficiency suffer. That was the message to farmers at the recent Delmarva Dairy and Livestock seminar in Dover. The event was sponsored by the Delaware and Maryland Cooperative Extension services and the Delmarva Dairy and Livestock Council.

Veterinarian Phil Garrett said cold is not a severe problem for cows in this area, although they eat more and lie down more to conserve energy. Calves need warm, dry pens with good ventilation, or hutches, to avoid stress problems.

Cows are subject to stress, he said, when they spend too much time on concrete instead of earth, when they hear loud and unfamiliar noises, and when their feed is inconsistent, particularly if some of it has mold or aflatoxins.

Frank Gwazdauskas, of Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, says overcrowding, poor nutrition, pathogens, toxins, and high heat and humidity cause stress problems. Allowing cows to fight can also be stressful.

Cows under stress lose weight, have a harder time warding off illness, and respond less well to medical treatment. They also produce less milk and have smaller calves.

David Beede, of Gainesville, Fla., has done a great deal of research on heat stress problems of cows. He said most farmers are surprised to learn that lactating Holsteins suffer heat stress at temperatures as low as 71 degrees F. Too much sunlight is also stressful.

He noted that Israel has the world's highest milk production averages. It's a hot country, but the cows always have access to shade. Furthermore, before being milked, they are cooled off in a holding area under sprinklers. Then direct fans blow over them, removing the heat. Cows may be milked three times a day to relieve stress.

Beede said the efficiency of feed conversion drops as temperatures rise. Cows need more concentrates in their rations in hot weather because they eat less volume.

Cows also need extra dietary potassium in the summer, since they lose potassium through perspiration. A cow deprived of potassium may soon die. Cows won't eat or drink enough when they aren't getting enough potassium, nor do they produce as much milk, he said.

The normally recommended amount of dietary potassium is insufficient for high producing cows, he said. Most feedstuffs, with the exception of soybeans, are only marginal in their potassium content. In Florida experiments, Beede found that cows given rations containing 1 percent salt and .8 percent potassium produced significantly more milk than cows given any other combination of salt and potassium. However, fat content dropped. He said farmers have to decide if increased milk production is economically worthwhile even if fat content decreases.

Dauphin seedling sale

HARRISBURG — The Dauphin County Conservation District will conduct its ninth annual seedling sale on April 23.

Hardwood species available for sale this year are eastern red bud, thornless honey locust, Russian olive, black walnut and white flowering dogwood. Evergreens available are douglas fir, scotch pine, blue spruce, white pine and concolor fir. The size of these three-and-four-year-old bareroot seedlings are 18-24" for the hardwoods and 8-16" for the evergreens.

Seedlings must be purchased by placing a prepaid order. Individuals interested can call the conservation district's 24-hour "Evergreen Line" at 652-7073 or write to the Dauphin County Conservation District, 75 S. Houcks Road, Suite 305, Harrisburg 17109 to request an order form with prices and seedling information. The deadline to order seedlings is April 1.

Orders will be available for pick-up on Saturday, April 23.

Extension holds legislative day

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Council of Cooperative Extension Associations (PCCEA) held its sixth annual Capital Day and Legislative Banquet in Harrisburg recently. The PCCEA sponsors the annual meeting and dinner to express appreciation to state legislators and ask for their continued support of Cooperative Extension programs in Pennsylvania.

The annual dinner at the Penn Harris Motor Inn in Camp Hill attracted over 75 state legislators and around 200 PCCEA representatives.

Penrose Hallowell, Pennsylvania secretary of agriculture, welcomed the legislators and PCCEA representatives. He said that the success of Pennsylvania agriculture is in part due to the Extension service delivering the latest research developments to where the research can be turned into better food for everyone.

George Cashell, a dairy farmer from Franklin County, talked about the importance of Extension in agriculture and 4-H programs conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service. He said that 4-H now surpasses both boy scouts and girl scouts, there are 92,000 4-H'ers in Pennsylvania.

Virginia Shields, a homemaker from Crawford County, talked about the importance of family living and community development. Alletta M. Schadler, county Extension director from Lebanon County, presented an interactive computer demonstration on the nutritional content of the dinner.

Dr. Samuel H. Smith, dean of the College of Agriculture at Penn State told the audience that modern agriculture remains highly dependent on the services of many other sectors of the economy.

The goals of Penn State's College of Agriculture are synonymous with the goals for agriculture in Pennsylvania, Smith said. "PCCEA helps us to be aware of the needs of our Extension clientele and adjust to serve these needs and to do a better job."

PCCEA is a volunteer council that represents all 67 Cooperative Extension associations (county advisory or executive boards) in Pennsylvania. Made up of two delegates and two alternates from each of the nine Extension administrative regions in the state, the Council meets six times a year.

Attending PCCEA Capital Day and Legislative Banquet from Adams County are, from the left, David Reinecker, York Springs, President of the Adams County Extension Executive Committee; Atlee Keefer, York Springs; Mary Grim, East Berlin; Representative Kenneth Cole; Representative John J. Broujos; Mark Widerman, New Oxford; Miriam Zepp, Treasurer of the Adams County Extension Executive Committee, New Oxford; and Kay King, York Springs.

USDA research to center on reproductivity

LOGAN, Utah — Halting a steady decline in the reproductivity of dairy cattle and other livestock in this country is the goal of intensive cooperative studies by federal and state researchers, reports the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"Reproduction is the single greatest impediment to livestock productivity," says R. Dean Plowman, Director of the Southwest Area for USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

Citing dairy cattle as a prime example, he says, "Every year about 20 percent of the dairy cows in this country are removed from herds because of reproductive problems."

To deal with the dairy problem, ARS, along with universities and state experiment stations in Utah, Idaho and Montana, is taking an integrated reproductive management research approach, similar to the integrated pest management approach being used against plant disease and insect pests.

Leading this effort for ARS is animal scientist Robert C. Lamb, also in Logan. Says Lamb, "We are now collecting reproductive data from more than 60 herds to pinpoint reproduction problems and learn what management measures can be taken to correct these problems."

Lamb believes one of the key reasons behind the decline in U.S. dairy herd reproductivity is that dairy producers are paying "too little attention to their herds."

Says Lamb, "Herds are now so large, with more than 1,000 animals per herd not uncommon, many management details are left undone."

A major one of these details, he says, is the detection of estrus—when a cow is in heat.

"Many cows are passing through estrus unmated, while others are being misidentified as being in estrus and are being artificially inseminated, which may result in abortions," says Lamb.

According to Lamb and Ned L. Zaugg, a dairy specialist with Utah State University, use of a milk progesterone assay and continuous TV monitoring revealed that nearly 50 percent of all heats were missed, and that 10 to 30 percent of all cows (and again as much as 50 percent of the animals in some really troubled herds) were not in heat at the time of artificial insemination.

Lamb feels that estrus might be suffering interference from high milk production. "If a cow's energies are being focused on milk production, there may be less energy for estrus, causing lengthier calving intervals."

Other aspects of reproductivity, in addition to estrus detection, that Lamb and others will be exploring are means of identifying animals that will be difficult to impregnate even when in estrus—evidence is that low estrogen levels in milk is one sign—and, from Hawaii, the effects of temperature on reproduction performance.

An upcoming study by Lamb will involve over 100 herds, comparing good reproducing herds with poor reproducers in a search for any patterns of management that might help or hinder reproductivity.

Similar efforts are getting underway now for beef cattle and sheep with productivity-boosting potentials even higher than for dairy cattle.

For example, in discussing improved weight gains in beef cattle, Plowman said, "It took 40 years of selective breeding to increase the average weight of herd animals by 100 pounds. Improved reproduction could achieve the same affect much quicker simply by making more calves."

ARS research on beef cattle reproductivity will be centered at the Livestock and Range Research Station, Miles City, Montana. Research on sheep reproduction will be centered at the U.S. Sheep Experiment Station, Dubois, Idaho.

Colonial wildflowers on display

BELTSVILLE, Md. — An exhibit called "Wildflowers Gathered in Colonial Maryland in the 1690's" will remain on display through Friday at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's National Agricultural Library.

Featured in the exhibit are 45 individually mounted specimens from the DuBois Herbarium at the University of Oxford — dried flowering plants, ferns and conifers gathered in colonial Maryland by European naturalists in the 1690's.

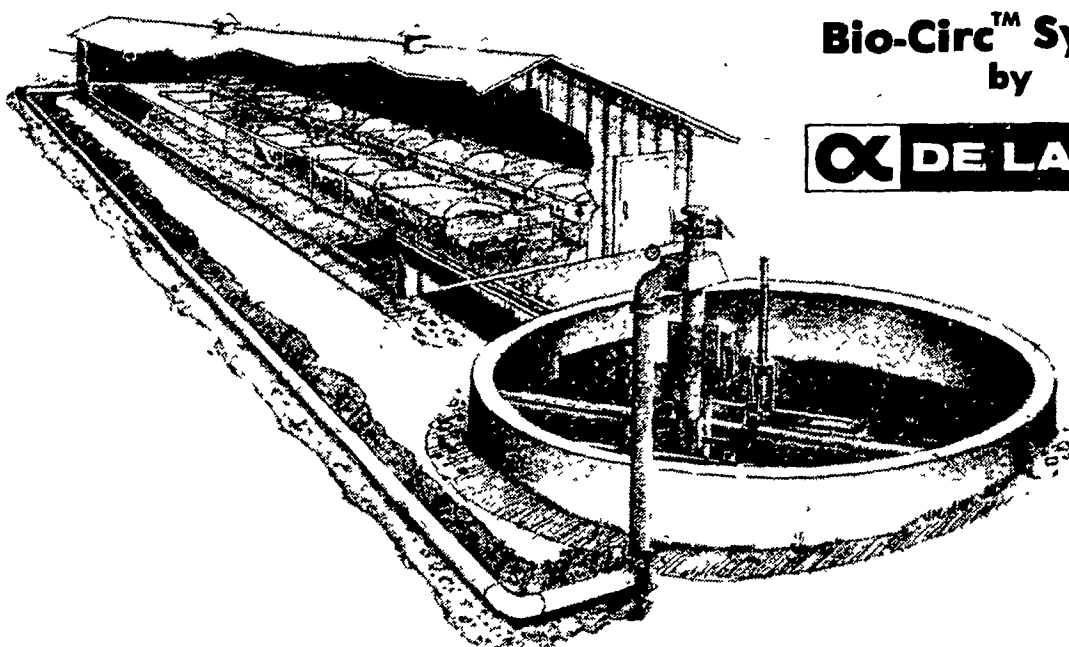

On display along with the plants will be rare books written by late 17th and early 18th century English naturalists and others as well as original paintings and drawings of flowers grown in some of the royal gardens and estates of Europe from seeds gathered in colonial Maryland.

"Historically, this special documentation of the native vegetation of colonial Maryland collected almost 300 years ago is a unique addition to today's knowledge of the early contributions of American plants to European flora," said Alan Fusonie, historian with the library.

The National Agricultural Library is located off the Washington Capital Beltway (Exit 25-A North) and U.S. Route 1 in Beltsville, Md., and is open to the public from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The Dairy Business

By Newton Bair

Let's Look At The Bright Side!

It seems that everybody is trying to guess what is going to happen to the dairy business this spring. It all centers around whether congress is going to reduce the price of milk by lowering the support price, or by a mandatory assessment of either 50 cents or even a dollar per hundred weight. While we are all waiting for a storm to brew, let's start looking for the rainbow.

I just heard the other day that one of the large cooperatives is looking for 100 new shippers. Since it happens to be one of the more stable co-ops, this sounds like good news for the industry. Demand for the cheese, ice cream and other specialty products are on the increase, and they have the capacity to handle a great deal more milk.

Apparently the marketing and promotion program is beginning to pay off in terms of increasing sales of high quality dairy products. This is the ray of sunshine we had hoped to see.

Another bright spot I've observed lately is the calibre of the young people who are willing to start farming in a sensible way. It's still possible for a young person to operate a dairy farm for profit if one is willing to put aside some of the older ideas and aspirations of the previous generation. If the capital that is borrowed is used to purchase good cows, good milking equipment and only a minimum of the more expensive machines, there is an excellent chance of success. To try to own land might be very risky at the start, but there are enough rental farms available for young couples to get started without the nearly impossible task of paying off a big mortgage. Granted that dad bought a farm back in the nifty fifties and paid the debt. He was operating in a different time and a different economic environment. He could generate plenty of income, (cash flow, if you please) to easily justify paying $500 an acre for land, with a 20-year mortgage at six % interest. Today it is madness to try to pay $3500 an acre with money at twelve % or more. It is an unfortunate fact that farmland is too expensive to own just for farming!

There, I've just blown the light out! Not really. It is just a cloud that drifted over, and it has a silver lining. For those willing to build their dreams for a career in dairying on good cows, good money management, and a sense of responsibility for producing and marketing good milk, there will always be a good farm for them to operate. The time will come to own the land, if that is part of the dream, when they have proven themselves. Meanwhile get on with the real dairy business. I see lots of young people doing just that today.

The brightest spot of all is that spring is just around the corner! Except for those acres set aside in the A.R.P. and P.I.K. programs, we'll be planting, spraying and harvesting just as we have every other spring. There's no better time to be hopeful and optimistic than March. And there is certainly no place on earth that promises the fulfillment of that hope better than our native land. There is a lot of satisfaction in knowing that the world still looks up to us for leadership in agriculture.

Computer insurance

WASHINGTON, D.C.
— Weighing the benefits of crop insurance is easy with new microcomputer software programs called ARCIE, short for All-Risk Crop Insurance Evaluation.

"These programs help producers assess their individual crop production risks and evaluate how crop insurance would work for their farms," said Merritt W. Sprague, manager of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

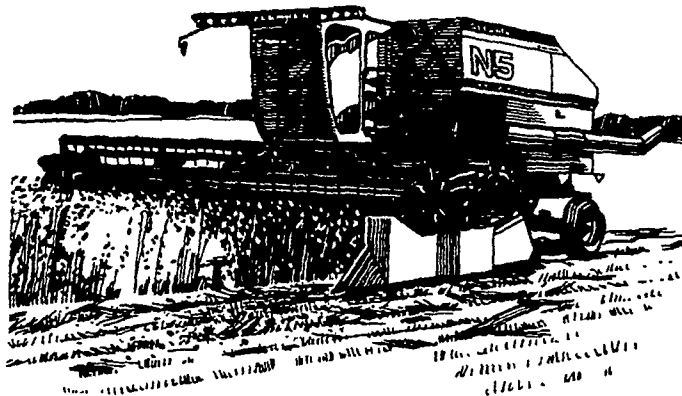

Sprague said ARCIE is available in two forms. One is a detailed program that takes about 45 minutes to run; the other is a mini-program that takes about 10 minutes. Both analyze risk based on input by producers and historical data and provide tables and graphics.

Farmers calculate results for a single insured unit on a planted per-acre basis.

ARCIE was designed and tested by the Cooperative Extension Services at Texas A&M University and Michigan State University, in cooperation with the USDA crop insurance agency.

In the long format, ARCIE can be purchased for $95 from Texas A&M University and is available for use by producers and crop insurance agents at state Cooperative Extension Service offices.

Mini-ARCIE is available through state Cooperative Extension Service offices for a small which covers the price of the disk and copying costs. Both programs are compatible with most home computers, said Sprague.

Headgates useful for dairy animals

A headgate is a useful addition to any dairy farm that has cows or heifers in freestalls, loose housing, or on pasture, according to R.E. Graves, Extension agricultural engineer at Penn State.

Headgates are usually part of a treatment area or system where animals are regularly caught. This high repetitive use makes it worthwhile to construct a headgate with additional features not found in a normal stallion or lockup. A headgate is usually used in conjunction with some sort of working chute or lane. As the animal comes to the end of the chute or lane her head is caught by the headgate. A headgate can be located in relation to the return lane from a milking parlor or in more specialized treatment or housing areas. A short lane or chute that starts in a funnel at the corner of a small lot or lane might be all that's needed to change "rodeo time" into a more pleasing experience for both man and beast. The complexity of the system is dictated by its intended use.

Features to look for when buying or building a headgate include the following: Automatic closing on entry of animal; Side hinged complete opening from top to bottom to allow front discharge of animal; Rear and side operation by operator; Adjustment for animal size and closing speed or force; Smooth, quiet, injury-free operation for both operator and animal; Ability to accommodate and remove downed animals.

Most headgates are manufactured for beef cattle. The adjustment features and ruggedness of construction are, for the most part, good for dairy use. The critical feature to check is an opening for the animal upon exiting the headgate. Some popular beef headgates hinge at the bottom and open in a fan-like fashion as opposed to side hinging. This results in an obstructed pathway for the cow to exit. The potential for injury to wide hips, low hanging udder, and rear legs of the dairy animal make this type of headgate unsatisfactory. An ideal headgate that allows exit from the front should be hinged so that when opened it does not decrease the dimension of the working alley. A 32 inch alley width is adequate for dairy cattle. Too wide an alley leads to excessive crowding and turning around of animals.

Many headgates are purchased and used in conjunction with a working chute or working stall. The area around the headgate must allow access to the necessary parts of the cow. The chute should provide a method of preventing side to side cow movement and still allow access to the cow's udder and body cavity. Access gates to the front and rear of the cow are also needed. This is another place where equipment designed for beef animals may be lacking.

Ideas for homemade headgates and chutes can be found in the Penn State Plan Service, MWPS Dairy Housing and Equipment Handbook ($5.00), and farm magazines. In most cases its best to buy a good commercial headgate even if you build the rest of the treatment area.

Honey bee programs to be featured

DOYLESTOWN — Walter Wilson, New Jersey Department of Agriculture Apiary inspector, will be the featured speaker at the April meeting of the Bucks County Beekeepers' Association.

Wilson has for many years been part of the N.J. Department of Agriculture Apiary Inspection team which is involved in the maintaining of the good health of honey bees in New Jersey. In addition to his inspection job, Wilson is also involved in managing honey bee colonies for pollination and honey production. The topic of this seminar will be the gathering, processing, and marketing of honey.

Wilson's seminar is being jointly sponsored by Delaware Valley's student beekeeping club, Delaware Valley College, and the Bucks County Beekeepers' Association. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m., Thursday April 7. It will be held in the Mandell Hall Auditorium of Delaware Valley College, which is located on Route 202, one mile west of Doylestown.

On Saturday, April 9 and the following two Saturdays, April 16 and 23, Delaware Valley College will again be presenting their Spring three day beekeeping short course. The course is under the direction of Delaware Valley College's beekeeping specialist Robert Berthold who will be assisted by Dewey Caron of the University of Delaware.

CHAMBERSBURG — Eight landowners with a total of 875 acres were approved for conservation planning assistance at the March meeting of the Franklin County Conservation District Board of Directors. Those landowners requesting assistance are Charles H. Myers, Letterkenny Township; Lee Kohr, Lurgan Township; James and Robert Hodges, Montgomery Township; Harold Brake and Douglas Whitworth, St. Thomas Township; Fred E. Rice, Guilford Township; Carl Pedersen, Warren Township; and John I. Miller, Antrim Township.

Dennis Mackley, County Superintendent from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture; Thomas Barney, Land Manager of the Pennsylvania Game Commission; and Wesley Rhine, County Supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration, gave brief reports on their activities in the county and work that is related to the Conservation District.

Plans were discussed for the District's annual tour, tentatively scheduled in June.

Lancaster Farm Credit elects

LANCASTER — A record attendance of 1,120 stockholders, guests and employees attended the joint annual stockholders dinner meetings of the Lancaster Production Credit Association and the Federal Land Bank of Lancaster on March 8 and 10.

Four sectional meetings were held this year, beginning with the Dauphin County meeting at noon, held at Camp Hebron on Tuesday,

The Tuesday evening meeting was held at the Prescott Fire Company, Lebanon County, with a total of 270 persons in attendance.

The Lancaster County noon and evening meetings were held on Thursday, March 10 at the Historic Strasburg Inn. The total attendance of both these meetings was 770.

Elected to the Nominating Committee for the Federal Land Bank Association were Ellis R. Denlinger, Lancaster County; Harold W. Ney, Lancaster County; and Robert Wagner, Lancaster County.

Elected to the Nominating Committee for the Lancaster Production Credit Association were J. Wade Groff, Lancaster County; Glenn Hershey, Lancaster County; and Harold K. Witmer, Lancaster County.

Elected directors of the Federal Land Bank Association were Paul L. Kreider, Lebanon County; and Clarence G. Mase, Lebanon County.

The elected director for the Lancaster Production Credit Association is Wilmer B. Campbell, Dauphin County.

Kreider, nominated for a three-year term to the FLBA, owns and operates, with his brother, two farms consisting of 350 acres. They also cash rent another 300 acres. The dairy herd consists of 100 cows and 70 head of replacement stock. He is presently a member of both FLBA and PCA and has served as a FLBA director.

Mase owns a 92-acre dairy farm and rents 65 acres. He has a dairy operation with his son, which consists of 92 head of Brown Swiss and Holsteins. He is a member of both FLBA and PCA and has served as a FLBA director.

Another three-year term goes to Wilmer B. Campbell who owns and operates a 207-acre dairy farm, assisted by his son. The herd consists of 65 head of Guernseys and 50 replacement heifers. He also cash rents 50 acres. He is president of the Northumberland Area Guernsey Breeders Association. He has served as a PCA director and also a member of FLBA.

Del. offers U-Pick booklet

NEWARK, Del. — Each year more farmers and gardeners start U-pick operations to market seasonal fruits and vegetables. Though this is generally a fast, economical way to sell fresh produce, success depends very much on skillful management.

The Delaware Cooperative Extension Service publication, "Management of Pick-Your-Own Marketing Operations," covers all aspects of running a U-pick business in the northeastern U.S. The 66-page booklet includes tips on planning, organizing, publicizing and operating this type of venture. It tells how to identify and reach potential customers, schedule production and lay out fields, design facilities such as parking and check-out systems, set prices, deal with customers and employees, and reduce the risk of accidents.

Individual copies are available for $1. To order, write: Mail Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, DE 19711.

Pa. Grange supports oil and gas drilling regulation

INDIANA — A nine-member oil and gas advisory committee of the Pennsylvania State Grange voted Friday to support a legislative proposal to regulate oil and gas drilling in the Commonwealth.

After reviewing several legislative initiatives, the state's largest rural farm organization decided to throw its support behind S.B. 402, introduced by Sen. Roy Wilt (R-Mercer) and referred to the Senate Environmental Resources and Energy Committee on Feb. 24. An identical bill will be introduced in the House by Rep. Camille George (D-Clearfield).

"Pennsylvania is about 10 years behind the times in developing an oil and gas law," Charles Weber, consultant to the Grange on oil and gas issues, said. "Even now, we're looking at 1965 until regulations are finally developed and the Department of Environmental Resources is geared up to enforce the new law, if passed."

Although there has been increased interest in recent years in drilling for oil and natural gas in Pennsylvania, the Commonwealth's only regulation of this activity is contained in a law enacted in 1955 which was designed to protect coal mine operators. The Act does not address environmental standards to prevent pollution or the rights of surface owners, Weber said. The first effort to amend this act passed the Senate last year, but several amendments prevented its passage in the House.

S.B. 402 would repeal the 1955 Act, retaining parts of the old legislation along with numerous new provisions.

One new provision is protection for the landowner's water supply — an issue vitally important to Grange members. The bill required companies to replace any water lost due to oil and gas drilling in equal quantity or quality.

"Water supply protection ranks as the Grange's number one concern," Weber said. "We just hope we can keep it in the bill." In the past two years, the State Grange has received numerous letters from landowners who had lost their water supply due to oil or gas drilling and had no recourse other than to seek civil action, an option too costly for most rural landowners. In Indiana County alone, 22 wells are reported lost due to oil and gas drilling, Weber said.

S.B. 402 also would:

- require well permits for all new and existing wells;
- set minimal distances from buildings and bodies of water;

- require plugging upon abandonment of a well (currently there are an estimated 300,000 to 500,000 abandoned unplugged wells in Pennsylvania, 4,000 of which may be polluting the environment);

- require operators to file a bond in the amount of $2500 per well or $25,000 for all wells with the Department of Environmental Resources; and — Set up an oil and gas technical advisory committee to review regulations of the industry.

State Grange Master Charles Wismer said, "Achieving passage of S.B. 402 will be one of the Grange's top priorities in this legislative session. It's time we get an up-to-date oil and gas law on the books."

The Pennsylvania State Grange is a rural farm organization representing 43,000 individuals or 28,000 families in Pennsylvania.

Del. beekeepers meeting today

DOVER, Del. — The Delaware Beekeepers Association is holding its annual meeting today in the Continuing Education Building on the Delaware State College campus in Dover.

One of the speakers is Robert Berthold, national authority on candle making and other uses of beeswax. He is discussing bee management and offer tips for the sideline. Berthold teaches beekeeping at Delaware Valley College in Doylestown, Pa.

The program began with a free workshop on queen-rearing and requeening by Charles Mason and Dewey Caron, entomologists at the University of Delaware. State apiarist Mike Brown will report on the status of local bee hives. Caron will close the program with a talk on honey marketing in Delaware. There is also a brief business meeting.

Trellised dwarf apple trees can yield 1,000 bu./acre

UNIVERSITY PARK — Dwarf apple trees grown on trellises like grapes can double the yield of standard-sized trees handled as individuals, according to research at Penn State.

Such "walls of fruit" can produce average yields of 1,000 bushels per acre at 7 to 8 years of age and older, says Loren T. Tukey, scientist in fruit culture with Penn State's College of Agriculture. Tukey has experimented for 22 years with several dwarf apple orchards grown on M9 and M26 rootstocks.

"These very dwarfing rootstocks help to increase the fruit density needed for abundant cropping in apple trees," he stated. "Rootstocks on dwarf apple trees also produce good-sized crops at a younger age than standard trees. We call these intensive plantings," he added.

Trellis hedgerows, as Tukey indicated, increase the volume of space devoted to fruit bearing in an orchard. And he said the major cost in establishing dwarf apple orchards is the large number of trees per acre, rather than the expense of the trellis support system.

Since trellis-trained dwarf trees are only 6 to 8 feet tall, smaller sized orchard equipment can be used than for standard trees. Energy per unit of production is lower than for standard trees, it was pointed out, since dwarf trees start producing at an early age and yields are much higher.

The Penn State version of a low-trellis hedgerow consists of a series of posts and four wires, the latter each 18 inches apart, with the top wire at 6 feet. Trees are trained across these wires, forming a lattice. The most common tree training system is one Tukey calls the "oblique palmette." This tree form inclines limbs at a 30 to 45 degree angle and extends branches into adjacent trees. This makes a lattice wall for bearing fruit.

Obviously, the low-trellis hedgerow requires a major management change from that of handling individual trees. First, the fruit-bearing area is developed. Then training and pruning is devoted almost totally to caring for the fruiting wood and regulating tree growth.

"Yields of intensively-grown apple trees should reach 900 to 1,200 bushels per acre annually," Tukey said. "In our research orchard at Rock Springs, Centre County, apples have usually measured 2 3/4 inches in diameter or larger for at least 65 percent of the crop. Fruit size is an important factor in achieving yields," he commented.

Trellising is not a new form for growing fruit trees, having been used in European gardens over 100 years ago. However, modern technology has made the system practical for commercial use.

Most apple varieties are suitable for trellising, especially those tending to "spur" or produce fruit on short lateral shoots. On the other hand, non-lateral varieties

An important part of trellising is summer grooming, Tukey suggested, to control and remove vigorous growth. In mid to late August, all lateral shoots longer than 12 inches should be cut back to three leaves or about one inch. This also removes excess outer foliage, exposing the fruit to sunlight for increased red color development.

Lugar to speak April 8

CAMP HILL — U.S. Sen. Richard Lugar (R.-Ind.) will speak at the annual statewide fundraising dinner for FARMER, the bipartisan political action committee of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association.

The event will be held Friday, April 8, at the Hershey Country Club beginning with a reception at 6:45 p.m. and dinner at 7:45 p.m. Tickets can be obtained from PFA's Board of Directors, FARMER committee members or the PFA office in Camp Hill. Reservation deadline is April 1.

Senator Lugar is a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee where he chairs the subcommittee on General Legislation. He also serves on the Senate Foreign Relations committee and the Intelligence committee. In addition, he is a member of the Senate Republican leadership and chairs the National Republican Senatorial Committee, which coordinates election activities of Republican senatorial candidates.

Sen. Lugar is known as a strong advocate of national security and a proponent of increased farm exports. He opposed the grain embargo and co-authored recent legislation to ensure that the U.S. will be a reliable supplier of farm exports. He has also been active in roles to reduce and control federal spending. He helped author the balanced budget constitutional amendment which passed the Senate last year.

Proceeds from the FARMER banquet will be used to help elect and support General Assembly members of either party who recognize the importance of agriculture in Pennsylvania. In the last general election, FARMER endorsed 46 candidates for state House seats and 12 for the Senate.

Broiler placements up

HARRISBURG — Placements of broiler chicks in the Commonwealth during the week ending March 12, were 2,335,000, seven percent above the previous week and four percent above the corresponding week a year earlier. Average placements during the past nine weeks were two percent below a year ago. Settings for broiler chicks were 2,862,000, eight percent below the previous week and the same period a year earlier. The current three-week total of eggs set is six percent below the comparable period a year ago.

Expected marketings, based on placement 8-10 weeks earlier less mortality allowance, in Pennsylvania for the week ending May 14, will be 2,211,000, three percent above a year earlier.

Sheep task sheets available

UNIVERSITY PARK — With spring comes a new lamb crop, and with the lambs come many questions from sheep producers on how to raise these newly born flock additions. Many of these questions are answered in a booklet titled Sheep Production Task Sheets.

The booklet's author, James E. Diamond of Penn State Extension, is a sheep producer and an ardent promoter of the sheep and wool industry. His experiences working with 4-Hers, FFA members, part-time farmers and sheep organizations made him realize the need for such a manual.

The booklet is well organized, giving information on feeding, lambing, management, record keeping, and shearing skills. Diamond has devoted a separate page to each task. For example in docking, he gives a brief introduction to the task, the resources needed to perform the task, and instructions for evaluating the person's task performance. Illustrations of equipment and techniques for performing the tasks are also shown, making it especially useful for less experienced sheep producers.

The booklet is designed so that it may be used in vo-ag classes, and in FFA and 4-H projects. On each task sheet is an evaluation form for rating the person's performance.

The Sheep Production Task Sheets booklet is available from the instructional material services of Penn State, at a cost of $5.50. For orders over $20, add 5 percent for shipping. To order a copy write to: Martha Ross, Instructional Material Services, 13 Armsby Bldg, Penn State University, University Park, PA 16802.

Diamond left March 10, for one month to The Republic of Mali, in Africa. He was invited by SECID, South East Consortium for International Development, as a guest lecturer to its annual conference, and will speak on developing instructional materials and teaching methods for agriculture. After the conference, Diamond who is a firm believer in hands on experience, will conduct a week long workshop on developing instructional materials and the various methods of teaching agriculture as part of Mali's Agricultural Officers Training Program. Diamond will return to Penn State April 9.

Shop booklet is available

NEWARK, Del. — Construction projects and equipment maintenance are as much a part of farming as tillage and harvesting, says University of Delaware extension building specialist Ernest Walpole. Every farm needs a well-planned shop, with areas for metal work, machinery work and repair, and perhaps woodworking.

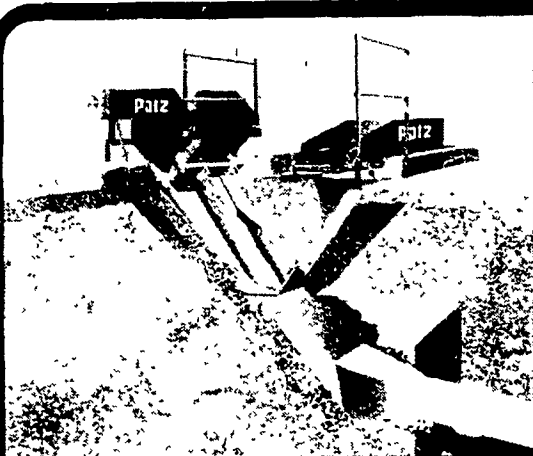

Each shop area requires different tools. In a good layout, tools are stored within easy reach, close to the point of use.

The Northeast Regional Agricultural Engineering Service has prepared a new booklet, "Planning Farm Shops," that will help in the design of an efficient shop. It includes a unique set of templates that make it easy to plan a shop layout for any farm. In addition, dozens of tool storage ideas are illustrated and explained.

Other chapters cover construction details and recommendations for electrical power, lighting, heating, plumbing and ventilation. A complete list of tools is recommended for each shop function.

To obtain the booklet, send $2 to Walpole at Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, DE 19711. Ask for publication NRAES-16.

Truly automated manure-handling systems

Patz can end daily manure hauling and help you preserve manure's valuable nutrients—up to $84 fertilizer value from each cow annually. Choose the Patz manure-handling system to meet your needs.

For semi-solid manure: Model 300 Air Manure Mover. Compressed air moves manure with long straw through 24-inch pipe to storage. Few moving parts assure long service life. Load and haul manure with your present equipment to keep investment low.

For slurry manure: Model 100 Slurry Pump. Large-capacity 7" by 15" plunger moves manure to storage through 12" or 15" PVC pipe. Plunger stroke length adjusts, depending on manure consistency. Plunger and plunger sleeve remove easily for inspection.

For liquid manure: Model 200 Manure Mover. Compressed air moves manure from a 1,700-gallon collection tank through PVC pipe to storage. Few moving parts provide low maintenance, easy service and long life.

1982 TAX STRATEGIES

Depreciation, which is now called cost recovery, is much less flexible than under the old law. However there also is much less chance for dispute.

One new item for 1982 is the $5,000 write off of eligible depreciable property. This may be used in a similar fashion to the old 20 percent first year depreciation rule. The item or items used must be eligible for investment credit. Also any profit made on its sale is considered to be 100 percent ordinary income.

Under the old law you could take investment credit on an item whether you used the 20 percent first year depreciation or not. You could also have some long term capital gain on the sale of the item if the sale price exceeded the purchase price.

Other Categories

A few farm assets will fit into the three-year category (specifically farm share of auto, pickups, and breeding swing). General purpose farm buildings would go into the fifteen-year category. You have the same choices of depreciation on them. However the month of purchase will have a bearing on the building category.

I would advise using only straight line depreciation on buildings and not ACRS. The slight extra depreciation you gain in the first few years is not worth giving up the long term capital gain eligibility in the event of a future sale.

Exception to ACRS

If you acquire used property from a closely related party, you cannot use ACRS depreciation. Presumably you can use the old depreciation rules (not the 20 percent first year depreciation though). Thus you could use straight line or declining balance depreciation with the lives as you would have assigned them under the old law. Remember this property is not eligible for investment credit either.

IRA

Should you buy an IRA or not? The answer depends on your age, your tax bracket, and your business status.

Age: an IRA cannot be cashed in or borrowed against without penalty until you are 59 1/2 years of age. Most farmers should probably not consider it until they are over 45 years old.

Tax Bracket: it doesn't make sense to tie that money up for over 10 years if you can't defer at least 30 percent over 15 years if you can't defer at least 35 percent, or over 20 years if you can't defer at least 40 percent of the cost of the IRA in taxes.

Business Status: If you have more than 20 percent of your assets in debts you may save more by paying off debts than buying an IRA. If you need equipment, buildings, storages, etc to improve your labor efficiency or profitability, their purchase will save taxes, enhance your equity, and improve you financially.

If you are going to purchase an IRA, do some shopping. Look for interest rates paid, length of time those rates are guaranteed, charges made for management, charges made out of your initial investment, ease of "rolling the IRA over," costs of rollover, convenience of purchase, and flexibility of the plan. Interest rates should be at least equal to treasury notes.

Check to see if the interest is compounded or just sits around doing nothing. If it is compounded check to see how often. The more often interest is compounded the greater the ultimate return.

Some accounts have an "up front" charge called a load fee. It reduces the amount that actually is invested in your account

Snow Job

The new session of Congress is only two months old but already we've had a blizzard of new bills to change the dairy price support program. At last count there were eight in the House and three in the Senate with the end nowhere in sight. In fact, we haven't heard yet from some organizations who should be the biggest guns in moving legislation through Congress. There's no question that many Congressmen feel it's politically prudent to be against the legislation currently in effect and are rushing to sponsor programs proposing changes they feel are popular. Some even have their names on more than one bill perhaps with the hope that they can get some credit for having picked the winner.

If it's to be the custom to have new dairy support legislation with each session of Congress it seems we should soon learn to do our compromising within the industry and agree on the changes before bills are introduced rather than sending a dozen proposals to Congress and settle for a political compromise as we have in the past.

However, it's a political fact of life that leaders in Congress and farm organizations have to be in the limelight sufficiently so their constituents or members will know they're doing a job. Which is all right, if now that everyone has made enough waves to attract attention, we can all get together and agree on the best program even if it isn't "our" program. And, if you haven't submitted yours yet don't worry - it's not too late. The best one may not have yet been considered but don't wait too long the new marketing year is less than seven months away.

Recipe For Reduction

price support program and the only answer to that seems to be a reduction in milk supply or production. In the past the answer was simple because the law gave the Secretary of Agriculture the discretion to move the support price, once a year, between 60 and 90 per cent of Parity to match the supply to the demand. That's the system that worked so well for thirty years without changes because everyone agreed - if it ain't broke don't fix it.

But we did fix it with a minimum of 80 per cent of Parity and six month automatic adjustments. It wouldn't have been so bad but it happened at the worst possible time when everyone else, in and out of agriculture, was going to pot. Now it's so far out of whack that a drop in the support price sufficient to correct the supply-demand problem would put many farmers out of business. This kind of a solution has given birth to a new expression called the dairyman's vow - 'til debt do us part!

The amount of such a reduction - to reduce production and increase consumption sufficiently to eliminate the 15 billion pound surplus expected next year - would mean a cut of 28 per cent or, $3.70 a hundred which puts the support price below the average cost of production.

Ingredients

Everyone agrees that lower price alone is not a solution so if that recipe doesn't work what will? I think you'll have to decide what ingredients you want to use in your new recipe before you put it in the oven. That way you may end up with something everyone can swallow.

For instance - whatever is done (other than simply dropping the price) will cost money. Who should pay for it? Use the present $2.2 billion that the government now spends on the dairy program or should the producers also contribute? If producers contribute should it come from everyone or only those who increase production? Should we also include some price reductions to stimulate consumption? Or should we do that only by mandatory producer deductions for more advertising and promotion? Should we include contributions from farmers for export subsidies to increase foreign markets? How much incentive should there be to decrease production without discouraging efficient management? How much of a reduction can we take without making more problems that we solve?

All On The Table

Believe it or not, all of these ingredients are now laid out on the table in one or more of the bills now - or soon to be - before Congress. I list them here to give you a chance to look them over without knowing who proposed them so you can pick what you believe you can get through Congress then fight for the best program rather than the organization or the party that proposed them. Of course, you'll have to examine all the proposals and perhaps find one that already fits your bill out look them over with some of your own ideas in mind so you can evaluate them.

Plowing New Ground

The so called Wisconsin plan keeps the first 50 cent assessment in the current program and uses it to pay $10 a hundred to producers who drop their production below their base. National Milk Producers Federation suggests eliminating the 50 cent assessment and penalize producers who increase production sufficiently to pay the $10 a hundred to producers who cut back. Another bill would take both 50 cent assessments from all producers and return 85 cents a hundred on all milk to producers who cut back and 15 cents for advertising and promotion. Another suggestion is to drop the support price a dollar for a year then use a new Parity formula with a trigger set on the amount of government purchases.

One of the problems with the present situation is that no one has any experience in milk marketing in this country in using production controls and direct payments to producers. We don't know for sure how much incentive it takes to lower production ten per cent. We're plowing new ground with these ideas and should proceed with caution. Changing over production to under production could be just as damaging to the industry.

Charolais sale on April 23

FREDERICK, Md. — The Colonial Charolais Spring Sale will be held at the Frederick Fairgrounds, Frederick, Md. on Saturday, April 23. This is the 17th annual edition of this Charolais breed event.

The sale manager, Buzz Garey, explains that a new format has been established for both the bull portion of the sale, as well as for the females. The ages on the bulls will be from 12 months of age up to a maximum of two years of age. The bulls will be classified on sale morning with Chuck Druin, Canada Coal Charolais, Morehead, Ky., being the official classifier.

Only the bulls that qualify under this program will be offered.

The female section of the sale has been altered to provide the highest quality set of females ever offered. Rigid selection standards were established and were the strict criteria when the female consignments were screened at the farm. Emphasis was also placed on young heifers and many open heifers suitable as show prospects for youth programs will be offered.

The Colonial Charolais Association will hold its annual meeting in conjunction with this event at 4 p.m. on Friday, April 22, at the Holiday Inn, Frederick.

HOG FEEDERS

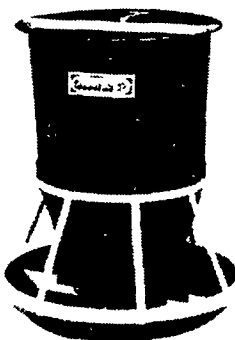

For No Waste - Maximum Feed Conversion!

Named for the Rotating "Spiral Drive" Steel Wheel in the Bottom of the Trough. Pigs supply the power for complete automatic feeding.

Quick Adjustment for Accurate and Reliable Feed Rate. Simple adjustment always keeps feed fresh and clean in the trough.

Reduces Feed Waste and Management Time. Elimination of "knife-edge" sliding adjustments stop wet-nose plugging and sticky-feed bridge build up.

No Complicated Bearings, Agitators or Feed Adjustment Plates to Break, Foul or Bind. Sturdy steel construction and durable fiberglass materials make repair and service a rare necessity.

Call or write today for complete details on the Big Wheel® Hog Feeders... manufactured by the same professionals who designed and introduced the Stanfield® Heating Pads.

Stanfield CREEP FEEDER

Includes:

- Large open feed pan to simulate floor feeding.
- Sturdy aluminum bracket for quick feeder in-and-out
- Generous 1 1/4 gallon hopper capacity.

Not just another creep feeder! A farm tested natural way to start two and three day-old pigs on solid feed. Pigs learn to eat creep feed before weaning. So you wean faster and pigs do better under less stress.

Farmers speak up for no-till

HARRISBURG — Farmers currently utilizing no-till grain drills have reported the results to be successful, according to Joel Myers of the Soil Conservation Service in Dauphin County.

A panel of farmers including George Umholtz Jr., Lykens, Rahn Cooper, Halifax, and Tom Williams, Middletown, reported having success using various models of no-till drills.

Myers explained that these farmers had experiences in planting alfalfa, oats, fall grain, and soybeans using no-till methods. He stressed the importance of management in utilizing no-till systems.

He said that all plantings reported were not completely successful, but just as experience was needed when no-till corn planters were first being used, the same situation exists with respect to no-till drills.

Favorable responses to no-till include the timeliness of planting, field and labor savings, less time spent managing residues which do not generally need to be chopped or disked, and finally a decrease in soil loss and increase in moisture retention were indicated in all cases.

It was reported that seed bed conditions, for seed/soil contact, were even better in no-till due to the presence of crop residues. Utilizing the no-till drill can result in a complete crop sequence or rotation without ever plowing.

Several items of caution were also expressed by the panel including: the need to check planting depth as soil and residue conditions change; the importance of spring weed control in oats and fall grains; a need for heavier seeding rates especially for soybeans and small grains; and finally effects of residual herbicides from the prior years crops may be a problem to new seedings.

Myers said that herbicide carryover can be resolved with some modifications in herbicide programs in the future. Myers added that when no-till corn planters first became available, they were slow to be accepted. He said the same holds true for no-till drills. Current models of drills are improved and farmers are gaining more experience daily.

Direct market session April 5

CLARKS SUMMIT — All retail farm marketers are invited to attend a direct marketing conference at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, April 5, in the Ramada Inn, Clarks Summit. The Lackawanna County Horticultural Association and the Penn State Extension Service have teamed up to organize the meeting.

Larry Yager, Penn State University Extension retail marketing specialist, will speak on retail pricing and production costs. Don Unangst of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, will explain a new program for financing retail farm markets.

Marian Critchley of Canaan Greenhouse, and Jean Jackson, of Iron Kettle Farm will demonstrate pumpkin painting. Gene McDowell, Pennsylvania Certified Markets, will give some tips on hiring, training and supervising retail sales persons.

In addition to the speakers on the program, the meeting will provide an opportunity for retailers to meet with commercial exhibitors offering products and services to increase profits at farm markets.

No reservations are needed and all interested retailers are welcome to attend.

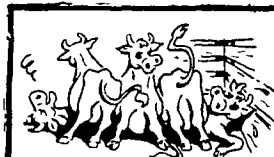

Chester to hold tree sale

The ninth annual Tree Seedling Sale will be held by the Chester County Conservation District April 15 and 16.

The District will act as coordinators of the sale with the help of several local groups. Participating groups include: the League of Women Voters of Central Chester County; Boy Scout Troop #10;

Future Farmers of America of the Northern Chester County Vo-Tech School; Professional Secretaries International; Red Clay Valley Watershed Association; and the Brandywine Valley Association.

Species of trees available for sale include white pine, Austrian pine, white spruce, Norway spruce, blue spruce, hemlock and Douglas fir.

Is there a fresh produce surplus?

BY HAROLD SHELLY
NEW HOPE — The Central Bucks County Chamber of Commerce and the Bucks County Farmers' Association hosted a Farm-Business breakfast at the Holiday Inn in New Hope on Tuesday. Principal speaker at the 8 a.m. affair was Frank Weichec, president of Hunter Brothers, a Philadelphia produce wholesaler.

The subject of his talk was: "Is overproduction of produce a problem?" Weichec said that over-production is a problem and one solution is for the farmer to cut back on his production so as to avoid flooding the market and driving down prices. Finding new expert markets for fresh produce is another solution, he said.

Ag-Bag System

"It's in the Bag" is more than a catch-word on the Flynn farm. The Flynn brothers, Gene, Tom and Adrian, use a two-ply plastic bagging system, called the Ag-Bag, to store haylage and silage.

Advantages of the bag system. Several plus factors are cited for this bagging system. It is effective, economical and helps the dairyman get maximum utilization from forage crops. Mix rations as you feed.

Frank Weichec, fresh produce wholesaler, chats with part of audience following talk in Bucks County.

The ports of Philadelphia, New York and Miami are exporting more produce than ever before, and by increasing this tonnage to new markets, the surplus that now plagues area farmers would be lessened. His own company goes as far as New Zealand for produce in season, and high speed methods of transport make it possible to have fresh produce on a year-round basis.

The Company starts its purchases in California, then moves to Mexico, Texas, Florida and the Carolinas, before warm weather gets to New Jersey and Pennsylvania. In the summer months, the majority of the produce moves from Pennsylvania and New Jersey farms through the Food Distribution Center in South Philadelphia to various customers.

According to Weichec, the produce business is still a "take a man's word for it" type of business.

Buying coast to coast, they cannot see the fruit or vegetables that they are purchasing, so they must trust the word of the man they are dealing with.

About 90 persons attended the meeting. One purpose of the get-together was to acquaint business people with the problems of the farmer in growing, transporting and selling fresh produce. Weichec was presented with a citation of thanks for appearing before the group, and also in "appreciation of his understanding of the Free Enterprise Spirit."

"I used the same amount of nitrogen on both parts of one field. I broadcast it all on one part and split the application on the other. We sidedressed the corn under good conditions with 1" of rain the same day...I feel sidedressing definitely paid."

—Franklin County Farmer

"I sidedressed about ten acres of my corn this year. What I expect to do next year is to do a lot more sidedressing and use more nitrogen. I know it paid and paid big."

GONE WITH THE WIND?

When leaves crumble and blow away, you're out protein and money.

Beacon Hay Pre-Serv can put an end to leaf shatter. Dryness can cause nutrients to blow away, disappear in the fields or on the wagon. That not only robs cows of the protein they need, it means you have to purchase more protein for your dairy ration.

With economical, easy-to-apply Hay Pre-Serv, you can cut at up to 25% moisture, and get less leaf shatter, more palatable hay, and 10% more of it! You can bale earlier in the day or later in the evening, and even on cloudy days when the hay is well above 18% moisture.

So start using Beacon Hay Pre-Serv and put an end to nutrients and proteins that are gone with the wind. Start saving today... see your Beacon Advisor or Beacon dealer.

ROBBED AGAIN?

Reduce shrinkage and energy loss with Beacon Silage Pre-Serv.*

Beacon Pre-Serv has a consistent formula of organic acids — natural aids to silage conversion — that encourage bacteria already present in the silage to produce excellent low heat fermentation of forages, so you get more hay crop silage for feeding.

University tests of Pre-Serv treated silage stored in a bunker silo achieve: 8.64% more dry matter, 9.3% more energy, and 6.3% more protein.

So don't be robbed of digestible nutrients — be rewarded with more milk from your cows! Use highly effective Beacon Pre-Serv... liquid or dry. It's another way to Bank on Beacon.

Conrad Weiser FFA banquet features 'aerial farm quiz'

ROBESONIA — Highlights of this year's Annual Future Farmers of America banquet included appearances of Bruce Kettler, National FFA Eastern Regional Vice President; Bruce Latshaw, State FFA Chaplain; and Conrad Weiser's own Debbie Miller, State FFA Reporter, and Glenn Wenger, State FFA Alumni President. The banquet was held March 17th at the high school.

A slide show was presented by Frank Hess, math teacher at Conrad Weiser. The program consisted of aerial photographs of farms in the area. Many of those attending had some trouble recognizing their own farms. One pound of seed corn was given to those adults scoring in the top three places on the identification quiz. John Itle, the district manager of Hoffman Seeds donated the prizes.

Retiring chapter officers were given special plaques to recognize the outstanding work they have done for the chapter. Plaques were given to Scott Troutman, President; Paulene Noss, Secretary; Tim Gelsinger, Treasurer; Andy Hess, Reporter; and Mike Miller, Sentinel.

Honorary Chapter Farmer degrees were presented to Mr. & Mrs. George Troutman, parents of President Scott Troutman, and also David Moerder, and Greg Kirschman, industrial art teachers, and Mr. Hassler, head custodian at the high school.

Stephen Miller, chapter advisor, presented Keystone Farmer Degree winners - C. Andrew Hess, Mike Miller and Scott Troutman - with a key chain to recognize their achievements. Miller also recognized Harold Heck as the recipient of the Honorary Keystone Farmer Degree. Donald Feeg was presented a special plaque as an American Farmer Degree recipient this past November at the National FFA Convention.

Special recognition trophies were given to state FFA contest winners. Scott Troutman received a gold medal in Dairy Cattle Judging, Jon Sonnen received a bronze in Land Judging, and Paulene Noss received a 1st place for the eastern region for the number of magazine articles she submitted to the Keystone Farmer Magazine while she served as Chapter Reporter last year. Also, Eric Fisher, Tim Gelsinger, and Andrew Hess received state chorus pins for participating in state FFA chorus at the summer convention.

FFA Foundation Awards were presented by Franklin Troutman, Conrad Weiser FFA Alumni President, to members for their outstanding supervised occupational experience (SOE) program. The following members completed a state proficiency award application in each area and the applications were judged by an Alumni committee:

Ag Processing, Andrew Hess; Beef Production, Richard Wilson; Dairy Production, Scott Troutman; Tracy Smith and John Stauffer; Fish and Wildlife Management, Christa Ruoss; Fruit and/or Vegetable Gardening Production, Andrew Grajewski, Terry Mowrer, Doug Zimmerman, Troy Cox; Placement in Ag Production, Garth Warzenluft and Chris Zwicky; Swine Production, Brian Schaeffer and Paulene Noss.

FFA jacket pins were awarded to the following students for outstanding scholarship in agriculture classes and other academic classes: 9th grade, Heath Edwards; 10th grade, Michele Gelsinger; 11th grade, Christa Ruoss; 12th grade, Eric Fisher.

Awards for outstanding leadership were presented to Tim Gelsinger, 12th grade, and Daryl Schaeffer, 9th grade.

Chapter Star Awards were given to David Musser, Star Greenhand; Scott Troutman, Star Chapter Farmer; Doug Zimmerman, Star Chapter Agribusinessman and Mike Miller, DeKalb Award (outstanding senior).

There also was a slide presentation, which showed the activities of the chapter and members over the past year.

Lehigh County FFA banquet features Western theme

SCHNECKSVILLE — The Lehigh County FFA kicked off activities for National Agriculture Week at the chapter's 12th annual parent-member banquet at the Lehigh County Vo-Tech School last Saturday.

Cindy Clymer, president of the Lehigh County FFA, greeted the parents, members, and guests to the banquet attended by more than 350.

A "western theme" was incorporated into the banquet via the decorations of split rail fences, bales of hay and straw, feed bags, saddles, and other farm equipment. The buffet dinner featured a western style menu from the "chuckwagon" and was prepared by students in the food preparation class at the vo-tech school, under the direction of Dean Ritter, Food Prep Instructor.

Greetings from the Pennsylvania State FFA Association were extended by Deborah Miller, state reporter, Michael Pfautz, eastern region vice president, Bruce Latshaw, state chaplain, and Barry Geib, state treasurer. These officers assisted in handing out the awards.

Glenn Wenger, State FFA Alumni President, delivered a message to the group concerning the alumni association, its function and purposes, and its values to vocational agriculture students. Glenn also introduced the guest speaker Bruce Kettler, National FFA Vice President from Anna, Ohio. This marked the first time a national officer was in attendance at a local banquet.

The following parents and friends of the FFA were presented certificates of appreciation for their cooperation, assistance, and encouragement to the FFA members: Mr. & Mrs. Nelson Clymer, Mr. & Mrs. Paul Drissel, Mr. & Mrs. Henry Holtzhafer, Mr. & Mrs. Ernest Rohrbach, Mr. & Mrs. Richard Wolf, Mr. & Mrs. Norman George, Mr. & Mrs. Maurice Blose, Mr. & Mrs. Ronald Kocher, Mr. & Mrs. Wayne Frantz, and Peters Bros. Meat Market.

The following FFA members received the Chapter Farmer Degree: Gary Beers, Wescosville; Beth Benitez, Coopersburg; Kevin Blose, Allentown; David Brannan, Emmaus; Kevin Grate, Allentown; Darin Handwerk,

Slatington; Brian Hockman, Coopersburg; Ray Kocher, Wescosville; Jane Snyder, Allentown; Ronald Verba, Slatington; Clifford Weighknecht, Coopersburg; Bonnie Wessner, New Tripoli; and Jodi Wetherhold, Allentown.

For their time and effort in supporting, assisting, and promoting the FFA and the vocational agricultural program, Honorary Chapter Farmer Degrees were bestowed upon Dick Anglestein, Lancaster Farming; Dr. Edgar Balliet III, veterinarian; Henry Gruber, A&B Company; Mr. & Mrs. Anthony Koehler, TV Service; Walter Kuchinos, Lehigh County Vo-Tech School Cooperative Education Office; and William Sharkan, Superintendent Northern Lehigh School District.

Charles Suloff, Farm Credit Service, presented the Lehigh County FFA Record Keeping Contest award to Leslie Lazarus. Other special awards included a certificate of appreciation by William Sharkan, Supt., Northern Lehigh School District, to the vo-tech landscaping class for their fine work in constructing a memorial arboretum, and the Lehigh Florist Association award to Cindy Clymer.

Dean Ritter, vo-tech school teacher in food preparation, was presented a gold watch from the FFA chapter for his service to the chapter over the years.

Special plaques were given to Bonnie Wessner for her placing 1st in the State Livestock Judging contest and gaining a bronze medal in the National FFA livestock judging contest. Also, Stephen Ortiz received a plaque for his 4th place finish at the state contest and 4th place at the Eastern States Exposition.

Foundation awards for ag proficiency included Beef Production, Gary George; Diversified livestock, Leslie Lazarus; Floriculture, Cindy Clymer; Nursery operation, Chris Benchini; Ornamental Horticulture, Amy Ferguson; Sheep Production, Joshua Grim.

Swine Production, Bonnie Wessner & Todd Bennicoff; Turf & Landscape, John Delong; Landscape Design, Kevin Grate; Tree & Turf, Stephen Ortiz; FFA Creed, Bonnie Wessner; Scholarship, Stephen Ortiz.

Star Chapter Greenhands were Floriculture, Jane Snyder; Horticulture, Kevin Blose; and Agriculture Production, Bonnie Wessner.

Star Chapter Farmers were Floriculture, Carol Holtzhafer; Horticulture, Stephen Ortiz; and Agriculture Production, Leslie Lazarus.

Star Agribusinesspersons were Floriculture, Cindy Clymer; and Horticulture, Melissa Weaver.

2 Twin Valley FFA'ers at Nolde

ELVERSON — Two students from the Twin Valley Future Farmers of America chapter are attending a career program at Nolde Forest. Kevin Greist and Pam Trostle are learning about career opportunities in the environment. In addition to environmentally related careers, the students are learning about environmental problems, their controls and actions being taken.

The students in the class hear speakers from all types of environmentally related careers including, Dr. Zervano, a professional at Penn State; Chuck Emery, an aquatic biologist for the Pa. Game Commission; Ron Horn, an employee at Titus Station Electric generating plant; and Joel Burcat, an environmental lawyer.

Some of the additional activities include a stream and soil study, a mock hearing, a public survey and a chance to see how an aquatic biologist studies the fish population of a stream by inducing an electrical shock.

The Nolde program, Careers in the Environment, is a unique opportunity for any student interested in a career relating to the environment. The program presents many chances for its students to explore various careers.

MORE FOR LESS.

The Storage System for the future. Here Now!

THE AG-BAG SYSTEM

MORE FEED. MORE STORAGE. MORE HIGH QUALITY TDN & PROTEIN.

Select from three models of AG-BAG Machines. Motorized, Hydraulic, and Gear-Driven. AG-BAG lets you match the machine to your job. Big or small. Whether you're DAIRY or BEEF AG-BAG will store More For Less. The AG-BAG System. Air-tight storage with more versatility than any other system. Just look at these AG-BAG ADVANTAGES:

1. UNLIMITED oxygen-limiting storage
2. Storage for ALL forages & grain

3. Transportable
4. Easy to use and little maintenance
5. NO dangerous silo gases
6. Silo fires WON'T occur
7. Higher moisture forage
8. NO unloader to break down
9. Extra income and potential from custom bagging
10. THE Forage System for the 80's

JUST LISTEN TO WHAT THESE AG-BAG BELIEVERS HAVE TO SAY:

Kenneth Popham of Floresville, Texas

Kenneth runs a 465 cow Dairy and said this about AG-BAG: "At today's interest rates you can't afford any other type of storage... Even with the yearly cost of bags it's still inexpensive storage... a whole lot cheaper than building barns and hiring help. I put up 13 bags last year and after seeing the results, I'll put up 25 bags this year. The bags are a good thing."

Don Carter of Parkdale, Oregon

"The best move I ever made"... says Don Carter in reference to his switch to bagging silage on his dairy near Parkdale, Oregon. "I get 18% more feed from the same acreage and the feed lasts three times as long. I used to clean my bunks after three days, now I only need to clean them after 10 days."

Roland Rasmussen of Blair, Nebraska

"In addition to everything else, it's a management tool"... says rancher, Roland Rasmussen of Blair, Nebraska.

Roland farms 350 acres west of Blair, Nebraska, and fattens about 650 cattle from 600 lbs. to finish.

"By labeling every bag as to date and kind of feed, I can mix my feeds and eliminate the guess work in making a ration. I feed alfalfa silage, corn silage and ground ear corn stored exclusively in the bags, purchasing only my minerals and vitamin supplements."

"The AG-BAG system has enabled me to increase carrying capacity per acre at a reduced cost of gain."

Bert Anderson of Sceptre, Saskatchewan

"At least 30% more feed... I can guarantee at least that"... says rancher, Bert Anderson, of Sceptre, Saskatchewan.

"I've been able to cut my grain feeding costs in half since converting to the bagging. It's just like feeding grass. I've also eliminated the need for a liquid supplement that we always fed before going to the AG-BAG System..."

HERE'S WHAT THE AG-BAG SYSTEM CAN DO FOR YOU

1 BAG	150 TONS
6 BAGS	900 TONS
12 BAGS	1,800 TONS
24 BAGS	3,600 TONS
48 BAGS	7,200 TONS

Thomas Butler abroad for FFA

BURLINGTON, N.J. — Thomas A. Butler Jr., from the Northern Burlington FFA Chapter, will participate in the Work Experience Abroad program in June.

Butler will get agricultural and horticultural work experience for six months in the international educational exchange program between the Future Farmers of America and rural youth organizations in other countries.

Butler will be living with a family and learning their way of life as well as their form of agriculture.

Butler started his career in FFA by placing second in the N.J. State FFA Agriculture Mechanics contest and went on to the national contest in Kansas City where he received a silver medal.

Butler is the son of Thomas and Shirley Butler Sr. from R1, Burlington.

IPM program steadily expands in Md.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Integrated Pest Management is more than just a tool for the enhancement of production agriculture, declares Galen P. Dively, Extension IPM specialist in the entomology department at the University of Maryland.

True enough, IPM can play a part in boosting crop yields by helping to control weed, disease and insect pests. But that is not its main goal, Dively said.

"The real benefits of pest management include enabling farmers and homeowners to use chemicals effectively and only when necessary. This judicious use of pesticide application, in turn, can become a public benefit by minimizing nonpoint pollution in waterways and environmental hazards for wildlife."

From his College Park headquarters, Dively has directed the statewide Extension IPM program in Maryland since its inception in 1972. The state Department of Agriculture joined the endeavor in 1976. And Extension agricultural agents have coordinated the joint program in individual counties.

In its first year, the Maryland IPM program involved a pilot project for insect control in sweet corn and lima bean fields on the Delmarva peninsula. Funds were provided by a federal grant. That activity is now entirely self-sustaining, paid for by commercial canners who became convinced of its value on their acreage contracted with individual growers.

Next, the Maryland IPM program shifted its emphasis to coordinated pest management for soybean farmers on the Eastern Shore. This involved both hiring field scouts for insect surveys and release of parasitic wasps to help control the Mexican bean beetle.

In 1977 a program began for integrated pest management in alfalfa fields in the Piedmont area, north and west of the Chesapeake Bay. By 1978, IPM became a partly self-supporting activity when soybean and small grain growers in some Eastern Shore counties agreed to participation fees which would pay the salary of a field scout, plus expenses, for each 2,500 acres of sign-up.

A similar system was extended in subsequent years to corn and alfalfa growers in central and western Maryland.

An urban IPM program for homeowners became operational in 1980 after two years of testing on a pilot basis. It, too, is largely self-supporting.

That same year, IPM expanded its service to both farmers and urban-dwellers by including weeds as well as insects in its scouting program. Soil testing service also came along at that time as part of the IPM program.

Demonstration plots were begun last year on 17 farms, including the University of Maryland's Wye Research and Educational Center near Queenstown, to show the value of controlling large-seeded broadleaf weeds in soybean fields.

For 1983, Dively plans to continue with the soybean demonstration plots. He also hopes to set up demonstration plots to show the value of good weed control in alfalfa, both in terms of yield and quality.

Plant disease information will be a new dimension in scouting reports for IPM participants.

Other Extension educational activities planned in connection with the Maryland IPM program include demonstrations on proper calibration and selection of spray nozzles, updating current decisionmaking guidelines and improving published weed identification materials made available to scouts and participating growers.

The traditional weekly newsletter of scouting report summaries will be continued for all IPM participants during the growing season, along with IPM educational workshops at various locations.

New planned areas of growth include a possible IPM program for Maryland Christmas tree growers and expansion of the urban IPM program to additional communities to include new clientele such as owners of townhouses. Decisionmaking guidelines will be added which pertain to gypsy moth control.

On the Eastern Shore, the light trap activity will be expanded to include growers of market sweet

Pa. wines 'tasting better each year'

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania wine industry, reborn in 1968, is celebrating its 15th anniversary in style, with proof that its product is growing better each year.

A total of 70 wines from 22 state wineries recently captured gold, silver and bronze medallions at the 1983 Pennsylvania Wine Competition.

State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell said the state's 33 limited wineries produced more than 250,000 gallons of wine in 1982, and had sales of 214,469 gallons, an increase of 19 percent over 1981.

"Our fine Pennsylvania wines are developing a following among consumers," Hallowell said. "They are rightly becoming recognized as quality products available at reasonable prices. The 70 wines which received medallions at the Wine Competition underscores the growing quality of our state's domestic wines and the skill of our vintners."

The competition took place at L'Ecole de Vin, the wine tasting school in Philadelphia. Under the direction of Robert Perna, director of the unique and prestigious school, 162 wines were judged objectively for overall quality.

The winning wineries and their wines are:

corn. Pheromone traps will be added to the current network of light traps in order to monitor more precisely the activity of certain insect species.

A pilot IPM project for commercial tomato growers is scheduled to get under way this year in Dorchester county.

Finally, effort will be made to computerize all IPM scouting information so as to provide field history and seasonal activity summaries to participating growers throughout the state.

More information on IPM programs in specific localities is available from county Extension offices throughout the state.

Breeding lean hogs expected to continue

LINCOLN, Neb. — Selecting breeding swine for leanness generally has slowed if not stopped in the last six years but possibilities for further progress are good.

This view is expressed by Gordon E. Dickerson, of USDA's Agricultural Research Service. A member of the staff of the Roman L. Hruska U.S. Meat Animal Research Center, Dickerson conducts studies at Lincoln on the effects of genetic changes for alternative management, marketing and breeding systems.

The scientist suggests that future price incentives for producing lean pork eventually will lead to a decrease in the average percentage of fat in hog carcasses from the present plateau of about 30 percent. Chicken and turkey carcasses are in the range of 10 to 15 percent.

Dickerson observed that generally the most important swine breeding objective could become breeding for leanness.

There's one kicker. Breeding for leanness is not likely to become more important unless prices that farmers receive will be based on retail value of the meat rather than on live weight.

"If you're not being paid for lean value, little is gained by increasing leanness," says Dickerson. "One reason is that faster lean gain requires more protein feed supplement and increases cost of the hog's diet. Also leaner sows will have higher feed requirements."

Will there be a trend toward realistic premiums for leanness? The breeder has to try to look ahead. One way or another, Dickerson says, it seems that markets must move toward paying for the real meat value in market hogs.

A means of achieving more realistic prices could be widespread use of some trustworthy system of animal identification and carcass grading on the basis of lean yield, Dickerson says. However, until lean hogs become more prevalent or yield grading is generally practiced, many packers may be reluctant to discriminate on the basis of yield because of fear that producers may not bring enough hogs in to keep the individual packers' slaughter lines operating steadily at full tilt.

Also, holding back further movement toward leanness is breeders' concern about association of leanness with pork stress syndrome (PSS)—a malady that causes death losses of hogs on their way to market and soft pork. But Dickerson says research at Iowa State University and in Europe is pointing to ways that this hindrance may be overcome.

Bulging or double muscling has been associated with PSS. But it's not necessary to have bulging muscles to have a lean animal, the researcher says. Breeders who have selected for leanness by visual appraisal of muscling prominence may have tended to select animals with PSS. Testing for leanness with backfat probes or ultrasonic techniques can help breeders identify lean hogs that don't necessarily have bulging muscles, Dickerson says.

If improvements in selection for leanness and payment of adequate premiums for lean come about, the consumer will benefit. For every pound of lean pork the public consumes, there would be less overhead investment in feed and non-feed costs on the farm.

The researchers' production system model was used to indicate how a given reduction in percentage of carcass fat changes the cost of producing pork under various sets of conditions. Information in the model comes from research on genetics, energy metabolism, physiology, meats, management and marketing.

According to the model, a 20 percent decrease in body fat content along with a 20 percent increase in growth rate in hogs marketed at a given age should reduce total costs per pound of carcass lean by about 14 percent. That's a 5 percent reduction in total costs per pound of live weight.

Assuming that the producer is getting paid for hams and pork chops instead of live weight, it's more important to make that decrease in fatness than it is to make that increase in growth rate, especially if marketing is at a fixed weight, says Dickerson. Moreover, the heritability for fatness is almost twice as high as it is for growth rate. However, without a premium for leanness, less fat actually increases costs and faster gains are beneficial only if pigs are marketed at the heavier weights for the same age.

"This research on modeling has toned down our excitement about growth rate, especially when the growth rate is associated with heavier sows with higher overhead costs," says Dickerson. "It has highlighted the potential importance of reducing fat and increasing litter size."

In breeds used to produce replacement crossbred gilts, increasing leanness is more important and faster growth is nearly as important as these goals are in breeds used only to sire market pigs. That's because of the byproduct market barrows produced with the gilt replacements.

Aerial cover crop seeding is studied

NEWARK, Del. — Cover crop stands from aerial seedings into standing soybeans range from complete success to near total failure, much to the frustration of farmers who try this approach. University of Delaware extension agronomist William H. Mitchell decided to find out why results are so variable.

Last summer, he planted 10 popular soybean varieties at the university's Newark farm and arranged to aerial seed the plots with hairy vetch later in the season. Soybeans were planted May 6, May 27, and June 18, in 7-, 14-, and 28-inch rows. On August 4, the vetch was flown on from a height of 500 feet at a rate of 20 pounds of seed per acre.

The soybeans were at varying growth stages ranging from prebloom to early pod formation when hit with the vetch seed. The silt loam soil was uncultivated and compacted as a result of surface sealing by heavy rains. Some seed fell into cracks and crevices but otherwise there was little opportunity for soil coverage of the seed. There was no leaf drop at the time of seeding. Weed control in plots was estimated to be 90 percent or better, so soybeans provided the only shading.

Mitchell rated the vetch stands in November following soybean harvest. He found that all factors—variety, row width and planting date—had a significant effect on vetch establishment.

"When viewed across all planting dates and row spacings, variety had the greatest effect on the density of vetch cover crop," Mitchell says. "We found dense stands in plantings of Williams, Union and Miles soybeans. In rows planted to late varieties such as Essex, Asgrow 5474 and Bay, vetch stands were almost a total failure."

Cover crop stands improved across all varieties as row widths widened from 7 to 28 inches, the agronomist says. Stand density was greatest in soybeans planted May 6 and dropped steadily as planting was delayed. Union and Miles varieties were least affected by planting date, whereas vetch stand density in Williams and AP350 varieties was clearly higher when these soybeans were planted May 6.

Summarizing his findings, Mitchell concludes: "Hairy vetch can be established in soybeans prior to leaf drop by aerial seeding. Best results can be expected when relatively nonbranching varieties are planted early in wide rows. An exception may be the narrow leaf Miles soybean in which density of the vetch cover was high regardless of planting date."

More Research Needed

American consumers are going to have to be willing to spend more money on basic agricultural research if they expect to keep eating inexpensive food. That's the feeling of a lot of agricultural scientists around the country. They say the basic need is to speed up the rate at which new knowledge is being generated so that agricultural growth can keep pace with population gains.

Granted, these agricultural researchers have their own bias. They believe in agricultural research and they think more of it should be done. Maybe there's a thread of self-preservation in their plan, but they make a fairly strong point in favor of more research.

Agriculture has made great strides over the last half century. Most of this was accomplished through the discovery of new agricultural knowledge and the application of that knowledge. During that period, the researchers say new agricultural knowledge was being generated faster than it was being used. So, in the 1950s and 60s there was a vast technological reservoir that could be drawn from. As a result, farm production increased by leaps and bounds between 1950 and 1970. Consider these facts. Corn yields, which had fluctuated around 20 bushels per acre for a century or more, shot up to more than 80 bushels per acre on the average. Milk yields increased by half; red meat yields in hogs rose 11 percent. Feed efficiency in broilers increased 18 percent.

Going Dry

feel strongly that the reservoir is running dry, that during the 1970's increased production has come from expanded acreage rather than increased yields. And with an increasing population and a shrinking land base, that option won't solve America's food problems forever.

The agricultural researchers believe the easy work has been done, that in the future agricultural breakthroughs will require more time, more effort and more money. But sadly the trend has been in the other direction. In recent years there's been a decline in the resources devoted to agricultural research. Inflation has caused an erosion of facilities and financial support and there's been an actual reduction in agricultural research manpower. Along with that reduction has come the added burden of meeting the environmental and regulatory concerns surrounding agriculture.

Loss Of Scientists

One group of agricultural researchers has documented its loss of capacity this way. During the 1970's the state agricultural experiment station throughout the country had a net loss of almost 200 scientists. In addition, 350 scientists, or the positions of that many scientists, had to be reassigned to meet new and urgent environmental, regulatory and food safety concerns involving agriculture. This means that the equivalent of about 550 agricultural scientists across the nation are not doing the research that they used to be doing. Important research in genetics, physiology, nutrition, fertility—research that may soon be desperately needed to meet increased food demands. Research that is time-consuming, expensive, but very necessary.

Agricultural researchers look back at the development of hybrid corn and what it has meant to our food-producing capacity and they warn that such a dramatic development won't be forthcoming. We may wish for this kind of magic, but it just isn't there. The research accomplishments of the future will be hard to come by, relatively expensive and yet totally necessary. They say consumer activists, political leaders, and humanists throughout the country must realize the importance of basic agricultural research and the urgency with which it must be pursued.

Right now there seems to be time to proceed in an orderly fashion toward a stepped-up agricultural research effort. But when an expanding population and a shrinking land base crash into one another there may not be time to mount a basic food production research effort.

Limousin sire summary has 1,100 entries

DENVER — The North American Limousin Foundation has released its 1983 Limousin Sire Summary, the largest one the breed has ever published. The summary has more than 1,100 entries, nearly three times the number in last year's publication.

Greg Martin, NALF executive vice president, says the increase is due in part to a new method of comparing bulls called the genetic relationship matrix.

The Limousin Foundation is the first breed association to use the matrix technique to compute all four of the performance traits listed in the summary. As a result, the summary includes more young bulls, and the accuracy for each bull is improved.

The 1983 Limousin Sire Summary also uses a new rating system, so the reader can tell at a glance if a bull excels in more than one area. The rating for each trait is an A, B, C, D or E, depending on the bull's percentile ranking. The four traits rated are birth weight, weaning weight, yearling weight and maternal value.

The summary lists the top 50 bulls in each trait, and gives an "honor roll list" of the bulls that excel in at least three traits and are average or better in the fourth.

The Limousin Sire Summary uses a cross-reference system of indexing, with bulls listed both in alphabetical order and in numerical sequence of registration numbers. For the first time, this year's summary includes the name and location of each bull's owner to help breeders obtain semen information.

Requests for the new Limousin Sire Summary should be made by writing to the North American Limousin Foundation, 100 Livestock Exchange Building, Denver, CO 80216.

Hoshall discusses beef health

The Berks Co. 4-H Beef Club held their monthly meeting on Feb. 28. Dr. Dennis Hoshall of Oley was the speaker on the subject of care and health of 4-H beef animals.

The Club will take a tour of the MOPAC packing plant of Souderton on April 4. The club discussed moving the roundup to the Reading Fair.

The next meeting will be held on March 28, at the Ag. Center. Members are encouraged to bring questions that will be used for the livestock bowl.
